GROUP IN HOUSE LAYS HAWAIIAN STRIFE TO JUDD

Specifically Points Out Pardoning of Boxer in Attack Case.

MITCHELL PRESSES HIS INVESTIGATION

Island Legislators Are Called Into Special Session by Governor.

(Associated Press.)

The investigating arm of the Justice Department pushed quietly but relentlessly yesterday into legal justice in Honolulu while four Americans awaited trial for a killing that riveted attention here on crime conditions in the island territory.

Amid offers of help from the Navy and Interior Department and a House committee's report blaming Gov. Judd of Hawaii for conditions climaxed by the murder of a native accused of attacking a white woman, Attorney General Mitchell's assistants silently dug into official reports on law and enforcement.

Senator McKellar, of Tennessee, meanwhile introduced another resolution for direct investigation by a special Senate committee.

It was said at the Justice Department a preliminary survey under a Senate mandate might be completed within about ten days. Then Attorney General Mitchell probably will announce his judgment on the extent of further investigation required.

Lawyers Make Study.

The Attorney General himself turned to other things yesterday, but lawyers in the department studied the establishment for administering justice in Hawaii, and current reports, including two new communications to the Interior Department.

Secretary Wilbur transmitted the reports without disclosing their contents. He did say, however, that the case of Lieut. Thomas Massie, Mrs. Granville R. Fortescue and two naval enlisted men, charged with murder to avenge Mrs. Massie, was the first crime to come to department attention since the ancient kingdom of Queen Liliuokalani applied for annexation and got it in 1900.

A house naval subcommittee considering the Massie case concluded with a two-hour discussion with Admiral Pratt, chief of naval operations, and others.

Chairman McClintic said it found that Gov. Judd was largely to blame for conditions because he pardoned a native boxer accused of assault. The group also recommended empowering the governor by organic law to remove officials guilty of malfeasance

To Call on Governor.

While Judd himself communicated countercriticism of the American press, Admiral Pratt instructed the commander in chief of forces at Hawaii to call on the governor when the fleet goes there next month.

Pratt emphasized that Navy men would be on their honor. He said: "Retaliation and reprisal in any form although often human, is rarely justifiable except as a last resort."

Oahu, the island on which Honolulu is located, was exempted from the archipelago territory which Navy forces may visit. Pratt said, "The curtailment of the visit of the battle force to Honolulu is not to be construed as an attempt to cut short the visit of the fleet in Hawaiian waters unless the interests of the fleet demand it."

Of Oahu, he commented, "The time is not propitious for a visit there."

Gov. Judd cabled Delegate Houston of Hawaii that conditions in Hawaii

Senate Votes Fund For Arms Session

$450,000 for Expenses of Geneva Delegates Authorized.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday adopted a resolution authorizing an appropriation of $450,000 for expenses of the American delegation to the Geneva disarmament conference.

The Senate foreign relations committee sanctioned the inter-American arbitration treaty drafted at the Pan-American conference at Havana in 1928, with two reservations.

Chairman Borah explained one of these is to preserve with the Senate the right to approve any special arbitration agreement. The other provides the treaty shall not be applicable to treaties already in effect, which is similar to reservations adopted by South American countries.

Mrs. Caraway Winner By Sweeping Plurality

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 13 (U.P.).—Mrs. Hattie Caraway had won a sweeping victory tonight in her race for the Senate seat formerly held by her husband, the late Thaddeus H. Caraway. Nearly complete returns from Tuesday's State election indicated her victory would be even greater than anticipated.

Without making a single speech in the campaign which preceded the balloting, Mrs. Caraway led her two Independent Democratic opponents, Rex Floyd and Sam D. Carson, by a margin of 16 to 1. Friends estimated the total vote cast for her would be in the neighborhood of 18,000.

Jan. 13 Heat Record Here Scored at 75

Washington's temperature yesterday set a new high record for this time of year, with a mark of 75 degrees at the Weather Bureau and 80 at the kiosk opposite The Post Building.

Never since the bureau was established in 1871 has the temperature on January 13 exceeded yesterday's official mark. The normal for this time of year is 43 degrees. The 80-degree level was maintained from 3 o'clock to 4, then it dropped three degrees in half an hour. The mercury began to climb yesterday morning at 8 o'clock, when it was 62.

While the heat set a record for January 13, the highest ever reported in any January was 76, which has been reported three times in the 60-year life of the bureau. It reached this mark in 1890, in 1907 and in 1927.

It will be cooler today, the bureau promised, with rain tonight. Tomor-

EUROPE URGED BY MUSSOLINI TO DROP DEBTS

Says End of Reparations Would Bring U. S. Cancellation.

Milan, Italy, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Premier Mussolini advised Europe in an article in his newspaper, Popolo d'Italia, today to cancel reparations as the first step to the world's economic recovery.

The article, which was unsigned, but was known to be from Il Duce's pen, said this undoubtedly would leave the United States in such a position that it would have to follow suit by canceling war debts.

It was Mussolini's second pronouncement through his Milan newspaper within three days of his personal views and therefore of the official policy of Italy.

The article today was spread across the front page of Popolo d'Italia, which since it was founded by Mussolini has been the nearest to an official Italian organ.

Moral Effect on U. S.

The writer pointed out the moral effect that voluntary cancellation of reparations by European states would have on the United States. The American people could not, in the face of that, he said, insist on the payment of war debts and thus appear in history as the only profiteer of the war.

"It would be to the United States' own interest to make this gesture

Sophie, Once Greek Queen, Dead at 61

Sister of Former German Emperor Is Victim of Cancer.

Frankfort-on-Main, Germany, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Former Queen Sophie of Greece, sister of former Kaiser Wilhelm, died at a clinic here tonight after a lingering illness from cancer.

She was 61 years old.

The one-time queen of the Hellenes, had lived in Florence, Italy, since the death of her husband, King Constantine, in exile at Palermo on January 11, 1923. She came to Frankfort last November to see a specialist, who operated on her November 12, but found her ailment too far advanced for successful treatment.

During the last week, she underwent a series of relapses. Her children, George, Paul, Helen—Queen of Roumania—and Irene, were called to the bedside each time.

SENATE PASSES LAND BANK BILL AS SLUMP CURE

Will Give $125,000,000 to Help Debtors to Farm System.

MEASURE EXPECTED TO AID AGRICULTURE

House Pushes Debate Upon Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

The Senate authorized the second major project in the nonpartisan reconstruction program yesterday when it approved the House bill directing the Treasury to subscribe $125,000,000 additional capital in the Federal Land Bank System.

Passed by the House before the Christmas recess, the measure now goes to conference, with the prospect that it may become law this week. There are no vital differences between the House and Senate on the measure as it now stands.

At the same time the House pushed through its debate on the $2,000,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and near the end of the day Republican leaders carried word to President Hoover that this measure also might be ready for his signature this week.

Should the Democratic leadership in the House permit this program to be carried through, two of the most important phases of the emergency rehabilitation program might be in operation well before February 1.

Funds for Distressed Debtors.

The Senate modified the House bill on the enlargement of the Federal Land Bank capital by earmarking $25,000,000 of the additional Treasury subscription for the relief of distressed debtors of the system. But no specific provisions for the use of this fund were written into the bill. The administration of the earmarked fund is left with the managers of the existing banking organization. It does, however, provide additional funds with which the Land Banks may, if they wish, extend time on loan installments due from those unable to pay their interest this year.

Senator Black (Democrat), Alabama, offered the amendment, which was approved by a vote of 49 to 29. The measure then was passed without a record vote.

The prospective new capital in the Federal Land Banks is expected to ease greatly the agricultural credit situation throughout the country, and to restore about $1,000,000,000 of outstanding Land Bank bonds to their real value on the open market.

The delinquency of many borrowers and the consequent depression in the bonds of the Land Bank System has worked hardship on bondholders and thereby served to aggravate the credit stringency both in the cities and rural communities.

Legal Safeguards Kept.

Fears that the Black amendment might undermine the Land Bank System were dispelled by the Senate debate. In no way does the amendment remove the legal safeguards around any of the banks' outstanding loans. Nor does it alter the existing administrative system of the Land Banks. They have been granting extensions to meritorious borrowers right along. The Black amendment merely provides great reserves for these such operations.

Through some 4,500 affiliated local loan associations, the Federal Land Bank System has loaned about $1,200,000,000 to farmers throughout the country during the last thirteen years. Its outstanding bonds today aggregate approximately $1,175,000,000.

The additional capital provided in the bill now in conference is adequate to assure par values on the outstanding Land Bank bonds for at least two years. It will also permit of the quick expansion of farm credits

REVENGE HELD AS THEORY IN DUAL MURDER

Suspect Reported Seen Here as Automobile Is Found at Bridge.

WIDOW OF BANKER AND MAID VICTIMS

Citizens of Middleburg, Va., Offer $500 Reward for Capture of Slayer.

Closing of the police net about George Crawford, colored, who is suspected as the murderer who beat Mrs. Agnes Boeing Ilsley and her maid to death in the society woman's Middleburg, Va., cottage, seemed sure last night when detectives here received information that he had been seen in a downtown section.

It was reported that he was observed in company with another colored man who was unshaven. A renewal of the lookout was broadcast and officers began a search of all colored hotels and rooming houses.

With the finding last night of the stolen car used by the murderer, search for the suspect was centralized in Washington.

Evidence Is Found.

Detective Sergt. Dennis Murphy, of the local homicide squad, who is working with Middleburg, Va., and Loudoun County authorities, said he believed evidence found in the automobile will lead to Crawford's early apprehension.

He would not state the nature of the material discovered which led to this conclusion. The car was found on the Alexandria road just south of the Highway bridge by Homer Jenkins, of Alexandria, an employe of the Cauliflower Coal Co.

Fingerprint Discovered.

He told police he first noticed it about noon. Murphy, with other detectives, made a cursory examination of the automobile and it was brought into the police garage here. A fingerprint was discovered on the rear vision mirror.

A detailed search for fingerprints can not be made until daylight, the officers said. In the car was found a gunny sack, Mrs. Ilsley's registration card and an old pair of woman's shoes.

Twenty-four hours before she and her maid were brutally beaten to death, Mrs. Ilsley sought the aid of the William J. Burns Detective Agency here for protection against Crawford, it was learned last night.

Found Dead in Rooms.

Mrs. Ilsley and the maid, Mrs. Minna Dorothy Buckner, 65, of Rockville, Md., were found dead in their rooms in a cottage, which was part of the Middleburg estate of Mrs. Ilsley.

Paul Boeing, the society woman's brother, found the bodies about 9 o'clock yesterday morning, when he came for breakfast. He had been sleeping in the large colonial manor house on the estate, because it had recently been robbed by the man who police suspect of the murders.

With the broadcasting of police lookouts, search for Crawford, a former convict, formerly employed by Mrs. Ilsley, assumed more than State-wide proportions. He was being sought in Washington, Maryland and New Jersey, as well as in Virginia.

Reward Is Announced.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ilsley will be held in Middleburg today. Her body will be sent to Milwaukee. Mrs.

The major-domo of his establishment said that he had been suffering with a cold for several days and that it had been followed by a bronchial attack.

Ten days ago Wilhelm was stricken with an attack of influenza and cold and was ordered to bed by his physicians. Subsequently, it was said that he had completely recovered but was remaining indoors. Today it was said there was no sign of fever but that considerable precautions would be necessary during the next few days.

NEW PARIS CABINET SELECTED BY LAVAL

Premier Gets Briand's Post; Sterner Stand on German Debts Is Seen.

Paris, Jan. 13 (U.P.).—Premier Pierre Laval announced tonight that he had formed a new cabinet. Formation of the cabinet was announced after a conference with President Paul Doumer, in which the president asked Laval to form the new government.

The new cabinet differs from the Laval cabinet which just resigned only in the assumption of the foreign minister's portfolio by Laval, replacing Aristide Briand; assignment of Andre Tardieu, former premier and recently minister of agriculture to succeed the late Andre Maginot as war minister; M. Pierre Cathala becoming minister of interior and Achille Fould, minister of agriculture.

Laval, in replacing Briand, who had been foreign minister for six years and has become an outstanding figure in international affairs, is certain to adopt a sterner policy in dealing with the German reparations question.

The most extreme conciliatory attitude of Briand, which has been criticized by the French Nationalists, will be shelved for a policy such as Laval indicated in his recent speech, denouncing alleged attempts by Germany to evade reparations payments. Laval almost accused Germany of wilfully becoming bankrupt to escape payments.

The premier also will be forced to stiffen French resistance at the Lausanne conference because of certain opposition in Parliament, if he makes important concessions, without corresponding cuts in French war debts payments to Britain and the United States. His failure to persuade the radical party to take part in the government increased the necessity for reinforcing the cabinet's slender majority in Parliament by vigorous action.

The first task of the new government will be to draft instructions for the delegation to the Lausanne conference. A vote of confidence in the cabinet will be sought in the Chamber Thursday or Friday, and

Friend, Mexican Youth Says, Shot U. S. Agent

Nogales, Ariz., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—A 17-year-old Mexican boy, Santiago Aguirre, was captured today by Federal officers and told them that his companion, Alberto Flores, 22, shot and killed Clyde M. Bristow, United States customs officer, when they were stopped for questioning on a road near here last night.

Aguirre was captured in Walker Canyon, 16 miles west of Nogales, by a posse of 100 men. The posse continued a search for Flores. Aguirre was quoted as saying he and Flores ran in different directions.

Smith May Indicate His Course Today

Authority to Enter Name in Bay State Primary Is Sought.

New York, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—The New York Sun today states that former Gov. Alfred E. Smith is expected to tell Democratic leaders in Boston tomorrow whether or not they may enter his name in the presidential primary in Massachusetts in the spring.

The former governor is to speak tomorrow night at the New England dinner to launch in that section of the country the Democratic party's "Victory Drive." Simultaneously Victory Drive dinners will be held by party leaders all over the country. Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt is to speak at the New York City dinner.

But before that dinner, the Sun states, former Gov. Smith will meet a little group of Massachusetts Democratic leaders, including Gov. Joseph B. Ely and Frank Donahue, State chairman, and the conviction among his friends here is that he will interpose no objection if his Massachusetts admirers wish him to run in the primary. He carried Massachusetts in 1928.

Josephus Daniels Hurt in Auto Crash

Former Secretary of Navy to Be Kept in Atlanta Hospital Few Days.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Josephus Daniels, publisher of the Raleigh (N. C.) News and Observer and former Secretary of the Navy, received a badly lacerated scalp and a fracture of the left wrist in an automobile accident here tonight.

Dr. Leroy Childs, attending physician at the hospital to which Mr. Daniels was taken, said he could not be permitted to leave the hospital for several days.

The former Secretary of the Navy in President Wilson's Cabinet was hurt when an automobile belonging to Robert C. Alston, of Atlanta, in which he was riding was swidewiped by a smaller car on Pace's Ferry road. The Alston car left the highway and struck a tree after going off an embankment. Mr. Alston received a cut lip and bruises.

Capture Is Balked By Crazed Trapper

Eight in Northwest Mounted Hurl Dynamite During Siege, but Fail.

Aklavik, Northwest Territory, Jan. 13 (U.P.).—Eight weary, half frozen members of the Royal Canadian mounted police returned tonight to Aklavik after losing a fifteen-hour gun battle with a "bush" crazy trapper who barricaded himself in a dungeon-like cabin.

The police even used dynamite in their attack and blew half the roof off the cabin from which Albert Johnson fired at them with two automatic pistols.

Johnson, wanted for attempted murder of a police constable who once entertained Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, backed into a hillside tunnel when the explosive was tossed, escaped injury, and fought on.

Murray in North Dakota Race, Brother Predicts

Bismarck, N. Dak., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—A brother of Gov. W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray of Oklahoma, today said he expected the latter would be a Democratic presidential candidate in the North Dakota primary election March 15.

The brother, George T. Murray, of Berthold, N. Dak., came here to learn how to enter the governor in the contest.

CHINESE FLEE TOWN, 'INSULTED' BY PRESS

Paraders Protest Story on Attempt by Korean to Kill Emperor.

(Associated Press.)

The center of the Sino-Japanese conflict shifted yesterday to Tsingtao, history-making port in Shantung province, which Japan wrested from the Germans in 1914.

All day long steel-helmeted marines, with fixed bayonets, patrolled the streets of the city, and the flat roof of the Japanese consulate bristled with machine guns.

These extraordinary precautions were taken to prevent repetition of rioting in which a Chinese newspaper office and the headquarters of the Chinese Nationalist party were burned by Japanese demonstrators.

The trouble started when Japanese residents of the city interpreted statements of the paper as insulting to their emperor. Thousands of Chinese fled the city.

Quiet was restored late last night and the marines were returned to warships in the harbor.

Meanwhile, Tienstin reported that Chinese militia bands all over Manchuria were renewing warfare against the Japanese and had succeeded in practically wiping out several small garrisons.

An authoritative spokesman at Tokyo declared that "serious" overtures for direct negotiations, made by China, had been upset by Secretary Stimson's recent note invoking the nine-power treaty in the Manchurian conflict.

In Shanghai the bond exchange was closed because of great declines in domestic issues. The Chinese government, it was reported, had taken strong measures to get financial help from Shanghai bankers.

Tsingtao, China, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Five hundred steel-helmeted marines, carrying fixed bayonets, patroled the streets of Tsingtao today while thousands of Chinese fled the city in fear of possible recurreence of yesterday's rioting.

Late tonight Japanese authorities were satisfied that quiet had been restored.

The trouble started when a Chinese newspaper said the recent attempt by a Korean on the life of Emperor Hirohito indicated Korea's desire for independence.

Japanese residents interpreted this as an insult to the emperor and stormed the newspaper plant. Firing revolvers, they thronged into the building, and the Chinese staff fled

MELLON HOLDS RAISE IN TAXES IS VITAL MOVE

House Committee Is Told Need of Upholding Nation's Credit.

WILL END BORROWING FOR CURRENT OUTLAYS

Backing Wider Income Levy, Secretary Makes Plea for Economy.

(Associated Press.)

Administration plans to balance the Government's budget through increased taxation and economies as the necessary step to maintain unimpaired Federal credit were unfolded yesterday by Secretary Mellon and Undersecretary Mills, of the Treasury.

Appearing as the first witness before the Democratic House ways and means committee that will formulate new revenue legislation, they said in no uncertain terms that additional revenue was imperative to keep the Government on a sound financial basis.

They stressed that the Government would abandon on June 30 borrowing money through bond issues for operating expenses. Terming the practice of increasing the public debt unwise and unsound, both said its end was necessary to restore confidence in the credit structure of the Nation and to dispel fear over the economic situation.

Mellon Depicts Crisis.

In a prepared statement, the aged Secretary of the Treasury cited the big Treasury deficits, adding he could not "overemphasize the importance of retrenchment," he said increased revenue was essential, "not just to cover current expenditures but to maintain unimpaired the credit of the United States Government."

"It is an indispensable step in our progress toward recovery," Mr. Mellon warned. "We are in the midst of a grave crisis," he added.

Walking together, Mr. Mellon and Mr. Mills entered the big committee room early in the day, trailed by a retinue of experts. They remained until late, when the hearings were adjourned.

At the outset, the Secretary said a $2,123,000,000 deficit confronted the Treasury this year and a prospective deficit of $1,417,000,000 next year. Last year the deficit was $903,000,000.

The administration's tax increase program, which carried no general sales tax nor recommendations in the capital gains and loss provision of the income tax act, he said, should net $920,000,000 in the next fiscal year, and $390,000,000 during the remainder of this year.

New Levies Proposed.

The program calls for increases in income, corporation, estate and tobacco taxes and the imposition of levies on automobiles, trucks, radio, phonographs, telephone and telegraph messages, admissions, checks, drafts, capital stock sales, conveyances of realty and an increase in postal revenue.

"Under existing conditions, the task of bringing our budget into balance is by no means an easy one and involves not only self-denial, but some measure of sacrifice," Mr. Mellon said. "Yet it is possible to attain this objective if we address ourselves resolutely to the task of drastically reducing expenditures, refusing to take on additional obligations save those that are absolutely necessary and by drawing on available resources through increased taxation."

Making known for the first time that the borrowing plan was to be abandoned, Secretary Mellon told the committee:

"The administration is determined, with your cooperation, to arrest this borrowing process on June 30. I am confident that the attainment of this objective will have the full support of Congress."

Tax Expansion Defended.

After a discussion of the increase in expenditures in this and the last fis-

President and Mrs. Hoover Congressional Club Guests

Many Men in Company Also Presented to Executive and Wife at Annual Reception; Democrats Also Attend Affair in Honor of Nation's Chief.

The cozy little home of the Congressional Club, 1201 New Hampshire avenue, was taxed to its capacity last night at the reception the club gave for the President and Mrs. Hoover, an annual event of the organization.

The distinguished guests arrived at the clubhouse about 9:30 and remained for an hour. Every minute of that time was busy with hand shaking for President and Mrs. Hoover. There were as many men in the company as women and it may have been very gratifying to the guests of honor to greet numbers of the opposing political party. A few Progressives also were seen.

The honor guests were met at the entrance of the clubhouse by the president of the club, Mrs. Dyer, wife of Representative Leonidas C. Dyer, of Missouri, and the officers of the club, who escorted them to the main hall on the second floor, which was gay with flags of the States, its pretty table decorated with tiny pink rosebuds, pink capped candles and pink accessories. A section of the Marine Band played in one end of the room. To the strains of "Hail to the Chief," they ascended the stairs and took their places at one side of the arched doorway in the hall. Mrs. Hoover was very charming in a gown of London smoke heavy chiffon, thickly encrusted with steel beads, made with a cape effect over the shoulders and a short train. Her only ornament was a chain of green and gold beads which hung almost to her waist, and two bodice pins of diamonds.

Mrs. Dyer, in a gown of white Romaine crepe made with an Eton jacket of seed pearls and a short train, made the presentations to the President, who, inturn presented each one to Mrs. Hoover. The other members of the executive board of the club stood in line as follows: Mrs. James V.

Post Contest Is Approved By Head of Fairfax Schools

W. I. Woodson, Division Superintendent, Holds It Highly Fitting for Pupils to Take Part; Gaithersburg Pastor Sees Present Time Appropriate.

Nearby Maryland and Virginia where children of public, private and parochial schools are eligible to compete in the big Post Washington Essay Contest, closing midnight, March 14, when $1,000 in cash prizes are to be distributed among the pupils sending in the best 500-word essays on George Washington, are growing enthusiastic over the contest.

Some idea of the interest may be gained from the following notice sent to the principals of the Fairfax County Schools, Virginia, from W. I. Woodson, division superintendent of schools in that county. He wrote:

"Mr. Melvin P. Smith, local correspondent for The Washington Post, has brought to my attention the George Washington Essay contest which is being promoted by his paper. Advertisement with reference to this contest, I believe, is being published daily in The Post. I suggest that you read one of these and if after so doing you desire to have some of your pupils enter this contest I assure you that it will be with my hearty approval. You should be able to coordinate this contest with your English work very successfully.

"The life and work of the 'Father of Our Country' was so intimately related to Fairfax County that it is highly fitting that our pupils should take a part in contests of this kind whenever the opportunity offers itself."

From the Rev. John J. Callaghan, pastor of St. Martin's Church, Gaithersburg, Md., who is also head of St. Martin's Parochial School, Gaithersburg, the parochial school for all the churches of Montgomery County, came a fine commendation for The Post's Washington Essay Contest. Father Callaghan said:

"The George Washington Essay Contest sponsored by The Washington Post deserves the highest commendation. The time for such an endeavor, apart from the celebration of the

YOUTHS WOULD EXTEND TENURE OF HINDENBURG

WANTS PRESIDENT SEVEN YEARS LONGER

10 Per Cent of Electorate Must Sign to Render Move Effective.

Berlin, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Germany's patriotic youth, as represented in the "Young German Order," today filed a petition for a national plebiscite on the question of extending for another seven years the term of President Paul von Hindenburg.

This action was wholly unexpected and was taken without the knowledge of the political parties and other national organizations.

The law prescribes that 10 per cent of the German electorate must sign such a plebiscite demand. There is no doubt, in view of the president's popularity, that the required number of signatures could be obtained in a short time.

Mahraun Files Application.

The plebiscite application was filed with the ministry of interior by Arthur Mahraun, chief of the "Young German Order," an organization patterned on the Ancient Order of Teutonic Knights, and having 15,000 branches throughout the Reich.

The application was sought to give Germany an opportunity "to affirm, despite all the jarring notes, the nation's unswerving faith in Von Hindenburg."

Once the required signatures have been obtained, the Government must convene the Reichstag and present to it a bill embodying the subject of the plebescite application together with an explanation of the government's attitude.

There is no doubt that the cabinet of Chancellor Heinrich Bruening would indorse such a bill.

Decision Up to Reichstag.

The matter then would be up to the Reichstag, where interest would be centered in whether Adolf Hitler's National Socailists and Dr. Alfred Hugenberg's Nationalists would vote for or against the aged Von Hindenburg.

In the event the Reichstag approved the government's bill unamended, it would become law and no plebescite would be needed. Whether a simple or a two-thirds majority of the Reichstag would be necessary is a question at present open, but the ministry of justice is expected to clarify it.

Should the Reichstag reject the bill, it would go directly to the people. In that case support by 50 per cent of those voting would make it into law.

Senate Acts to Settle War Claim 68 Years Old

(Associated Press.)

The Senate acted yesterday to settle a 68-year-old claim of the City of Baltimore against the Federal Government, arising from the Civil War.

A joint resolution was adopted to repay Baltimore for breastworks constructed around the city at the request of the Federal Government at the time of the Battle of Gettysburg. The cost was $171,000.

SIDELIGHTS ON DOUBLE MIDDLEBURG SLAYING

The car is being examined for finger prints by detectives. Left to right: Detective Sergt. Dennis Murphy, A. D. Mullins, Detectives James Kenney and Ruppert McNeil. Fred Sandberg, fingerprint expert of Washington Police Department, examining a tablespoon used to break a window in the rear of the Illesley cottage to gain entrance. REVENGE SEEN IN DEATHS

Buckner's body was turned over to Lee undertakers, of this city. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

Middleburg citizens last night announced a reward of $500 to the captor of George Crawford.

Shuddering from the horribleness of the crime, quiet little Middleburg, in the center of Virginia's fox-hunting territory, was aghast yesterday.

Fear in the case of the suspect's capture that the people would not wait for his trial was expressed by Mayor W. J. Luck. There was no talk of lynching, but a grim and thin-lipped expression on the faces of her friends, men and women, who clustered about the cottage all day long, talking quietly in small groups, indicated the depth of feeling.

Experts From Washington.

Among the "riding gentry" who came to aid authorities in solution of the crime was Gen. William D. Mitchell, a close friend of the slain woman.

Soon after discovery of the bodies, Commonwealth's Attorney John Galleher, of Leesburg, called in homicide and fingerprint experts from Washington. Lieut. John Fowler, Detective Sergt. Fred Sandberg and Detective Sergt. Dennis Murphy were sent.

No fingerprints were found in the house, but Detective Sandberg discovered a palm print on the door to Mrs. Ilsley's room. This was removed by sawing out a door panel, and brought to Washington.

Mrs. Ilsley, who was popular with the town's people as well as with the society set, had leased the manor house to Miss Katrina McCormick, daughter of Ruth Hanna McCormick, former Illinois representative. The lease expired Monday, when Miss McCormick left.

Women's Skulls Crushed.

Both women's skulls were crushed when they were found. Mrs. Ilsley was lying on the floor of her room. And indications were that she had struggled with her assailant.

The maid was on her bed. Both women were clad in night dress. On the floor in Mrs. Ilsley's room was a blood-stained antique iron bootjack. Police said it might have been used in killing the pair, but Washington experts said the wounds apparently were made by a sharper instrument. They think a hatchet was used.

Rings and jewelry in the rooms and on Mrs. Ilsley's fingers were not disturbed, nor was money taken from a pocketbook. Revenge is one theory in the murder. Mrs. Ilsley had reported the robbery of her house previously, and had sworn a warrant for the suspect of arrest.

When local authorities apparently had made no progress in capturing the man, she, on Tuesday, came here and conferred with Benjamin Gunner, head of the Burns' Agency. When he read of the murder in newspapers yesterday, he immediately went to Middleburg to render all possible assistance to authorities.

Expressed Fear of Man.

Mrs. Ilsley had also expressed to several friends in the village a fear of the man.

After the brother found the bodies, he rushed to the office of the justice of the peace, Roy Seaton, who notified Loudoun County Sheriff, Eugene Adrian.

Following a preliminary investigation, the sheriff and several deputies searched through the neighborhood and arrested Bertie Neal, colored, an acquaintance of Crawford. She said Crawford had been in Middleburg on Tuesday night.

Subsequent examination revealed that the car was missing, and lookouts were flashed to Washington, Richmond and nearby cities.

Mrs. Ilsley attended a meeting of the Association of Women for Prohibition Reform in Upperville Tuesday night. She returned to her home about 11 o'clock.

In Early Morning.

The murders were committed between 2 and 4 o'clock yesterday morning. The bodies were examined by Dr. H. A. Spitler, and by Dr. John Gibson, the coroner. Both agreed that apparently neither of the dead had been criminally assaulted. A pathologist from Washington consulted with them on the case.

Conditions inside the cottage indicated, the officers said, that the society leader fought gamely for her life. Chairs and bed clothing had been scattered around the room.

Evidence led the authorities to believe the maid was killed first, and Mrs. Ilsley was attacked after starting to investigate the disturbance in her servant's room, just across the hall.

The shock of his sister's death had brought Boeing to a state of near collapse last night. A physician was brought to attend him.

Preparing to Move.

Mrs. Ilsley was preparing to move from the town property to her 200-acre estate, the Francis Mills Farm. Although she maintained a stable of hunters, she had led a retired life since her husband's death a year ago.

Her husband was Spencer Ilsley, of Milwaukee, Wis., a banker. He died in Emergency Hospital about a year ago from pneumonia.

Among the noted persons, friends of the dead woman, who gathered around the cottage and aided police in their investigation were D. C. Sands, James and Jack Skinner and Capt. Thomas Atkinson.

Sheriff Adrian expressed his opinion that two men committed the deed. He said he thought both women were killed simultaneously. This is at variance with the ideas of the Washington investigators. The two doctors also believe the maid was slain first.

Took Small Car.

After the deed the murderer left the house, and, breaking another window in the basement, entered and took out the small car.

Yesterday afternoon it was reported in Washington that a car bearing the license plates of the stolen car was seen on Fifth street near police headquarters. A police car gave chase, but lost the trail in traffic. There was one colored man in the car.

Mrs. Ilsley was born in Minto, N. Dak. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Boeing, of Fargo, N. Dak., who are spending the winter at Delray Beach, Fla. Her father is a retired farmer and drug store owner. Both were reported en route to Middleburg.

Mrs. Ilsley's last visit to Milwaukee was in August, when she visited her cousin, Mrs. Arthur G. Uihlein.

Wisconsin Graduate.

She was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1915. For a number of years she was secretary to Harry E. Bradley, of Tomahawk, Wis. It was while employed there that she met Mr. Ilsley. She was his second wife.

Mrs. Buckner, the maid, formerly lived on a farm near Rockville with her husband, Florian, but was working during the winter. The husband was notified of her death by Montgomery County Policeman G. W. Linthicum.

Mr. Buckner last saw her Christmas, when she told him of one robbery at the Ilsley home. She is survived also by two sisters, Mrs. Anella Cling, of Raswell, N. Mex., and Mrs. Martha Cling, of Long Beach, Calif.; a brother, Fritz Birling, of Oregon, and a son, Walter Buckner, a mechanical draftsman in the Treasury Department who lives in Bethesda.

Beer Helps Body, Scientist Holds

Makes Bad Food Taste Good, Cornell Teacher Tells Senate Group.

(Associated Press.)

Testimony that beer containing 4 per cent alcohol would help rather than harm the human system if taken moderately was given by scientists and physicians yesterday before the Senate manufactures subcommittee at hearings on the Bingham bill to legalize such a beverage.

Dr. Graham Lusk, professor of physiology at Cornell University, described such beer as a "good thing for poor people" and as making "bad food taste good."

Prof. Francis G. Benedict, director of the Carnegie Institute's nutrition laboratory at Boston, told of experiments which he said showed alcohol, taken moderately, had food qualities in "calories easily assimilable."

Dr. Francis E. Fronczak, health commissioner of Buffalo, said deaths from alcoholism had decreased 50 per cent in Buffalo since the Peace Bridge to Canada was opened.

One Marriage Enough, Says Stillman, Sailing

New York, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—James A. Stillman, who was luncheon host last week to his former wife and her young husband, Fowler McCormick, sailed today on the Morro Castle for his winter home in Havana.

Asked about a report he intends to marry a Cuban dancer, he said, brusquely, "I was married once, and that is enough."

U. S. TO HOLD ALOOF IN LAUSANNE PARLEY

Stimson Announces He Will Not Send Observer to Conference.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

The United States reiterated its disinterestedness in the purely European problem of reparations when Secretary Stimson yesterday announced that he did not contemplate sending an American official observer to the Lausanne Conference. It is believed very probable that the American expert, Walter W. Stewart, New York banker, who sat with the Basel committee of experts will, however, be present at the Lausanne meeting.

Mr. Stewart, one of the most brilliant of the younger school of American economists, was invited to attend the Basel conference as a representative of the Federal Reserve Board.

Out of the Lausanne sessions is expected to come the formal agreement between the Allied creditor nations and Germany, which will supersede the present mechanism of the Young plan. In any event, the United States will maintain its traditional attitude of not recognizing any relationship between reparations and war debts.

Trial Balloons Punctured.

The international atmosphere has been lately filled with reports from European sources of new formulas for dealing with the subject of reparations. These reports have been uniformly discounted by the State Department as "trial balloons" sent up for the purpose of determining which way the wind is blowing with regard to the attitude of this Government toward a realignment of the European war debt to the United States.

Secretary Stimson's unequivocal statement yesterday was made with the intent of silencing these overtures and of putting the entire question of reparations back where the United States has always considered it—in the lap of Europe.

Any concession in the American attitude regarding payment of European war debts to the United States could not be made with Congress in its present temper, it was authoritatively stated here yesterday. The idealistic concept of this country with regard to European obligations to the United States will insist on nothing less than public statement of national default unless at the forthcoming Disarmament Conference at Geneva these same European nations show a proper determination to reduce armaments as an earnest of their desire for peace.

Franco-British Conferences.

Conversations have been going on between representatives of the Bank of England and with French representatives of the Ministry of Finance at which several compromise propositions have been communicated to the press. These compromises all fall short of what this Government considers the adequate and proper consideration of the problem.

The annual sum which the United States receives on account of European debts represents only approximately $240,000,000 and is not considered of such importance to affect the National budget or the tax rate. However, the feeling of the American people, as reflected in the statements of representatives and senators, and as such accepted by President Hoover and Secretary Stimson, is a definite opposition to any further reduction of compromise on European debts to the United States without concrete indications of a change of heart with regard international distrust and fear in the very European nations who are indebted to the United States Treasury.

The gesture of this Government in the announcement of President Hoover's moratorium was so mitigated by French delay that its salutary effect was almost lost and was, in fact, very decisively reduced. Informal proposals for another moratorium of two or perhaps three years or more will probably be heard from the Lausanne Conference, but the prospects for further financial concessions by this country look very dark unless the general atmosphere of European intrigue has been cleared by voluntary action at the disarmament conference.

DROP REPARATIONS, MUSSOLINI ADVISES

of renunciation, which would rebound definitely to its advantage," the article said. "Not only will she lose nothing, but she will regain by other routes all she formerly canceled.

"But the first step should be made in Europe. The United States can not be expected to take the initiative. It is Europe that should place her in the position of facing the completed fact, which she will end by accepting, the more so because she will be unable in any way to revoke it."

"It is thus that the European creditors of Germany must accept the claimed fact of her declaration of insolvency," Premier Mussolini continued.

American Hostility Doubted.

"Is it believable that the American could recur to hostile acts in the economic and exchange deals? No.

"The economy of the world is solid: whoever in any part of the world damages it damages himself; customs reprisals call for counter reprisals; a fall in one money places in immediate danger of ruin all moneys, from that of the closest to that of the farthest country.

"The world needs the United States, but the United States needs Europe and the world as never before.

"The chain of reparations is made up of the following links: Germany is the debtor of all in proportion with the percentages of Spa (the conference in 1920 at which an interallied agreement was made for the allocation of prospective German payments); Italy and France owe England; Italy, France and England owe the United States.

"We will not go into the question of minor states and those enemy states which have not paid and will not pay because they are simply reduced to a state of impossibility.

"There is only one state which owes nothing to any one and is the creditor of all—the United States."

2 HOOVER JUDGESHIP CHOICES PROTESTED

Wilkerson and MacIntosh Hit With Holmes' Successor in Doubt.

(United Press.)

President Hoover set out yesterday to select a Supreme Court justice to succeed Oliver Wendell Holmes, who resigned Tuesday. His choice will be closely scrutinized by a critical Senate because of the present even division of the court between Liberals and Conservatives.

Belief is growing here that Mr. Hoover will appoint Newton D. Baker, of Ohio, to the highest court if he decides to name a Democrat, although Benjamin N. Cardozo, of New York, and John W. Davis, of West Virginia, also are being discussed.

Among Republican possibilities Circuit Judge W. S. Kenyon, of Iowa; Dean Roscoe Pound, of Massachusetts, and Chief Justice Rugg, of the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court, are mentioned most prominently.

Two Nominations Protested.

Meanwhile the Senate received protests against two Federal circuit judgeship nominations made by Mr. Hoover this week, those of Kenneth MacIntosh, of Washington, and James Wilkerson, of Chicago, and prepared to investigate the records of the two men starting next week.

Chairman George W. Norris of the Senate judiciary committee, which passes on all judicial nominations, announced that he has received protests against Wilkerson, famous for his recent 11-year prison sentence of Al Capone, and MacIntosh, who was a member of the Wickersham Commission. He would not disclose the nature of the protests, but it is understood that the labor question is involved in both of them.

Wilkerson in 1922 issued on request of Attorney General Harry Daugherty the drastic injunctions against the railway shopmen's strike.

Opposed by Labor.

MacIntosh, who has been a candidate for high political offices, including the senatorship now held by C. C. Dill (Democrat), Washington, is reported to have been opposed by labor men of his State. Norris said he would appoint subcommittees Monday to investigate the protests.

MacIntosh, however, has the indorsement of several of the most prominent so-called "Liberals" in the legal profession. The White House disclosed that Judge Kenyon, Dean Roscoe Pound of Harvard, and Frank L. Loesch, formerly of the Wickersham Commission, indorsed his appointment, in addition to many of the leading legal men of his own State. MacIntosh was a classmate of Mr. Hoover's at Leland Stanford.

Holmes Warmly Praised By Members of Court

(Associated Press.)

Upon the meeting of the Supreme Court yesterday Chief Justice Hughes read correspondence between the Court and Justice Holmes on the latter's retirement.

The letter, signed by each member of the Court, expressed "our keen sense of loss and our warm affection." It added:

"While we are losing the privilege of daily companionship, the most precious memories of your unfailing kindliness and generous nature abide with us, and these memories will ever be one of the choicest traditions of the Court."

Justice Holmes replied:

"My Dear Brethren:

"You must let me call you so once more. Your more than kind—your generous—letter touches me to the bottom of my heart. The long and intimate association with men who so command my respect and admiration could not but fix my affection as well. For such little time as may be left for me I shall treasure it as adding gold to the sunset."

Safe Roadbuilding Urged by Eldridge

Says "Fool-Proof" Highways Must Be Made to Handle Speeds.

Detroit, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—American road builders were told at their convention today that fool-proof highways must be designed to meet the speeds at which the users will insist upon traveling.

Speaking for a committee of nine, which has been conducting a national survey of the situation M. O. Eldridge, assistant director of traffic in the District of Columbia, said that comparatively little has been done to make highways safe for the speeds at which they are and will be used.

"Cutting down of hills, rounding of curves and widening of highways only serve to tempt the insatiable thirst for increased mobility," he said. Speed laws offer no solution, he added, "since police enforce such laws only to the extent that people want them enforced."

Bailey Vote Probe Delayed in Senate

Contest of North Carolina Election Is Referred to Committee.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday referred to its elections committee for further study a resolution to authorize hearing of the contest against the election of Senator Bailey (Democrat), North Carolina.

Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, asked to have the resolution sent to the committee, asserting there is "no fair or substantial basis for the contest," and predicting the committee would reach that conclusion.

Chairman Shortridge (Republican) California, at first objected but later agreed to have the resolution referred to his committee for a preliminary study of the contest brought by Bailey's defeated Republican opponent, George M. Pritchard. Robinson contended a "prima facie" case should be shown before the Senate authorized hearing of the contest, which he said would cost $100,000.

VETERANS PRESENT FULL BONUS PLEAS

One Collapses as 300 Tell of Plight in Caucus Room of House.

Pleas for "immediate payment in full" of the soldiers' bonus were presented to members of Congress by more than 300 former service men, representing seventeen States throughout the country, last night, at a meeting held in the caucus room of the House Office Building.

Led by Harold B. Foulkrod, of the Disabled American Veterans and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, speakers urged that Congress make an immediate effort to relieve suffering among veterans and their families in all parts of the United States.

Mr. Foulkrod declared:

"The veterans are not asking for charity. We want only what is coming to us. We went to war with promises ringing in our ears, but returned to find that it was even impossible to earn an honest living."

Representative William P. Connery, jr., of Massachusetts, told the veterans that a bill providing for immediate payment in cash of adjusted service certificates was before the House ways and means committee, and that it would be expedited.

Others who spoke were Representatives J. B. Shannon, of Missouri, and Andrew J. May, of Kentucky; William H. McGrath, junior vice commander, of the District of Columbia Department of the American Legion; Capt. Henry Woodhouse, who last year led the veterans' march to the Capitol; A. J. Verschelden and Maj. Alexander Lochwitzky, of Alexandria, Va.

During the meeting Morris Gold, of Camden, N. J., who served with the Tank Corps in the World War and was critically wounded with shrapnel, collapsed and was taken to Walter Reed Hospital.

Music was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Justin Laurie. Mrs. Frank W. Mondell, president of the League of Republican Women, presided. Mrs. Edna M. Patton was chairman of the entertainment committee and Miss Clara McQuown was chairman of the program committee.

LAND BANKING BILL PASSED BY SENATE

should that step be found desirable in certain localities. For the most part, however, the new funds will be used to sustain the existing farm credit structure.

This stabilization of farm credits eases the acute money pinch in a second great field of American finance. The organization of the Railroad Credit Corporation three weeks ago put new life into rail securities by saving no less than 56 important carriers from defaulting.

What the Land Bank bill and the Railroad Credit Corporation offer in their respective fields, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation proposes in the field of banking, insurance and commercial finance.

The projected new system of Home Loan Discount Banks next will be pushed by the administration forces in Congress in the hope of hastening similar credit relief to the home-building industry.

When all these measures have been passed every major branch of the national credit structure will be relieved of the distressing influences which have made for forced liquidation during the last year. Every one then will have a breathing spell, and disastrous forced liquidation will be ended. Thus will the essential groundwork of recovery be laid.

Broader Base for Loans Of Reserve Board Urged

(Associated Press.)

A broadening of the base of paper eligible for rediscount by the Federal Reserve system to "serve the whole Nation" was urged in the Senate yesterday by Senator Vandenburg (Republican), Michigan.

"If we are to have a Federal Reserve system worthy of that name," he said, "it must be put into a decentralized style to serve all banking areas and particularly the community banks on which agriculture depends for credit.

"It is these decentralized community banks that have no eligible assets to rediscount."

A broad but "safe and sound" emergency rediscount power in the Reserve system, he said, would do more than anything else to restore economic stability and benefit agriculture.

M'FADDEN ASSAILS HOOVER BANK BILL

Holds $2,000,000,000 Act Plans Sanctuary for Predatory Interests.

(Associated Press.)

As unrelenting as ever, Representative McFadden, Pennsylvania's outspoken Republican, delivered a bold attack yesterday on the administration's $2,000,000,000 reconstruction bill.

This time McFadden, who previously accused President Hoover of having "sold out" to Germany in proposing the moratorium, did not mention the President by name. By inference, he referred to the administration's effort for passage of the measure as an urging for Congress "to take the last fatal plunge, to betray America and to let her be 'sold down the river' to the leeches of Wall street."

He called the measure a "product of un-American minds," raising his voice for emphasis.

The bill itself he described as "this financial monstrosity," through which he said it was attempted to offer "a sanctuary to the predatory interests," as he termed international bankers.

Charges Sinister Purpose.

McFadden made the charges during an hour's speech on the floor of the House which he granted himself. As ranking minority member of the banking committee which considered the bill, the Pennsylvanian was in charge of the limits of time for debate.

Reminiscent of his original blast against the administration, Mr. McFadden was interrupted frequently by both Republicans and Democrats, some to criticize and others to uphold what he was saying. There was a scattering of applause, mostly from the Democratic side, when he finished.

A reference in the prepared text of his speech to the bill as "unfit for your consideration" was deleted by Mr. McFadden in his deliverance.

He said the reconstruction finance corporation plan represented "a scheme for taking $500,000,000 of the people's money, produced by labor at the cost of toil and suffering, and giving it to a super corporation for the sinister purpose of helping a gang of financial looters to cover up their tracks," adding:

Holds Bill Aids "Looters."

"It is a scheme for giving those financial looters a chance to dispose of evidence which if brought into the light of day would cause the doors of our Federal penitentiaries to close upon them for a long term of years.

"The looters, after wrecking the business fabric of the country, now come forward with a scheme for taking over the remaining property values of the United States," he said. "They propose to conduct a bankrupt sale.

"Read this bill and you will see the predatory interests preparing to move in here with their dictators and subdictators, their secret police files, and their detectives. How long do you think the American people can be held in subjection by the power which conceived this bill and dictated the provisions of it and which is now engaged in disguising the real purpose of it?"

McFadden said "This bill attacks the prerogatives of the Government" and the "very fact that it has been introduced here shows the growing audacity of the forces which have destroyed our old American way of doing business and which are now seeking to destroy the Constitution itself."

Wisconsin Legislators Favor Chain-Store Tax

Madison, Wis., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Both Houses of the Legislature today went on record in favor of a tax on chain stores, the Senate engrossing a bill by Senator Ben Gettelman, Milwaukee, and the Assembly passing a bill by Assemblyman John Eber, Milwaukee.

The Eber bill calls for a tax during 1932 and 1933, ranging from $20 on each store in a chain of up to five stores, to $100 on each store in a chain of 20 to 25. The Gettelman bill levies permanent taxes of $10 to $50 on chain stores.

FETE TO MRS. GANN LEADS TO FILM ROW

Discharged Fox Executive Charges Entertainment Bill Was Cause.

Los Angeles, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Alleging a flagrant breach of contract, a suit for $49,311 was filed in Superior Court today against the Fox Film Corporation by Joseph Johnson, former commissioner of public works in New York City.

Mr. Johnson said the suit was an outgrowth of an impasse which began with a disagreement over an entertainment given here recently for Mrs. Edward E. (Dolly) Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis.

Johnson said he was summarily dismissed about a month ago as a public relations executive for the film company by D. E. McIntire, the concern's new business manager, despite a contract running to June 1, 1933.

A statement from Johnson at the office of his attorney, William E. Reiley, in connection with the suit said the "first obvious hostile act" by McIntire, was his complaint about a $3,200 expenditure for an entertainment at Movietone City last November 11, for wives of members of the National Publishers Association, at which Mrs. Gann was guest of honor.

Johnson, in his suit, said McIntire declared: "As far as the publishers are concerned, they are a lot of —— who go out and pan —— out of everything we do."

Johnson is suing for the unpaid balance of his contract of $600 a week and $2,511 in interest, alleging there was no reason for his dismissal.

PATRICK JAY HURLEY.

PATRICK JAY HURLEY, the Secretary of War, has a record that would delight a biographer. It is a record crowded with romance, excitement and achievement.

He was born January 3, 1883, in the Choctaw Nation in Indian Territory, now Oklahoma. His grammar school education amounted to almost nothing, for the reason that, as a boy, he had to work. He drove mules in a coal mine first. Then at the age of 14 became a cowpuncher. His big break came when the president of Indian University (now Bacone College) took a fancy to him and gave him a formal education.

Hurley got his legal education here in Washington—at the National University. He also studied at George Washington. Then he went back home to make his fortune. He practiced law, and went in for building, banking and operating oil wells. Today he is regarded as a wealthy man.

As a youth, he fought Indians. As a mature man, he went overseas, became a major, then a colonel, and won a decoration for gallantry in action.

A handsome individual himself, Hurley, in 1919, married Ruth Wilson, daughter of Admiral Henry B. Wilson, whose beauty makes her the delight of society editors who are arranging Sunday layouts. They have three children—Patricia, Ruth and Wilson.

Hurley was an original Hoover man in Oklahoma in 1928, and after the election the President made him Assistant Secretary of War. He became head of the department when the Secretary, the late James W. Good, died.

Oil Chief Opposes Gas Tax Increase

Boost in District, Writes Midcontinent Head, Is Bad Precedent.

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—William N. Davis, president of the Midcontinent Oil and Gas Association, wrote to United States Senator Arthur Capper, chairman of the Senate committee on the District of Columbia, tonight, protesting a House bill to increase the gasoline tax in the District from 2 cents a gallon to 4 cents.

Davis declared the legislation, if successful, would establish a precedent and exercise a far-reaching influence throughout the United States.

He declared the experiences of the States "have definitely proven" that "the law of diminishing returns begins to be felt when gasoline taxes exceed 2 cents per gallon," and that from 3 cents upward the revenue decreases more rapidly.

Miners, Buried Week, Signal.

Beuthen, Germany, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Rescue workers trying to reach seven miners buried in a coal pit during a landslide more than a week ago heard knockings on the mine wall again today and knew at least some of the men they sought were still alive.

Curb on Trading In Grain Is Asked

Bill Offered by Haugen in House Is Attacked by Exchange Head.

(Associated Press.)

A bill designed to prevent manipulation of grain exchanges was introduced yesterday by Representative Haugen (Republican), Iowa at the suggestion of the Farm Bureau Federation.

He also introduced the equalization fee principle as an amendment to the Farm Board act.

His grain exchange bill would prohibit trading in "puts and calls" and "options to buy and sell." The Secretary of Agriculture would be directed to fix price differences between different grades of grain. No future contract would be allowed to exceed 2,000,000 bushels in any one grain.

Chicago, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Representative Haugen's proposal to restrict further activities of grain exchanges was denounced today by Chicago Board of Trade.

"It is disconcerting to observe," said Carey, "that Representative Haugen and the Farm Bureau evidently have not yet learned that placing restrictions on the grain trade has worked to the direct disadvantage of the American farmer. It is difficult to believe that the logic of events of the last two years has been so completely lost to them."

Policeman Shoots Boy Escaping From Party

Police officials last night received a report from Private W. E. Atkinson, of the Ninth Precinct, regarding the shooting of Arthur W. Carter, colored, 19 years old, of 470 N street northwest. The youth was wounded in his right leg by the policeman as he attempted to climb over a fence after police had called at a party at 822 Thirteenth street northeast.

Atkinson said he answered a call to the address in the precinct emergency car and met two other policemen called there. About 100 persons in the house attempted to flee when the police knocked on the door. The policeman said he called upon the youth to halt, but that he reached for his hip pocket and kept going. Atkinson said he thought the youth was about to draw a gun and fired.

MELLON TRAMPLED LAW, SAYS PATMAN

Has Been Allowed to Run Roughshod, Texan Tells Committee.

(Associated Press.)

A charge that the Justice Department has let Secretary Mellon "run roughshod" over Federal laws was made before the House judiciary committee yesterday by Representative Patman (Democrat), Texas, but was stricken out of the record on the suggestion of Chairman Sumners.

Patman was testifying on his resolution seeking impeachment of the veteran Treasury head for "high crimes and misdemeanors." Representative Michener (Republican), Michigan, asked at one point why he had not taken his charges to the Justice Department.

The Texan replied that since the department "has let him run roughshod over law, as I believe, what reason would I have to expect it would make a criminal prosecution?"

Another Democrat, Representative Oliver, of New York, requested that the statement be stricken from the record.

Patman said he expected to show malfeasance on the part of the Secretary before he concluded.

Representative Dyer (Republican), Missouri, said it was unfair to make inferences of corruption without presenting such proof.

Appearing in behalf of his resolution to impeach the Treasury head, Patman was asked whether he intended to charge "corruption, fraud or malfeasance in office."

"Before I get through I will do it," Patman replied.

"I not only allege he has been indirectly concerned in carrying on that business, but I believe I can prove that he has directly concerned himself in carrying on that business."

Patman said this was forbidden by Federal laws. He seeks Mellon's impeachment on the ground he has violated this statute.

$30,066,641 Given Needy in 56 Cities

Direct Aid in the First Nine Months of 1931 Leads 1929 348 Per Cent.

(Associated Press.)

American families deprived of the necessaries of life by the catastrophe of unemployment received assistance from public and private charities in 56 cities to the extent of $30,066,641 during the first nine months of last year.

The United States Children's Bureau yesterday announced that reports from 252 private and public relief agencies gave a picture of distributions jumping 127 per cent over the same period in 1930 and 348 per cent over those of the same period in 1929. The total does not include administrative costs.

"The records of relief expenditures in 56 large cities of the United States which have been completed for the first nine months of 1931," said the announcement, "show that 127 per cent more money was given for direct family relief during this period than in the corresponding period of 1930, and that the expenditures exceeded those made in the first nine months of 1929 by 348 per cent.

Founders' Day Observed At Lions Club Luncheon

Founders' Day was observed by the local club of Lions International yesterday at a special luncheon held at the Mayflower.

A committee on arrangements made up of Chairman Guy W. Leadbetter, Robert McKeever, W. C. Miller and Roger Whiteford, was in charge. W. C. Miller, past president of the local club, reported on the activities of the past year, including aid to the blind, unemployment relief, Christmas charity and progress made on the construction of an amphitheater at Camp Letts. Dr. Leadbetter spoke on the objectives of the club.

$1,700 Theft Charged To Soldiers' Home Pair

Louis Bernardi, 26, and Ernest Walker, 25, attendents at the United States Soldiers' Home, were charged with grand larceny this morning in connection with the theft of $1,700 from Amos Piper, 70-year-old inmate of the home.

Barnardi admits he took the money from Piper's room and hid it under a rock in the grounds, police say. He later took $500 of it and gave it to Walker to have it changed, it is alleged. The rest, police said he told them, he hid under some leaves. The money has not been seen since.

Congress Is Urged to Probe Laxity in Licensing Guides

Congressional investigation of alleged laxity in licensing of public guides in the District was asked yesterday by Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution.

"These men can secure their licenses with no questions asked, and it has been proven that more than one has a criminal record," Mrs. Hobart told Mrs. Mary T. Norton (Democrat), New Jersey, chairman of the House District committee.

Mrs. Norton will study the matter. A bill by Representative Ernest W. Gibson (Republican), Vermont, which would stiffen license requirements, is before the committee. The bill would empower the superintendent of police to license guides, with fees placed at $5 a year. Commissioners would be authorized to regulate conduct of the guides.

"With the activity of 'white slave markets,' the kidnapers and with men criminally inclined roving about the country, there is no doubt but that many of them will find their way to Washington this bicentennial year," Mrs. Hobart wrote Mrs. Norton.

"Serving as a guide will be most helpful to them in their profession."

She apprised the District committee chairman that she considered the matter "a very serious problem," and called attention of the House committee to a meeting of various local organizations to suggest a remedy, Monday night in Continental Memorial Hall.

SENATE BODY BACKS FARM BOARD INQUIRY

Approval Now Sought for Appropriation of Fund to Finance Quiz.

(Associated Press.)

Senatorial critics of the Farm Board yesterday were rewarded with a favorable report by the agricultural committee on a resolution for investigation of the board's activities.

The resolution, drawn by Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, was referred to the audit and control committee to pass upon the $50,000 asked to finance the probe, after which it comes back to the Senate for a vote.

An amendment was attached by the committee to take in during the investigation the interstate and foreign marketing activities of private organizations and board cooperatives borrowing from the board.

All domestic exchanges dealing in commodities over which the board holds jurisdiction, and their relation to the board's operations also will be probed.

The agricultural committee would make the investigation. Other phases that would be covered include:

If buying and selling activities of the board were advisable or necessary and carried out under the agricultural marketing act.

Organization and operation of the stabilization corporations or subsidiaries set up by the board, and losses or benefits involved in their activities and those of the board.

Whether any exchanges, board of trade or other private organizations have tampered with board activities, and whether the board has dealt unjustly with any existing cooperative organization.

A resolution by Senator Norris asking for a committee inquiry into whether the Internal Revenue Bureau has been unfair or is using illegal methods in dealing with tax exemptions of farmers' cooperatives is to come before the agricultural committee tomorrow.

Ousted Dean Sues Howard U. for Pay

Former Head of Dentistry College Asks Salary for School Year.

Dr. Arnold B. Donawa, former dean of the College of Dentistry of Howard University, who was summarily demoted from his position as dean to an associate professorship last July 17, yesterday brought suit in the District Supreme Court to collect his salary as dean for the 1931-1932 academic year.

Dr. Donawa was appointed dean of the dental school in 1929. Last July he was requested to appear before a meeting of the medical school committee of the board of directors on July 17, 1931, in New York City. Expecting to be questioned about his recommendations for the dental school, Dr. Donawa was met instead with charges against his own conduct. He was immediately suspended by the board, which at the same time announced his appointment as an associate professor of dentistry.

Pay of an associate professorship of dentistry was offered him, Dr. Donawa said, but he refused to accept it.

CONGRESSIONAL CLUB IS HOST TO HOOVERS

McClintock, of Oklahoma; Mrs. Edward E. Eslick, of Tennessee; Mrs. Robert G. Simmons, of Nebraska; Mrs. Frank Slague, of Minnesota; Mrs. John C. Shafer, of Wisconsin, and Mrs. Carl E. Mapes, of Michigan.

Representative Florence Kahn, of California, and the wives of the members of the California delegation in Congress assisted throughout the clubhouse and saw that every one received something in the way of refreshments, the ices and cold drinks being the most popular.

Mrs. Hoover appeared radiant, but the President was quite serious most of the time, now and then a member of Congress bringing a broad smile to his face. The Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Adams were received early in the reception. Mrs. Frederick H. Gillette, wife of the former Speaker of the House and former senator from Massachusets, also was received early. Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, vice chairman of the national Democratic committee, also arrived early.

President and Mrs. Hoover did not remain for ices, but, after informal little chats with scores of friends, they departed under the same escort with which they ascended the stairs.

Among others in the company in addition to the members of the club and their husbands were Senator and Mrs. Cameron Morrison, Miss Mabel Boardman, Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, former Representative and Mrs. Philip Pitt Campbell, Commissioner of Immigration and Mrs. Harry E. Hull, former Representative and Mrs. Martin Morrison and the latter's mother, Mrs. McReynolds; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Reeside and many of the members of the Federation of Women's Clubs who were received by Mrs. Hoover yesterday afternoon in the White House.

Among the California assistants were Representative Kahn, Mrs. Clarence F. Lea, Mrs. Philip D. Swing, Mrs. Henry E. Barbour, Mrs. Arthur M. Free, Mrs. Harry L. Englebright, Mrs. William E. Evans, Mrs. Charles F. Curry and Mrs. James H. MacLafferty.

COLOMBIAN LOANS HEARING IS DELAYED

Lima Newspaper Says Quiz Shows Leguia's Relatives Paid for Promotions.

(Associated Press.)

State Department representatives went to Capitol Hill yesterday to answer testimony that they had intervened to influence New York bankers to lend money to Colombia, but the hearing was postponed.

Senator Johnson (Republican), California, asked the Senate finance committee to delay the hearing until today to permit him to study correspondence between the National City Co. and the South American government about the loans.

Francis White, Assistant Secretary of State, and other department officials were on hand to testify.

Lima, Peru, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—The newspaper El Comercio in a bitter editorial today said the disclosures on Latin-American loans made before the Senate finance committee in Washington revealed that relatives of former President Leguia had received huge commissions for promoting loans.

While the revelations are painful to Peru, the paper said, they also are painful to the United States, because they "reveal a lack of honesty in the American business men who handled the dark loans affair, and a lack of honesty in American officials, who, being aware that these were dangerous operations, favored the loan's floating, inducing their fellow citizens to trust in bad business."

El Comercio added that the Senate's investigation will have the healthy effect of finding out who was responsible for the transactions, and that American bondholders will realize they were tricked by their own fellow citizens, who, it was said, induced them to participate in credit operations doomed to failure.

Dinner Speakers Stress Private Schools' Assets

Educational advantages of the modern private school were listed by speakers at a dinner last night of headmasters, head mistresses and principals of twenty local private schools. The dinner was held at the clubhouse of the American Association of University Women.

Miss Elizabeth Forrest Johnson, headmistress of the Baldwin School, Bryn Mawr, the principal speaker, compared the doctrine of futility and despair being taught in European schools with the reverence for learning on the part of the students. She pointed out the advantages of the private school over the public school in this country.

NEW PARIS CABINET SELECTED BY LAVAL

Laval probably will retain his former majority of about 69.

The necessity of facing Germany's declared inability to pay reparations caused Laval to speed the work of forming the new government, but the German attitude also is expected to give the premier strong public support because of fear that developments in Germany are approaching a crisis.

Briand, who has been ill, has been urged by his doctors to take a rest of from three to six months and he probably will go to his farm in Cocherel.

The new cabinet is as follows: Premier and foreign minister, Pierre Laval; minister of interior, Pierre Cathala; minister of war, Andre Tardieu; minister of agriculture, Achille Fould; minister of navy, Charles Dumont; minister of air, Jacques Luis Dumesnil; minister of public instruction, Mario Roustan; minister of finance, Pierre Etienne Flandin; minister of budget, Francois Pietri; minister of public works, Maurice de Ligne; minister of labor, Adolphe Landry; minister of commerce, Louis Rollin; minister of merchant marine, Louise de Chappedelaine; minister of pensions, Auguste Champetier de Ribes; minister posts, Charles Guernier; minister of colonies, Paul Reynaud; minister of public health, Camille Blaisot.

Both the new ministers, Fould and Cathala, were previously undersecretaries and will continue the policies of the former ministers. Many changes are expected in the foreign department as a result of the removal of Briand.

Former Governor Joins Kansas Race

Paulin Plans Attempt to Win Back Senate Seat From Democrats.

Topeka, Kans., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Interest in efforts of Kansas Republicans to win back Vice President Curtis' old senatorial seat, now held by a Democrat, was intensified today with announcement by Ben S. Paulin, former governor, that he would seek the Republican nomination.

Speculation dwelt particularly on the attitude of Henry J. Allen, Curtis' appointed successor, who lost the position in the 1930 election to Senator George McGill, a Democrat. McGill was swept into office by voters of a normally Republican State, who also elected a Democratic governor.

Allen, who recently announced in Washington that a "harmony movement" was the chief need of his party in Kansas, said he had told Representative Homer Hoch that he (Allen) would remain out of the contest if Hoch became a candidate.

Bank Credit Pool Asks More Funds

First Portion of Huge Relief Total Has Already Been Distributed.

New York, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—As a result of steady expansion in operations, the National Credit Corporation tonight sent out its second call for payment of 10 per cent of its $300,000,000 capital subscribed by member banks.

While no comment was available from directors of the corporation, subscribing banks which will receive the notice inferred from this development that the corporation has by now advanced $100,000,000 to banks throughout the country. In the main, these advances have been made to the smaller banks, loans ranging down to as little as $10,000.

Tonight's call is for payment on or before January 18. It follows within a week the payment by member banks of their first 10 per cent instalment or $50,000,000, which was called on January 4 for payment January 10.

RAIL WAGE PARLEY UNDER WAY TODAY

Labor Draws Up Four-Point Plan at Preliminary Meetings in Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—A four-point program, stressing unemployment relief, was given its finishing touches today by railway labor representatives in preparation for their joint meeting tomorrow with carrier executives to negotiate a proposed 10 per cent wage reduction.

The program as outlined by D. B. Robertson, chairman of the labor delegation, which will be proferred to the executives as a counter to the wage cut, includes:

Assurance of employment for the average force for one year and at least part-time employment to the stand-by force necessary for heavy traffic periods.

The six-hour day.

Federal compensation laws to indemnify against occupational accidents and diseases and to provide replacement insurance.

Regulation of competing forms of transportation.

Agree to Accept Results.

Tabulation of the vote of the brotherhoods and unions revealed that nearly 2,000,000 workers have agreed to accept the results of the negotiations which will start tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. It was understood that the nine railway presidents, headed by Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, would go into the joint conference representing more than 200 railway managements.

Robertson, in reply to a question, declined to say that he had "high hopes of success" for the conference.

"Naturally we hope for a settlement of our problems," he said. "That's why we asked for the conference, but I'll know more about our chances after the conference gets under way."

Delegates Undecided.

Several of the 21 labor unions were still debating tonight the number of delegates they would send into the conference. It was decided no one group should have more than 12, including its chairman.

Robertson set the total number at "between 100 and 150."

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, has been asked by the unions to act as spokesman in opening the conference, a function he fulfilled at their request at the meeting in New York last month. Robertson said there would be no general chairman during the rest of the conference.

Labor expects to use all of tomorrow in presenting its program, and "a couple of days" will be required in discussing it with the rail heads, Robertson said.

First in the Hearts of His Countrymen

WASHINGTON'S FAREWELL TO HIS OFFICERS

The principal officers of the Army assembled at Fraunces' Tavern to take a final leave of their much-loved commander in chief. Soon after, his excellency entered the room. His emotions were too strong to be concealed. Filling a glass and turning to them he said, "With a heart full of love and gratitude, I now take leave of you. I most devoutly wish that your later days may be as prosperous and happy as your former ones have been glorious and honorable."

Having drank, he added, "I can not come to each of you to take my leave, but shall be obliged to you if each of you will come and take me by the hand." Gen. Knox, being nearest, turned to him. Incapable of utterance, Washington in tears grasped his hand, embraced and kissed him. In the same affectionate manner he took leave of each succeeding officer. In every eye was the tear of dignified sensibility; and not a whisper interrupted the eloquent silence and tenderness of the scene.

Leaving the room he passed through the corps of light infantry, and walked to White Hall, where a barge waited to convey him to Paulus' Hook. The whole company followed in mute and solemn procession, with dejected countenance, testifying the feelings of delicious melancholy which no language can describe. Having entered the barge, he turned to the company and waving his hat, he bade them a silent adieu. They paid him the same affectionate compliment and after the barge had left them they returned, in the same solemn manner, to the place where they had assembled. The passions of human nature were never more agitated than in this interesting and distressful scene.

LINCOLN'S ESTIMATE OF WASHINGTON.

"Washington's is the mightiest name of earth—long since mightiest in the cause of civil liberty; still mightiest in moral reformation. On that name no eulogy is expected. It can not be. To add brightness to the sun, or glory to the name of Washington, is alike impossible. Let none attempt it. In solemn awe we pronounce the name, and in its naked deathless splendor leave it shining on."

MILLIONS TO VISIT NATIONAL SHRINES.

The roads of the United States will be subjected to the severest strain in road history during 1932. This is the opinion of George P. Schlesinger, formerly director of the State highways of Ohio and now managing director of the National Paving Brick Manufacturers Association. The reason for the forecast is that in 1932 the two-hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington will be celebrated throughout the United States. Due to the interest aroused in the coming event by the activities of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, it is estimated that millions of Americans will visit the National Capital and the surrounding places of historic importance during the celebration.

Next to Washington, Mount Vernon will most likely receive the greatest number of tourists. Hundreds of thousands of patriotic citizens will visit or revisit the most famous shrine in America. Valley Forge will be another center of interest. Yorktown, Trenton, Wakefield, Fredericksburg, Williamsburg, Jamestown, Princeton, Annapolis, Cambridge—in fact, all the sites in the original thirteen colonies which Washington made famous by his deeds, will become small Meccas for the worshiping pilgrims.

Mr. Schlesinger makes the statement, on statistical information received, that 15,000,000 of the 26,000,000 automobiles in America will visit the National Capital during 1932.

George Washington bicentennial, is particularly appropriate in view of the growing tendency toward the entangling alliances against which the Father of Our Country warned us.

"George Washington, long gathered to the reward which he so richly deserved, is held in tender remembrance by a grateful people. Their gratitude can best be shown by a profound study of his principles. This contest will strongly promote this study. In this way our youth, the leaders of tomorrow, will learn to love and appreciate one who arose not on the wheel of political expediency, but a genuine world leader who, by his deeds as well as by his words, has bequeathed to his children an icomparable heritage."

Essays were received yesterday from Virginia Weaver, age 13, 712 Nineteenth street northwest; Mary Lee, age 15, 1258 Hamlin street northeast; Milton Goss, age 9, 3806 Eastern avenue northeast, and Elva Pauline Fogg, 312 B street northeast.

The following essay has been selected as the specimen essay today. The printing of this essay does not affect its relation to the contest in any way.

GEORGE WASHINGTON
BY
.....

"On February 22, 1732, in a simple Virginia homestead in Westmoreland County, a boy was born who was to alter the history of the Nation. His father died when he was 11 years of age, and he spent much of his time at the home of his older brother, Lawrence.

"When he was 16 the real work of his life began. He was placed in charge of the survey of the estate of Lord Fairfax, in the Shenandoah Valley, and with but one companion he started off. Here he carried on his work successfully.

"Upon his return to Mount Vernon Lord Fairfax was so pleased with his work that he had him appointed a public surveyor.

"Then there soon came to Washington a chance to prove his pluck and perseverance.

"For years there had been a dispute between the French and English as to the right of each nation to occupy the Ohio Valley. It was decided to send a trusty messenger from Gov. Dinwiddie of Virginia to the French commander to remonstrate with him for building forts upon English land. All eyes turned to young Washington. He accepted the task. The next day he started on a 1,000-mile journey through the dead of winter, but Washington, with a small party, plunged on.

"The French were very polite, but they intended to stay where they were, and the little party turned homeward. Their horses became so weak that they had to leave them and walk. On and on and on they walked until at last they came to the shore and from there they hurried to Williamsburg, then the capital of Virginia, to deliver the letter to Gov. Dinwiddie from the French commander.

"In 1759 Washington married a young widow, Martha Custis. After many years of happy marriage, he was then called to the front. Washington was chosen for the first and second Continental Congress. On June 15, 1775, he was unanimously elected commander-in-chief.

"On December 28, 1783, Washington offered his resignation and returned once more to his home in Mount Vernon to remain in peaceful obscurity. But he was not allowed to remain in peaceful obscurity. He was chosen to preside over the convention which framed the Constitution. When the Constitution was adopted they needed a President. So all eyes turned once more to Washington, who was elected on April 30, 1789. After two terms of office he returned to his old home at Mount Vernon.

"On December 14, 1799, his life came to an end after a hard day's work on his plantation.

"First in peace, first in war, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

HOTTEST JANUARY 13 RECORDED IN WEATHER BUREAU HISTORY

row will be considerably colder. Storm warnings are out along the Atlantic Coast.

(Associated Press.)

A queer hodgepodge of winter weather yesterday brought snow to the desert, spring flowers to the Middle West, and death-dealing tornadoes to the South.

Eleven died in tornadoes that ripped through Alabama and Mississippi.

New record January 13 warmth was registered in New York, Chicago and other Eastern cities, and residents of Riverside, Calif., saw the first snow there in 40 years. Sacramento had its fifth snowfall in the last eighteen years.

Near the head of California's Imperial Valley, normally one of the warmest spots in the Nation, snow covered the ground.

Travail lay in the wake of the floods and tornadoes in the South and an 80-mile gale that struck Boulder City and Las Vegas, N. Mex., Tuesday, wrecking the Hoover Dam tent city.

Spring shrubs bloomed in Ohio and snow mantled great areas in the West. Ohio also was visited by a windstorm that injured two farmers and damaged dwellings.

Thermometers read 65.3 in New York. It was 32 below zero at Drumheller, Alta., below freezing in usually balmy climes of the Southwest, and subzero with heavy snow in the western Dakotas.

Chicago enjoyed a spring day with the mercury recording 56. Milwaukee enjoyed the warmest January 13 in history. Near Loup City, Nebr., a Catholic priest perished in the snow from exposure and overexertion.

Levee breaks in the South added to the suffering along swollen tributaries of the Mississippi River. Farm lands, railroads, highways and even towns were inundated.

A cloudburst at Pensacola, Fla., flooded the business district to a depth of four feet in some places.

Atlanta, Jan. 13 (U.P.).—Today was the hottest on record for Atlanta in January. The temperature was recorded officially at 76.4 at 2 p. m. The previous high mark for January was 75.9, set in 1927.

Baltimore, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Maryland today perspired as temperatures skyrocketed to the highest point in January history.

In Baltimore it was 76, and at Hagerstown, in western Maryland, where the coldest weather usually reigns, the Government observer reported 78 degrees.

Los Angeles, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—The first snow in decades today fell in scattered parts of southern California today as winter dealt a rude jolt to summer's kingdom.

At Santa Maria, in the fertile agricultural area north of Los Angeles, 0.60 of an inch of snow fell overnight, the first since a cold winter day 50 years ago. In the rich valley of the citrus belt, where Riverside is located, there was a slight snowfall, the first in 40 years, and at Pomona, a short distance to the west, the first snow in 30 years came down.

Belgium Regrets Press Rap at Hoover and U. S.

(Associated Press.)

Ambassador Gibson at Brussels informed the State Department yesterday the foreign office had expressed the Belgian government's "regret" for attacks in the Belgian newspapers on President Hoover and the United States.

Gibson inquired about articles in general in the Belgian newspapers and the expression of regret over their publication followed his representations. One article in particular which he called to the attention of the Belgian foreign office was written by a Belgian senator.

Flood Labor Study Called Prejudiced

Green Belittles Report Before House Committee on Slavery Charge.

(Associated Press.)

An accusation that the War Department's investigation of reported "near-peonage and slavery" on lower Mississippi flood control work had been "prejudiced" was laid yesterday before the House labor committee.

President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, asked that the committee make its own investigation. President Green said first reports on "conditions bordering on peonage and slavery" on the lower Mississippi came from "responsible" representatives of the federation.

"We are not satisfied with that investigation," Green said. "No labor representative was called in to support the charges with additional facts." He read a resolution adopted by the Mississippi Federation of Labor asserting that Maj. Gen. Lyle Brown had shown "prejudice" in his investigation.

House Member Urges Early Action on Bonus

(Associated Press.)

A formal request was made yesterday of the House ways and means committee to open hearings on bills to pay the soldiers' bonus in full as early as possible.

Representative Connery (Democrat), Massachusetts, made the request in behalf of himself and Representative Patman (Democrat), Texas, sponsors of the legislation. Chairman Collier said the matter "will be taken up when we get to it."

NEW FIRES FOUGHT AT COLONIAL BEACH

Investigation of Big Blaze Tuesday Night Starts After New Peril.

Special to The Washington Post.

Colonial Beach, Va., Jan. 13.—Following discovery of two fires tonight in the DeAtley Hotel, authorities began an intensive investigation into the fire which Tuesday night razed three buildings at an estimated loss of $50,000.

The DeAtley Hotel is owned by Mrs. M. M. DeAtley, of Washington, who also owned the Washington House, destroyed last night.

The first blaze tonight, in the room of Thomas DeAtley, manager, destroyed clothing Mr. DeAtley had in a closet. Fifteen minutes later the second fire was discovered in a guest room, where, authorities said, a quantity of paper under a bed was ablaze. Although neither Mayor J. A. Meyer nor Sergt. Joe Miller said they suspected incendiarism, they indicated that a thorough investigation would be made.

Fire Started in Bathhouse.

The fire Tuesday night, which broke out in a bathhouse near the Holt Cottage, owned by Mrs. Charles Holt, of Washington, was prevented from sweeping the town only by a heroic effort on the part of residents and firemen from Fredericksburg and Dahlgren.

Mrs. Adie P. Coakley, ill in a building near the Washington House, noticed the fire and awakened J. T. Coakley, her son, part owner of a drugstore. Coakley and Mrs. Anna E. Johnson, telephone operator, summoned aid.

Fanned by a stiff north breeze, the flames quickly spread from the Washington House to the Holly View Hotel, owned by Wally Kimmel, of Washington.

Sub Chaser Aids Firefighters.

Fredericksburg and Dahlgren firefighting forces sped here to augment the battle being waged by Colonial Beach residents, who had organized a bucket brigade. A submarine chaser, equipped with fire-fighting apparatus, sent from the naval proving ground at Dahlgren, did effective work.

The Washington House was the only hotel occupied, as the others have closed for the season. Thomas DeAtley, asleep when the blaze broke out, was awakened by the smell of smoke and cracking walls, which crashed against the Coakley building a short time after Coakley had removed his wife, her mother and their three children to safety.

Edwin Coakley, a relative, and Emory Smallwood, both about 25, the only two casualties, were slightly hurt when a refrigerator they were removing from the drug store fell against them.

RUINS IN $50,000 COLONIAL BEACH FIRE

Post Staff Photo.

This is all that remains of three Colonial Beach hotels which were destroyed early yesterday morning in a $50,000 fire, which for a time threatened the entire town. The buildings razed were the Holly View, owned by W. W. Kimmel, of Washington; the Holt Cottage, part of the Holt Estate, and the Washington House, owned by Mrs. M. M. DeAtley.

MURDERER OF CHILD IS MUTE AT HEARING

Crowd at Arraignment of Kidnaper Is Searched for Weapons.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Charles Bischoff, confessed kidnaper and killer of 6-year-old Marian McLean, stood speechless in court today but signified he would employ his own defense counsel.

Bischoff, nervous and afraid to speak, nodded in the affirmative when asked if he would obtain an attorney to defend him on a first degree murder charge.

The courtroom was filled two hours before he made his appearance surrounded by guards. Every one of the several hundred spectators, most of whom were women, were searched for weapons, but there were none. The crowd was quiet.

The middle-aged cobbler was given until 2 p. m. tomorrow to appear with his counsel to plead. If he fails to secure an attorney, the court will then appoint one.

Almost at the same moment he was standing mute, a clue which prosecutors believed might solve the kidnaping of two other girls proved groundless. Bones found in Bischoff's tenement house basement where Marian's mutilated body was discovered, were declared by an anthropologist at Western Reserve University, Cleveland, to be those of a dog.

Another development was an announcement by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McLean, parents of the slain girl, that their reconciliation would be permanent. They were reunited in their sorrow over their daughter's fate after being separated eighteen months.

DOCTOR'S DAUGHTER IS SLAIN BY 'TRUSTY'

Convicted Killer, Employed in Her Home, Almost Decapitates Victim.

Bellefonte, Pa., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—A Negro convict in Rockview Penitentiary today attacked and killed Betty Hickok, 22-year-old daughter of Dr. A. L. Hickok, chief of the prison's psychopathic ward.

The Negro, Fred Collins, 37, serving a ten to twenty year term for second-degree murder from Beaver County, surprised the young woman in the bathroom of her home this morning. After assaulting her, he hacked her head nearly off with a butcher knife and then walked half a mile to the prison and surrendered.

Collins has been a psychopathic case under Dr. Hickok's care for four years. Although known to be a moron, he had been considered harmless and was employed as a cook and guard at the Hickok residence. He had free access to and from the house.

Collins perpetrated his deed in the bathroom so quietly that others in the dwelling heard no unusual sounds. The Negro then calmly left the house.

After telling prison officials what he had done, he grew sullen and refused to give any reason for his act.

An inquest was held shortly after the young woman's body had been found. Collins was held responsible for her murder.

Warden Stanley P. Ashe, who hurried here from Pittsburgh when notified of the crime, said Collins will be transferred to Western Penitentiary at Pittsburgh tonight. Because the Negro is a psychopathic case, Warden Ashe said he doubted if first degree murder charges would be lodged against him.

When prison officials learned of the murder, they took every precaution to prevent any disturbance. State police were rushed to the penitentiary from Bellfonte and a strict censorship was established. It was several hours before news of what had actually happened became known outside of the prison.

The precautions taken against trouble prevented any outbreak. Quiet prevailed tonight. Many went to Rockview from Bellfonte, a few miles away, but all were denied admission.

Rockview is considered a "model" prison. Situated in the heart of the picturesque Alleghen Mountains, it is one of the few penal institutions in America without walls. The prison proper is inclosed only by a wire fence.

When prisoners are taken to Rockview, they are told that if they do not behave they will be transferred to Western Penitentiary at Pittsburgh, where regulations are much more strict.

Dr. Hickok was in Harrisburg at the time his daughter was slain. He was reached this afternoon and hurried to Rockview by motor.

Besides her parents, Miss Hickok is survived by two brothers.

FILM UNION CHIEFS ADMIT FATAL BOMB

Kansas City Pair Assert Blow Was Intended to Hurt Rival Group.

Kansas City, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—The president and the business agent of a local motion picture operators' union confessed today they caused the bombing Monday night of Loew's Midland Theater and said their object was to strike a blow at a rival union.

In signed statements Ermal J. Lime, 34, president, and E. M. Evans, 40, business agent of the Sound Projectionists Association, admitted constructing from six sticks of dynamite, a watch and a flashlight battery the bomb which killed Frank Alexander, Negro janitor, in the lobby of the large downtown picture house a few moments after the departure of hundreds of patrons.

James R. Page, county prosecutor, said the two union officials would be prosecuted under the 1929 Missouri bombing law which provides capital punishment.

Lime and Evans said they hired John E. Gillespie, a former convict, to place the bomb in the balcony. Gillespie said he was told and believed the package contained liquor for an usher. The bomb exploded while the janitor was carrying the package to the lobby.

Lime and Evans declared that bombings and the intimidation of managers had caused the discharge of their association's members from all but half a dozen Kansas City theaters. These acts they attributed to the International Alliance of Stage and Theatrical Employes.

"We figured a bombing in a downtown theater would serve notice on the theater owners that we wanted our jobs back," Lime's statement said.

The bombing of theaters began here October 6, five days after the beginning of an operators strike. Police records show nearly a dozen such attacks.

Transfusions Replace All of Teacher's Blood

San Francisco, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—With the blood of other men flowing through his veins, Dr. Thomas F. Sanford, professor of English of the University of California, is said by Dr. Frank Hinman to be on the road to recovery.

All of Dr. Sanford's blood was replaced by that of others through fourteen transfusions to combat haemophilia, a functional malady which prevents the blood from coagulating.

RAINS SWELL FLOOD AREAS IN LOUISIANA

Half of West Monroe Now Inundated; New Levee Breaks Expected.

Glendora, Miss., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Highway travel virtually was abandoned and railway traffic was badly hampered throughout this flood-stricken area today as torrential rains swelled rivers to new peaks. Thousands of new acres were flooded, but the inundation was not sudden or deep enough to threaten human life.

In the Quachita valley of Louisiana, about half of West Monroe was under water, but only Negro homes at the edges of Monroe proper were surrounded. Families in both sections are being moved by boats, mule team and tractor.

In the Caddo Oil district several wells were forced to shut down, but the crest of the flood there was believed to have been reached, with Cypress River falling.

The higher water near Glendora was caused by heavy rains along the upper reaches of the Tallahatchie, Coldwater and Yalobusha Rivers.

E. P. Krick, National Red Cross disaster relief chairman, said a survey trip into Tippo Basin would have to be postponed on account of water that spread over the area today, leaving only the higher knolls and ridges above the flood. He said the new rise would necessitate changing the figures of his report to Washington headquarters. He described new levee breaks as "inevitable."

Glendora and other towns along the Tallahatchie expected more water. Charleston, north of here, was virtually isolated. Grenada had only one highway open and there was water in the lower edge of town. There was water two feet deep in the outskirts of New Albany.

Shouse Approves Chicago Stadium

Democratic Chairman Calls Hall Excellent for 1932 Convention.

Chicago, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Chairman Jouett Shouse of the Democratic national executive committee today examined the hall where the party convention will be held next June and pronounced it "excellent."

The Democratic leader went with Edward W. Hurley, chairman of Chicago's convention committee, and Architect Ernest Graham to the Chicago Stadium, which is to house both national conventions next summer. He approved the seating plans drawn up by Graham, placing the speakers' stand on the north side of the arena, extending near the center of the building so as to be easily visible from all sections.

Shouse is to be the principal speaker at the combined Jackson and "Victory" dinner held by Illinois Democrats tomorrow night. He said he hoped the representatives selected by the States for the national platform committee would meet here informally two weeks in advance of the convention in order to have the planks well rounded out in advance and avoid the usual last-minute furore.

Bellas Hess Co. May Sell Its Business

New York, Jan 13 (A.P.).—Negotiations were reported in progress today for the sale of the mail order business of the National Bellas Hess Co. to the Chicago Mail Order Co.

It was further stated that this is the first step in a plan to liquidate the National Bellas Hess Co., which ranks as the third largest mail order house in the country. It also operates 46 retail stores throughout the country, which, it is expected, will be sold to one or more other chain store systems.

Stone & Webster Plan Book Value Reductions

New York, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—The directors of Stone & Webster, Inc., meeting today, announced a reduction of the book value of the corporation's investments, aggregating $76,708,448, would be recommended to stockholders.

It was stated, however, that the proposed book value adjustments would not change in any way the actual value of either the actual assets, the capital stock or the number of shares outstanding.

One Reported Shot During Chaco Fight

Trouble Will Not Affect Treaty Negotiations, Bolivians Believe.

(Associated Press.)

The Bolivian delegation said yesterday it had been informed of another clash between Bolivians and Paraguayans in the Chaco, but did not think the trouble of sufficient importance to affect the nonaggression treaty negotiations here. The delegation was informed a small Paraguayan patrol had attacked a Bolivian position, wounding one Bolivian.

Because of the Senate foreign securities investigation, which has occupied the attention of Chairman White, the latter asked the Bolivians to postpone the next meeting of the delegation until Monday. It had been fixed for tomorrow. Dr. Cesar Vasconsellos, Paraguayan delegate, told White the Paraguayans were ready to reply to the Bolivian one-year truce proposal.

Because of the long delay since the last meeting, which was held December 9, Chairman White was attempting yesterday to arrange a meeting before Monday. It was understood the next meeting might be shortened, being devoted merely to the presentation of the Paraguayan reply without discussion.

Navajos Stricken By New Blizzard

Officials Anxious Over Indian Villages and Their Herds.

Gallup, N. Mex., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—A new blizzard in the New Mexico Indian country today filled Navajo agency officials with apprehension for the plight of their charges, who were barely on the road to recovery from storms earlier in the season.

All roads were blocked in the southern and eastern reservations today. Indian officials could only guess at the conditions among the Navajo flocks and villages. Feed for live stocks, shipped to the reservations last month, can not last longer than a week, and losses among Navajo herds, already large, may be increased.

At Chinlee, Ariz., two Indian Service employes seriously ill with pneumonia are snowbound. Efforts were being made today to get medical aid to them.

Body of Youth, Trapped In Mine, Is Recovered

Shamokin, Pa., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—The body of Edward Topolski, trapped in a small tunnel leading into an abandoned mine near Shamokin, was removed early tonight. He had been dead more than 12 hours, physicians said. Topolski was trapped by a fall in the tunnel yesterday while he was dragging a sack of coal from the mine for use at his home.

A companion with him in the tunnel escaped uninjured.

Stokes Asks Alimony Cut in Reno Court

Reno, Nev., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—A motion for a reduction in the alimony he pays his former wife, Florence Crittendon Stokes, was filed in the district court here today by W. E. D Stokes, jr., son of the late financier.

Mr. Stokes' action did not say what reduction was desired, but merely pointed out that the depression has greatly reduced his income. He is now paying Mrs. Stokes $15,000 a year. Hearing of the motion was set for February 5.

Nine Held for Jury After Mine Raid

Sensational Hearing Ends; High Bonds Asked for Union Leaders.

Pineville, Ky., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Six women and three men, arrested in a raid on National Miners Union headquarters here, were bound over to the grand jury late today on charges of criminal syndicalism after a hearing before County Judge George Vanbeber.

The two-day hearing ended after heated arguments during which Vern Smith, one of the defendants, cross-examined the judge and accused him of being a coal operator, and the defense closed its evidence suddenly. David Bentall, of defense counsel, said his witnesses feared they would be arrested if they appeared in court. Judge Vanbeber denied he had any connection with the coal industry.

Kentucky's criminal syndicalism law provides for a sentence of not more than 21 years and a fine of not more than $10,000, or both, upon conviction. County Attorney Walter B. Smith, who asserted Communist propaganda was seized in the raid here last week, asked $10,000 bond each for Mrs. Clarinda Michaelson, John Harvey and Vincent Kemenovitch; $5,000 for Ann Barton, Margaret Fontaine, Norman Martin, Julia Parker, alias Celia Kuhn, and Vern Smith, and $3,000 for Dorothy R. Weber. He also asked for $5,000 bond on peace warrants for all except Mrs. Weber.

Commander Announces Legion Job Campaign

Sedalia, Mo., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—A broad program that will reach into the roots of the present economic conditions and seek to end unemployment quickly, is the major effort of the American Legion, Henry L. Stevens, jr., national commander, said in an address at a legion meeting here tonight. The legion will endeavor to have 1,000,000 unemployed persons provided with work by February 1.

"Every American Legion post commander is to create at once a committee of the most influential and outstanding leaders within his post," he said. "Employers are to be persuaded to increase their paid personnel 10 per cent by February 1."

Church Edict Cuts Pay in Zion.

Zion, Ill., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Wilbur Glenn Voliva, general overseer of the Christian Catholic Apostolic Church, whose 3,000 members comprise the local citizenry, has issued an edict slicing wages from 10 to 30 per cent, reducing rents paid to the church and declaring a three-month moratorium on payment of members' dues on investments.

Lankford Is Appointed Naval Academy Visitor

(Associated Press.)

Representative Lankford, of Virginia, whose district includes large naval activities at Hampton Roads, was appointed yesterday to the board of visitors of the Naval Academy by Speaker Garner. Four senators and five representatives compose the board, whose members are appointed for two-year terms.

Lankford was a member of the naval affairs committee during the last session of Congress and expects to be elected again to it after Representative Leech (Republican), Pennsylvania, resigns to join the Board of Tax Appeals.

Sir Sidney Low Dies; Writer and Historian

London, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Sir Sidney Low, historian and writer on international and political affairs, died at his work tonight. He was 74 years old.

He was at his desk writing his regular weekly article for a Sunday newspaper when he apparently felt ill. He rose and sat in a nearby armchair, where a minute later he collapsed and died. Sir Sidney had suffered from asthma and his heart had not been strong recently, it was said at his home.

Gloucester Trawler Ashore Off Carolinas

Manteo, N. C., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—The fishing trawler St. Rita, out of Gloucester, Mass., went aground in a heavy sea early today a half mile south of Paul Gamiel Hill Coast Guard Station. Coast Guardsmen took off the crew.

The St. Rita was breaking up under the pounding of the waves and guardsmen said it probably would be lost. The Coast Guard cutter Pontchartrain was en route to attempt to save the craft. The St. Rita was commanded by Capt. Frank Favalo.

Sir Sidney Low, Historian, Dies.

London, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Sir Sidney Low, noted historian and expert on international affairs, died today at the age of 74.

THE MELLON TAX PROGRAM.

Secretary Mellon presented to the House ways and means committee yesterday a comprehensive basis on which the new tax laws undoubtedly will be drafted. This committee, under control of the Democrats, began hearings without having formulated even a tentative program of revenue legislation. Democratic leaders have been unable to agree on a measure of their own. If the House is disposed to arrest the rapidly increasing deficit and initiate measures to restore a balanced budget it will doubtless have to accept the Mellon program substantially as it has been outlined.

Secretary Mellon's plan contemplates that tax revenue shall catch up with expenditures in the fiscal year 1934. At that time the proposed new taxes would be dropped and the present revenue laws would again come into effect. The increased taxation which the Treasury proposes must be regarded, therefore, as strictly temporary. Taxpayers will be asked to accept greater obligations for this emergency period to preserve the credit and sound financial standing of the Government. No administration mindful of its solemn obligations to maintain the stability of the United States Government could ask less.

Undersecretary Mills calls attention to the fact that the national debt has been increased by $4,100,000,000 in the last two years. Taxpayers will not be asked to make up this sum through the new levies. No attempt will be made to bring the national debt back to where it stood before the depression until prosperous conditions have been restored. Past experience suggests that the Government will then have no difficulty in reducing the debt under the existing tax structure.

The administration's program contemplates division of the tax obligation among all citizens who are capable of sharing it without hardship. Surtaxes on large incomes would be increased 100 per cent, so that taxpayers earning $500,000 or more annually would pay 40 per cent to the Government instead of 20 per cent at present. But even this drastic levy would bring the Government only about one-fifth of the revenue needed to balance its budget in two years. Hence, it is proposed that 1,700,000 individuals with moderate incomes, who now pay nothing to the Government, be brought within the tax fold by reducing the exemptions. There is no thought of taxing any one who is in straitened circumstances. The income tax reaches only those who have steady incomes of sufficient volume to maintain a fair standard of living. Secretary Mellon's plan of distributing the burden is, to use his own language, "justified not only by necessity, but by equity and sound public policy."

In addition to higher income taxes Secretary Mellon recommends an increase in the corporation income tax, and levies on realty transfers, stock transfers, automobiles and accessories, on theater tickets, radios and phonographs, telephone and telegraph messages, checks and drafts and higher tobacco taxes. In addition the Postoffice Department is expected to increase its revenue so as to wipe out a $150,000,000 deficit. Considered altogether, these levies constitute a rather stiff tax program. But nothing less will guarantee a balanced budget within a reasonable time.

The chief merit of the Mellon plan is its diversity and its short duration. Under it no taxpayer would be called upon for an undue sacrifice and business could look forward to the restoration of moderate rates. Various improvements may be made, however, as a result of detailed consideration by the committee. If the House can devise a better plan of raising revenue enough to balance the budget by 1934 the country will welcome it.

CHOOSING A JUSTICE.

No sooner had Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes stepped down from the Supreme Court bench than radical elements from all parts of the country began clamoring for the appointment of a "liberal" to succeed him. The White House is being bombarded with suggestions and petitions in behalf of various candidates who are supposed to represent the views of different cliques. Partisan supporters argue that Justice Holmes was a "liberal" and that a successor of similar views should be appointed so as to preserve an imaginary "line-up" of the court between reactionaries and radicals.

These suggestions are an insult to the Supreme Court. The idea that factions should be represented on the great tribunal is repugnant to its very nature. The Supreme Court is made up of jurists appointed by the President to interpret the laws and the Constitution. No faction or class is entitled to representation on it. Any candidate who is put forward as the representative of the "liberal" clique or any other group is obviously unqualified for this high position. The Supreme Court rises above politics and provincialism. If it is ever packed with the representatives of class interests and factionalism the Government of the United States will be in jeopardy.

The most offensive aspect of this campaign is the fact that some United States senators are sponsoring it. The insurgents of the Senate want a justice on the court who will bow to their own distorted views on legal questions. By threatening to repudiate any nominee who does not conform to their ideas they seek to intimidate the President in making an appointment. In reality they are attacking the court itself, trying to weaken its personnel so that they may trample on the Constitution.

It may be expected that President Hoover will choose the strongest and most capable jurist available for this position, without regard for the unscrupulous demands for factional representation. This post calls for a man who is able and not afraid to interpret the Constitution in keeping with the spirit of that document and American tradition—one who can apply the law and not his personal views on sociology and economics to the cases that reach the Supreme Court. Such men may be found within the ranks of either party. But none such can be found wearing the insignia of the so-called liberal faction. President Hoover can be relied upon to choose an eminent jurist and not a tool of any clique.

THE EMPLOYES' FEDERATION.

These critical days in Washington serve to focus renewed attention upon the valuable service being rendered the people of the country as well as to Government workers by the National Federation of Federal Employes. Not in many years has sound, intelligent and aggressive leadership been so vitally essential. In continuing the well considered policies which have marked the Federation since its inception fifteen years ago, President Luther C. Steward, Secretary-Treasurer Gertrude M. McNally and their colleagues of the executive council have earned the gratitude by all Government employes.

This organization, numbering tens of thousands of Federal workers in its membership, has won the confidence of the highest executives of the Government because of the fundamental soundness of its position on matters of the greatest importance both to taxpayers and employes. It has not sacrificed or betrayed any group or the public interest to gain an end.

It was recognized at the outset by the Federation that the best interests of the public, the Government and the civil service employes could be served only by adhering strictly to facts and by building up a system which would function efficiently and progressively. These policies have resulted in substantial improvements in the Federal service.

In emphasizing to Congress the wisdom of enacting a thorough-going system of classification for the field services, and in combatting vigorously all moves to cut the wages of Government workers, the Federation of Federal Employes is performing a distinctly important public service. Neither complete efficiency nor full justice are possible of attainment without a proper classification system; and to cut the already meager and substandard salaries of Government workers would be a step backward in national recuperation policy as well as grossly unjust to individuals.

In carrying on its fight along the lines laid down the National Federation of Federal Employes is deserving of the whole-hearted support of every man and woman concerned with governmental well-being.

A LEADER AT LAST.

A new sun shines in the political heavens; new light is diffused over the murk and slime, the inaction and stupidity of politics. Statesmen have been floundering, like derelicts in the night, but now a true leader, an "international mind," one who treads under foot corrupt politics, and mounts to the heights of hegemony by the very impetus of his own genius, is about to unfold his wings.

The harbinger of these glad tidings is the Columbia Spectator, student publication of Columbia University. Needless to say, the angel of mercy and international justice whose political advent is thus proclaimed is Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the same institution. In the hope of saving the world from the ineptitude of its present leaders the student editors have launched a presidential boom for their guiding star. Columbia students and alumni are urged to join with the Spectator in a fight to have Dr. Butler nominated by both the Republican and Democratic parties.

Out of the mouths of babes comes forth wisdom. The editors of the Spectator perceive that the country needs a President who is intellectually equipped to deal wisely with problems ranging from international affairs to administrative details, one who will not straddle, and one who will command the respect and friendliness of other nations. Out of 122,000,000 Americans only one is qualified. From the depths of chemistry and mathematics these students have discovered that leadership is a quality unique with Nicholas Murray Butler.

At last the candidacy of the globe-trotting college president is placed in its true light. When Dr. Butler submitted his suggested platform for the Republican party a few weeks ago veteran politicians examined it with a microscope without finding anything that was Republican and very little that was American. Naturally, it was brushed aside as the idle fancy of what the Spectator calls an "international mind." But the student editors evidently have found in it a spark—or rather a conflagration—of genius.

Now the great educator can enjoy a little private boom right in his own college without the slightest danger of encountering any devastating realities. By all means let the students organize Republican and Democratic clubs in the student body, so that mock conventions can be held and a unanimous straw vote cast for America's only leader.

THE SHIPPING CONFERENCE.

A thoroughly comprehensive program covering the needs and problems of American shipping will be discussed at the fifth national conference of the merchant marine to be held in Washington on January 27 and 28. The meeting will bring to the Capital a representative group of men allied with all branches of shipping. The topics to be considered range from methods of increasing patronage for American ships, mail contracts and legislative needs to meet foreign competition and Panama Canal tolls.

A subject also on the agenda for the coming session is one recently discussed by The Post—the competition of Army and Navy transports. This Government service is not only believed by the merchant marine to be unnecessarily expensive, but unfair to the established lines of shipping. Ships in regular service under the American flag reach all the ports where there are American outposts, and it is felt that they should have the benefit of Government support both in the transport of supplies and personnel. Regular sailings of commercial lines can supply more frequent, cheaper and ampler service than Government transports.

The American ship managers will also bring up the question that has been agitating shipping circles in New York for some time regarding the "voyages to nowhere." These are the cruises of foreign ships which take passengers out for a week-end journey anywhere or nowhere beyond the Volstead limit. This technical evasion of the laws, which can not be participated in by American ships, is considered an undesirable practice. The conference will take up various phases of the effect of the world depression on American shipping and also consider the most effective means of organizing to stimulate patronage through chambers of commerce and trade and travel organizations. It is evident from the program that the representatives of the merchant marine will have an interesting and highly valuable conference.

A CITY OF THE PAST

From the New York Herald Tribune.

Among the tattered letters, odd maps and prints, time-darkened portraits and other fragmentary memorabilia which line the walls of the new Museum of the City of New York there runs the series of model groups in which Dwight Franklin and Ned J. Burns have recaptured the long past of the greatest city of the world. They are delicate little panoramas, beautifully constructed and finely modeled and breathing a sudden life and vitality into the dead relics about them as they repeat the veritable scenes amid which those old letters passed or those quaint dresses were worn. Peter Stuyvesant's sword looks simply like something in a museum until near it one sees the governor himself, fully as vivid as life (if only about one-tenth as large), storming over Col. Cartwright's demand for surrender while the seventeenth century sunshine lies placidly upon the ramparts of Nieuw Amsterdam Fort outside the door.

Well, the fort has lain buried for many years somewhere beneath the foundations of lower Broadway; Peter Stuyvesant is as dead as a doornail, and so is the pleasant, bucolic life of the little outpost of Dutch empire which once occupied what was once the tip of Manhattan. In the model those times are as alive as last night's supper club. So are the pleasant blue waters and wooded slopes of the East River (so much pleasanter than today) as they are seen through the windows of the Beekman Mansion, while Gen. Howe, interrupted with wineglass in hand and a mot upon his lips, tosses the irritated glance of authority over his shoulder to see what the guards have brought in. It's an infernal young rebel suspected of espionage—name of Nathan Hale. One almost hears the voices—and one suddenly understands a lot about the American Revolution.

Alive, too, are the waterfront crowds under the long jibbooms on South street, or the Indians, three centuries earlier, in their encampment at Inwood. These models are an essential and fascinating part of the new exhibit, something which distinguishes it from those of other museums. They give an incomparably better idea of the times they portray than do, for example, the models of old London in the great London Museum; and they suggest how wonderful will be the record which this museum will contain when time has enriched its collections and broadened their scope to cover the countless fields of New York's life and activities down to the present time. As yet, of course, there are many lacunae. The contemporary scene is hardly touched. Some types of exhibit may prove difficult to acquire; New York's growth, for example, has been so swift and so destructive as to leave few of the old shop fronts, old signs and utensils, pieces of furniture and paneling which are important items in the London collection. But the beginning is such a fine one, offering so many possibilities, that money and support for expansion must surely be forthcoming. One hopes that good slices of it will be spent on further work from Mr. Franklin and Mr. Burns.

The Hitch-Hikers.

POST HASTE.

Active speculation has been resumed in the United States and France—over Supreme Court and Cabinet appointments.

With railroad managers and employes reaching an amicable adjustment of wage reductions there is reason to hope that ways will be found to avoid other wars.

Mongolia is another slice of China three times as large as Manchuria and is coveted by the Russians. If the rumor that Japan approves is true, we may look for another warless conquest.

Sympathy is felt with most city governments these days, but why is there a general smile when we read that "Tammany is worried over New York finances?"

At last there is to be a senatoress who does not owe her seat to appointment by a mere man governor.

The Balkans balk on paying foreign debts. With big brother Germany's example, what did you expect?

Herr Bruening and M. Laval must find some common ground for commiseration in the snubs they have received from radicals who decline cabinet invitations.

London and Paris readily get together on a debt reduction agreement in which the aggregate total is to be deducted from payments to America.

Free traders and free silverites still set up irresponsible howls about the ruin of our foreign trade, though it has declined less than domestic business and a large balance remains in our favor. How would they express themselves if our position were that of England, with imports double the value of exports?

One more addition: Discounted like the Chinese reply to a joint note to China and Japan.

The last rally increased the value of stocks $3,000,000,000. Where did it come from? Isn't confidence wonderful?

Automobile manufacturers are preparing to do business and sell you a car this year. As probably three times as many workers are dependent upon this industry as there are railroad employes, don't dodge your duty.

If Tom Mooney's pardon arrives in time, he surely will feel obligated to come East and help Jim Walker out of the tight box he is in.

TREE AND MAN.

The oak tree never quits its place
To ask about a neighbor's care,
A thing of majesty and grace,
Whose leafy arms seem raised in prayer,
It stands two hundred years or more
Against the storms of winter stout.
While man is broken down before
The sands of seventy years run out.

From the first moment of its birth
Until a rotted log it dies,
Its roots draw sweetness from the earth,
Its leaves draw nectar from the skies.
Patient, untroubled and serene,
A tree, with age in splendor grows,
Because on it no grief has been
Such as the fretted mortal knows.

Poor man must roam the world afar
And give his strength to many needs;
Pride, pomp and place and pity are Forever spurring him to deeds.
Not only must he suffer pain,
But God has fashioned him so fair
That none may cry to him in vain.
Even a stranger's hurt he'll share.

The span of mortal life is brief.
The oak tree long outlives us all,
Yet better 'tis to suffer grief;
To weary oft at duty's call;
To wear our strength and courage out
Against the tides of human fears
Than live and never ask about
The cause of sorrow's blinding tears.

Envoy of Work Has Narrow Escape From Happy Indians

By JOHN DALY

When the good ship Santa Clara docked in Hoboken the other day it brought back from far away places a New York exporter turned explorer; and the tale he had to tell the ships news reporters stood their hair on end.

Back with him, the wayfarer brought a blow gun, a wooden sword, and a tale of life among the Hoitoto Indians, who dwell along the Caqueta River in Colombia.

In brief, the story is this: The first white man ever to brave that part of the wilds, the Caqueta being a new short cut from Colombia to the Amazon River, this gentleman saw the possibility of establishing trading posts. At first, he found the Indians very friendly. They wore feathers in their ears, painted their cheeks red—and had never worn pants.

Mostly, the Indians live on bananas, and they are very fine, lucious bananas that grow in the lush lands of the Caqueta. The visiting man of commerce was struck with an idea: "Why," he asked, through the patois of the Indians, "do you not send some of these bananas to America, where they are still singing, on occasion, "Yes, we have no bananas'?"

Immediately, there was consternation. The Indians had never heard of America, or the dearth of bananas. Neither did they know anything of commerce, or of trade. So the American explained.

It meant work. It meant that, where heretofore the Indians had picked bananas for the joy of living, they were now expected to select the best bananas for the export trade—and that meant more work.

There was a powwow. The Big Chief called the tribe together and they sat many hours in front of the head tepee while the white man waited an answer.

The answer came in the form of a concerted attack, a shout, and a war whoop as the Indians grabbed their tomahawks and went after the visitor's scalp.

So fast did he run and so many miles did he cover that he left the Hoitoto Indians far behind, to lead their own carefree, happy lives, with no thought of work, and no intention whatsoever of picking extra bananas or wearing pants.

They were the wise men of the Caquata River country, down Colombia way. While no white man had ever been among them they had sensed, in some inexplicable manner, what work has done to the races of the earth—especially to those nations now at work trying to rebuild their fences, destroyed by war, which is but an outgrowth of work.

Happy Indians living in the Happy Hunting Grounds of Caqueta! No wonder they ran a Yankee trader all the way back to Hoboken. Just one farewell word marked his passage, "Work."

And may he live to regret his foolish interference in other peoples' lives. The Hoitoto Indians are not the only ones who feel this way about it.

More Bonds, More Taxes.

Minneapolis Journal.

The Democratic leaders, at their Jackson Day dinner in Washington, put their party on record as favoring a huge bond issue to give men jobs on Federal public works.

At the same dinner they also put their party on record as favoring a sharp reduction in taxation.

Just how they propose to reduce taxes, while at the same time adding vastly to the bill which taxpayers must settle, they do not make plain.

It has been estimated that every billion dollars of bonds spent for public works adds two hundred millions a year to the tax load for the next twenty years, including the interest, sinking fund requirements and the upkeep costs of the things that are built. Issue five billions in public improvement bonds, as Senator La Follette proposes, and the tax bills are inevitably increased by a billion a year. Issue three billions, as the Democrats propose, and the tax bill is inevitably increased six hundred millions a year.

But that is not the worst of it. A huge bond issue, by opening the way for capital's escape into tax-free investment, impairs the yield that may be expected by the Government from a given income tax rate.

Wizardry.

Boston Globe.

The Democrats, says Speaker Garner, are going to raise $300,000,000 in additional revenue without levying any additional taxes. There's certainly a good trick there, if they can do it.

Good Guess.

Boston Herald.

The American tourist trade to Canada has taken a drop, says a statistical item. Which, we guess, was what the American tourist trade went to Canada for in the first place.

Take Dawes at His Word.

Boston Transcript.

When Charles G. Dawes says in a prepared public statement that he will regard as an "insult" to him any intimation that he will be a candidate for President against Mr. Hoover, it would seem as if he had squelched once and for all the vague reports which have been in circulation. The statement is not news, strictly speaking, for the friends of the ambassador have known all along that the President has no warmer friend or more sincere supporter. Gen. Dawes is a forthright person, and he has been chafing for a long time under the implications that he would be a party to the undermining of his chief, and he has recognized that he could render the party to which he has been so loyal no greater disservice than to try to push Mr. Hoover aside. That role is left for the pronounced enemies of the President, but even they are hesitant to take a stand against him for the sake of a mere gesture.

Delegates Might Catch Cold.

Detroit News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Success of Col. Roosevelt as Governor General of the Philippines Might Put Him in Line for Presidency.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: With the transfer of Col. Theodore Roosevelt from his gubernatorial post in Porto Rico to that of Governor General of the Philippines one is easily led to surmise in regard to how close his line of political preferment may yet parallel that of his more spectacular sire.

As an officeholder the latter became familiar with administrative routine comparatively early in life, and already the son has had much of the experience necessary as a safe foundation for executive responsibility.

His promotion to the much more important and troublesome field of the Philippines indicates how well the contemporary Theodore Roosevelt acquitted himself in Porto Rico, where, as The Post says, "his successor will find the administration an easier task, because of Col. Roosevelt's arduous spadework."

Should his cool-headed and sympathetic management of public affairs be as successful in the Philippines as it was in Porto Rico I wouldn't wonder if Theodore Roosevelt should be a name for the Grand Old Party to conjure with in the presidential campaign of 1936. W. T. T.

Suggests Commissioner Felix Davila for the Appointment as Governor of Porto Rico.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The resignation of Gov. Davis, of the Philippine Islands and the appointment of Gov. Roosevelt as his successor are changes that no doubt the Filipinos and the Porto Ricans will lament; but at the same time the Philippines will acquire a man who won the sympathies of all the classes in Porto Rico and will, no doubt, win those of the Philippines.

Unlike the Philippines, who are constantly asking for their independence, Porto Rico has been a loyal possession of the United States since the Spanish-American War, with an ultimate aim to become a State of the Union. Its citizens are born citizens of the United States. Their public schools are just as good as any in this country, teaching those children to obey and defend the Stars and Stripes and to live up to their most highly prized possession, that of United States citizenship, speaking both the Spanish and the English language, thus forming a connecting link between the United States in the north and Latin America in the south.

Ever since the American occupation, Porto Rico has had American governors only. Now that another vacancy occurs, why not give a native-born Porto Rican a chance to occupy that honored position? The advantages of so doing are obvious. He will understand their customs, their idiosyncrasies, habits and needs. He will be familiar with the climate, their way of living and other elements too many to enumerate.

It will be a great act of humanity, kindness and justice to the Porto Rican if a man of the caliber of our present resident commissioner, Hon. Felix Cordova Davila, be appointed to the position of Governor of Porto Rico. For years he has been a loyal supporter of the administration, a faithful servant, always alert and most willing to do all he can for the welfare of all Porto Ricans, putting aside party and class prejudices, all for the benefit of the island; a former judge, whose decisions were always fair and impartial, and finally, a man who, if appointed, as we all hope, will meet the approval of nearly 1,500,000 American citizens known as Porto Ricans.

Citizen Suggests That Both Parties Could Get Credit for Prosperity Legislation.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is unfair, unwise and ridiculous for any one to continue to blame President Hoover for being personally responsible for all the ills now being felt by our country. The Pope is looked upon by millions of his faith as one who is perfect. Would is be wise or just to say he is responsible for the hundreds of thousands of idle and hungry now suffering in Italy? No! Why then should you blame President Hoover for the same conditions existing here? Some even try to make him the goat for the whole world.

There has been and still is a way to scatter to the winds this awful depression. The answer can be found at the Capitol. Too often when a bill is introduced by a Democrat some Republican senators and representatives will talk and vote against it fearing its passing might help the Democratic party. The same applies to some Democratic senators and representatives when a bill is introduced by a Republican.

Now if both parties would just agree to forget politics when a bill is introduced and argue and vote for or against it on its merits, it would not be long before we would get such legislation that would let you see the idle working and the hungry being fed and the suffering, sadness and discontentment fading away and this grand old country once more become a happy and prosperous Nation. If bills of merit were all voted on, regardless of politics, all of them would be passed by large majorities, both parties getting the credit.

HOUSE INVESTIGATES SALE OF U. S. LINES

Chairman O'Connor Told to Furnish Full Details of Big Transaction.

(Associated Press.)

The House merchant marine committee yesterday set out to determine for itself what the Shipping Board has been doing for the last eight years, particularly with reference to its recent sale of the United States lines.

Beginning its investigation, it centered questioning at yesterday's session upon the sale of the lines, originally bought by Paul W. Chapman, of New York, to a combination of the Roosevelt Steamship Co., International Mercantile Marine Co., and Dollar-Dawson lines.

Chairman Davis told Shipping Board Chairman O'Connor he wanted complete details on the circumstances surrounding the transfer of the lines and their financial setup.

McCarl Charged Irregularities.

Davis also asked O'Connor for a detailed reply to the report of Comptroller General McCarl renewing demands that the Merchant Fleet Corporation, operating agency of the Shipping Board, be made accountable for expenditures of public funds. McCarl charged irregularities in its financial transactions, including delivery of stores and supplies approximating a million dollars without charge to the United States Lines in the sale of the service in 1929 to Chapman.

O'Connor made a warm defense of the International Mercantile Marine Co., one of the participants in the recent purchase, which had been described by Davis, Tennessee Democrat, as being "an American concern with foreign subsidiaries operating in competition with American ships."

Loans From Revolving Fund.

"The company is 98 per cent American," said O'Connor.

"You mean in stock ownership," answered Davis, who previously had brought out the existence of contracts between I. M. M. and British Board of Trade.

O'Connor testified authorized loans out of the $250,000,000 revolving fund totaled $151,126,495, with advances totaling about $100,000,000 and reimbursements of advances $8,000,000.

Testifying on the operation of eight lines still owned by the board, O'Connor said the board was considering consolidation of the Yankee Line, out of Boston, and the Hampton Roads Line, out of Norfolk, both to British ports. The Oriole Line, out of Baltimore, he added, has no chance of sale under present financial conditions.

AMERICAN EXECUTED ON ULSTER GALLOWS

Cullens Has Nails Manicured and Slickens Hair for Death in Belfast.

Belfast, Ireland, Jan. 13 (U.P.).—Eddie Cullens, an American citizen convicted of murdering Achmet Musa, a Turk, slicked down his hair with fastidious care this morning and went out into the Belfast prison courtyard to be hanged.

He was calm and his nerves were steady when the trap was sprung at 8 a. m., ending an unusual record of friendship, jealousy and murder, which involved the ancient Zaro Aga, a Turk widely publicized in America last year as "the oldest man in the world."

Cullens insisted on having his nails manicured just before he was hanged. He dressed with care and wrote a long letter to his brother in New York. Then he thanked prison officials for their kindness and walked calmly to the gallows. He was attended by a rabbi and jail officials.

Crowd Awaits News.

A crowd of about 100 persons waited at the prison gates for the announcement that he was dead.

Cullens, 28, a Turk by birth, but a naturalized American, had firmly maintained his innocence in the murder of Musa, whose body was found in a field at Seskin, near Carrickfergus, on last September 2. The body was naked except for a woman's bathing cap. For weeks police were unable to identify the body, but finally it was learned that it was Musa, 26, one of a syndicate formed to exploit Zara Aga. Cullens and Assim Ridvan, also a Turk, were other members.

Cullens was found in London. He was tried in Belfast and, after a sensational hearing at which police were summoned to prevent rioting, he was sentenced to be hanged.

Witnesses charged that the syndicate had exhibited Zaro Aga in a circus touring England, after Cullens and Musa came to Britain from America in April. Business did not flourish and Cullens and Musa decided to find another source of income.

Girls Give Clew.

They borrowed Ridvan's auto and crossed to Ireland, where they met two girls and took them riding. One of the girls, Rose McGoldrick, testified that a bathing cap, such as the one found on the body, was in the car.

She also said Cullens told her Musa had a lot of money but was niggardly. Others testified to seeing the two men near the scene of the murder.

HIGHTOWER JURORS WILL RESUME TODAY

Judge Outlines Choice of Three Verdicts in Coal Mine Murder Case.

Mount Sterling, Ky., Jan. 13 (A.P.). The jury of bluegrass farmers who will decide the fate of William Hightower, 77-year-old mine union leader, charged with conspiracy in the slaying of deputy sheriffs in the "Battle of Evarts," will resume its deliberations tomorrow.

The case went to the jury this afternoon, but after an hour and a half deliberation, the jurors went to their boarding house, after informing the court one juror was suffering from two ailments—a severe cold and a boil on his nose.

Circuit Judge Henry R. Prewitt instructed them to inform him if they intended to deliberate tonight, and after supper he was notified the jurors had decided to wait until morning. The court ordered medical attention for the afflicted juror.

Two weeks were consumed in the presentation of voluminous evidence and lengthy summations by opposing counsels.

The instructions of Circuit Judge Henry R. Prewitt limited the jury to one of three verdicts: Guilty, setting his penalty at death, or at life imprisonment; or outright acquittal.

The deputy, Jim Daniels, whom the Commonwealth charges Hightower with conspiring to murder was slain last May 5, during a Hillside gun battle between the deputies and jobless miners of the Harlan County coal fields. Another deputy, a commissary clerk and a miner also were shot to death. The prosecution agreed Hightower was not present at the fighting.

HAWAIIAN GOVERNOR HIT IN HOUSE

"have been so exaggerated by the mainland press that the good name of Hawaii demands an impartial investigation so that the injustice to the territory would be rectified."

The special House naval subcommittee named to inquire into the Hawaiian situation made five recommendations to the full committee.

They were:

"First, that the Judge Advocate General and the Attorney General be requested to render every service possible in order to see that those charged with this crime shall be given a fair and just trial.

"Second, that in view of the fact that Gov. Judd of Hawaii, after a native athlete had been tried and convicted for a similar offense, gave to him a pardon within a very short period, that he be called on to give a complete statement of facts as to why he established such a precedent, thereby causing a lawless element to feel that this crime could be committed without any serious consequences.

Capital Punishment.

"Third, that the Governor of Hawaii make a full and complete report as to whether or not it would be advisable to recommend to the Legislature capital punishment for the crime of rape.

"Fourth, that the organic law of Hawaii be amended to empower the governor to remove for misfeasance, malfeasance, or nonfeasance in office of any official in the territory.

"Fifth, that the officials in the Navy be commended for having protected the lives of those who are charged with murder as an outgrowth of the serious conditions herein set forth and, in addition, for cooperating with the officials of Hawaii in trying to bring about a peaceful solution of the problem in such a way as to prevent disorder and bloodshed."

This report was signed by Representative McClintic, of Oklahoma; Delaney, of New York; Boland, of Pennsylvania; Barton, of Missouri, Democrats, and Woodruff, of Michigan, Republican.

Population of 370,000.

The committee further said it found:

"The Island of Hawaii has a population of 370,000—85 per cent being of mixed races, other than Caucasians—that out of this number approximately 225,000 are males and 145,000 are females; that in the past there have been frequent occurrences of the crime of rape, resulting in the majority of cases in light sentences or acquittal.

"The committee further finds that the officials charged with the responsibility of enforcing the law have in the past nolle prossed a case in which an enlisted man in the United States Navy was murdered. * * *

"From our investigation of crime conditions in Honolulu and a careful examination of the record in the Navy Department touching on the conditions it seems apparent that the attitude of the law enforcement officers is typical by their actions in the above-mentioned case of the murder of Isadore Wolf, seaman, first class, U. S. Navy. Further, the general attitude of those officials toward the crime of rape has in our opinion been such as to lend encouragement to the perpetrators of this offense.

Cites Ahakeulo Case.

"We respectfully call attention to the case in which one Ahakeulo pleaded guilty to the crime of assault and attempt to ravish and was sentenced to an indeterminate term of four months to fifteen years. Later he was given a pardon by the governor of the islands upon the theory that his services were needed as an amateur boxer at Madison Square Garden in New York City, representing the Territory of Hawaii. It may be here stated that this same person is one of the five who was charged with the atrocious crime committed against the wife of an officer in the United States Navy.

"The committee feels that the establishment of such a precedence namely, the pardoning of individuals who have been found guilty of attacking females, has caused a lawless element to believe that this crime can be committed in Honolulu without serious consequences for their act. The committee is congnizant of the fact that the great mass of the fine people domiciled in Honolulu and Hawaii are just as patriotic, self-respecting and law-abiding as are to be found anywhere, and that they join with the people of the United States in deploring the fact that such a condition exists."

Moderate Fees Claimed.

Cablegrams were received yesterday by Delegate Victor Houston, of Hawaii, from the two attorneys who defended four of those accused of attacking Mrs. Massie.

They said the positions of defense counsel had been taken on the solicitation of relatives and a belief that the defendants were innocent. The fees, they said, were moderate.

Admiral Pratt, chief of naval operations, in ordering the two chief naval officers in that territory to call on Gov. Lawrence Judd of Hawaii when the fleet goes there next month, said:

"Should the governor desire to visit the fleet for a longer or shorter time during its stay in Hawaiian waters, put a ship at his disposal, for the dignity and prestige of the executive office must be upheld as the first step toward a return to clean, sane, healthy, normal conditions."

The orders were sent to Admiral Schofield, commander in chief of the fleet, and to Rear Admiral Stirling, commandant of the Hawaiian Naval District.

Special Session Called.

Honolulu, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Gov. Lawrence M. Judd today called a special session of the territorial Legislature to deal with Honolulu's crime situation and protested sharply against a House naval subcommittee's criticism in Washington of a judicial proceeding involved in the local trouble.

Behind the call for the special session public sentiment was crystallizing for a cleanup of the tense situation growing out of recent attacks on women and the abduction and killing of Joseph Kahahawai, Hawaiian.

Asserting it was apparent that there was "some sinister, ulterior motive in the background," Judd sent a strong protest to Secretary of the Interior Wilbur against the decision of the subcommittee that instructions to the jury hearing the case of five men accused of attacking Mrs. Massie constituted "thinly veiled instruction to acquit." The jury disagreed. Kahahawai was one of the defendants.

The Legislature, which will consider a change in the law to permit reorganization of Honolulu's widely criticized police department, was called to convene next Monday.

Representations to Judd.

Representations to the governor by a committee of prominent business men were made prior to Judd's issuance of the call for the special session.

"We don't want the situation clouded by political trading," said Walter F. Dillingham, head of the committee.

While both prosecution and defense moved for a prompt trial of the murder case, naval officials at Pearl Harbor, where the defendants are being held for safe keeping, said the prisoners had received hundreds of cablegrams. Most of the messages, it was said, were from prominent friends of Mrs. Fortescue in the United States and Europe.

Police records showed today that Lieut. Massie, on the night before the slaying of Kahahawai, had accompanied D. E. Gilkie, an enlisted man, to an automobile rental station, where Gilkie rented the blue sedan in which the body of the Hawaiian was found together with Massie, Mrs. Fortescue, and E. J. Lord, one of the two accused enlisted men.

Gilkie was found in the Massie home Friday when Detective Captain John McIntosh went there to arrest Albert O. Jones, the other enlisted man accused of the murder. Gilkie was taken into custody, but subsequently released on a showing that the car had been stolen from him.

Identifies Photograph.

The man who rented the car to Gilkie identified a photograph of Massie as that of the man who accompanied Gilkie. The garage man said Massie furnished $5 of the $25 deposit on the car. It was shown that Gilkie was at the Navy Yard at 8 a. m. Friday, shortly before Kahahawai was kidnaped in the downtown section.

In his protest to Secretary Wilbur Gov. Judd defended Judge A. E. Steadman, who presided in the trial of Mrs. Massie's alleged attackers.

"It is apparent," said the governor, "that when charges extend even to the judiciary sponsored by the best element of the community and appointed by the President, that there is some sinister, ulterior motive in the background, which will be dealt with in my written report.

"This report will take time, as it is based on nothing but facts.

Subscribed to by Officials.

"I am authorized to state this message has been subscribed to by the Territorial attorney general, the city and county attorney, and the president, vice president, secretary and treasurer of the Hawaii Bar Association.

"I am further authorized to state that each and every member of the law firm now representing Mrs. Fortescue, Mr. Massie and their co-defendants, which firm was identified with the prosecution during the (Massie attack) trial, assert the instructions were eminently fair to the prosecution."

Gov. Judd asked Secretary Wilbur to furnish Victor S. F. Houston, Hawaii's delegate in Congress, with a copy of his protest.

The committee of business men, composed of members of the Chamber of Commerce, urged the special session of the legislature with view to amendment of the police administration laws. Naval officers and others had contended the police department was inefficient and affected by politics because its head was an elected officer. An appointive official was proposed.

Early Action Fought.

"We do not propose to dictate a program," said Dillingham, "but will back a program toward this end provided it calls for early action. We want the governor to know he has the backing of the business community, but immediate action must be taken. We don't want the situation clouded by political trading."

Montgomery Winn, attorney for Mrs. Fortescue and the three accused Navy men, said any delay in presentation to the grand jury of the murder charges would "seem to be absolutely unjustifiable."

The inquisitorial body is to organize Friday, and City Attorney Gilliland said he planned to present his evidence as soon as organization was completed. The panel from which the jurors will be drawn to hear the trial will be made up tomorrow. Citizens of various racial connections probably will be included in the panel.

Mr. Winn said the defense would be ready for trial in three weeks, allowing time for Mrs. Fortescue's husband, widely known soldier and author, and her brother, Robert Bell, to reach here from New York. The attorney suggested that the murder trial should take precedence over other pending cases.

Rear Admiral Yates Stirling, district naval commandant, who was among the foremost critics of the police system and crime conditions here, expressed pleasure at the steps being taken to improve law enforcement agencies and remove them from politics, but declined to be quoted in detail.

Will Reply at Once.

The report in Washington of a House naval subcommittee blaming Gov. Lawrence M. Judd for crime conditions here, and saying the executive once pardoned one of the five alleged attackers of Mrs. Thomas H. Massie after the man had pleaded guilty to assault with attempt to ravish, caused Judd to start work today on an immediate reply to the charges.

A charge of attempted criminal assault was filed here today against Philander B. Gray, 31, on complaint of a Portuguese woman. The incident occurred while the city was recovering from the stir over recent cases of attack and the killing of one alleged assaulter.

Officers said they arrested Gray, who stated he was from Texas, while he was struggling with the woman. He denied the charges. Gray said he and the woman, who gave her age as 21, had attended a party and were on their way home.

Fortescue's Condition Better.

New York, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Maj. Granville Roland Fortescue today was given a good chance by his physician to recover from an attack of pneumonia. The physician's bulletin said his patient's condition was "satisfactory."

Maj. Fortescue's illness has prevented his going to Hawaii, where his wife and son-in-law are held for the killing of a Hawaiian, following upon an attack on the major's daughter. He may yet sail for Honolulu, if his recovery is rapid, it was said. This is the seventh day of his illness. He spent a comfortable day and his temperature was only 100.8.

Commission Rule Plan For Hawaii Is Criticized

Honolulu, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Proposals for commission rule for Hawaii, suggested in some quarters as a result of the Kahahawai killing were criticized in a statement issued by A. G. M. Robertson, twice chief justice of the territorial Supreme Court and a member of the law firm of Robertson, Castle & Olson.

Alfred Castle, of the firm, is a brother of W. R. Castle, jr., Undersecretary of State.

Robertson took direct issued with those contending a commission government—presumably made up of representatives of the Army, Navy and Department of Interior—was the "only way out."

"Most decidedly no," said Robertson. "The hysterical Admiral Pettengill and the supercilious and lawless Admiral Pratt afford a clear indication of the kind of rule we would have under a commission form of government with Federal service men on the commission.

"The last and worst breakdown which this community has suffered can not be laid at the door of any local official. Nevertheless, this community must work itself out of the problem.

"Delegate Houston is entitled to a vote of thanks for having the sand to stand up and call his soul his own."

Admiral Pettengill, to whom Robertson referred, is the naval official who officially stated Honolulu was unsafe for the wives of naval officers. Admiral Pratt, at Washington, was quoted in press dispatches as saying naval men would not stand for violation of their women, a statement island leaders interpreted as condoning the shooting of Joseph Kahahawai. Victor S. K. Houston, territorial delegate to Congress, was formerly a naval officer.

Culbertson on Contract

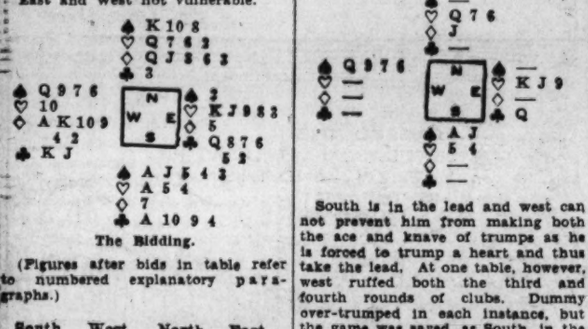
"USELESS RUFFING"

AS SOME philosopher has pointed out, fate deals the cards, whether in life or bridge, and you are only responsible for the way you play them. The obvious thing is often the correct thing. The master player of the game of life or contract is the one who can differentiate between the times to follow the obvious course and the times to take a by-path. In today's hand we have an example of the difference between doing the obvious thing under unusual circumstances and of stepping off the beaten path as a means of reaching the desired end. This hand was played in a duplicate bridge tournament in Cleveland. The lesson is one of defense.

South, dealer.
North and South vulnerable.
East and West not vulnerable.



The Bidding.

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♠	2◇	2♠(1)	3♡(2)
4♠(3)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—A shaded raise. West's diamond bid has decreased the value of North's hand played on the attack. However, the hand contains a singleton and adequate support for the spade bid. North does not wish to risk the possible loss of a game through timidity.

2—Justified in view of the unusual distribution and the scoring situation.

3—South, anxious to score the bonus for a game and hoping to find more substantial support than is actually the case in his partner's hand, overbids his hand 1 trick.

West opened the king of diamonds and when the dummy disclosed its length in that suit he shifted to the ten of hearts. All south players, when they studied their combined holdings, elected to play the hand at a cross ruff. If south can utilize dummy's three trumps to trump his losing clubs and his own trumps to ruff dummy's diamonds, then he can afford to concede his opponents two tricks at the end, as he will with his top cards have fulfilled his contract. The ace of clubs was led and the second round, upon which west played the king, was trumped in the dummy. The queen of diamonds was led from the dummy and east, in order to prevent south from discarding a heart, used his only trump. South, in pursuance of his plan, overruffed with the trey of spades and led another club for the second ruff in dummy. Here the defense play varied, and the player who elected to follow the obvious course of discarding diamonds on the third and fourth leads of clubs from the closed hand failed to prevent the making of a game. With that line of play, the following situation resulted:

South is in the lead and west can not prevent him from making both the ace and knave of trumps as he is forced to trump a heart and thus take the lead. At one table, however, west ruffed both the third and fourth rounds of clubs. Dummy over-trumped in each instance, but the game was saved, as South, in the lead, could do nothing except lead a diamond and east won and returned the suit. Thus, by apparently useless ruffing, west had found a way to defeat the contract. West made a trump and the king of diamonds, while east won two heart tricks.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

SEVERAL of the trees in my garden (fruit and shade) are infested with scale. Must I wait until spring to wage warfare against these pests? HENRY S.

No; spray with lime sulphur or with miscible oils on any warm winter day. This is the most effective method of eradicating scale.

Is this the proper time to bring some of my tulips indoors which are now buried in ashes in my cold frame? MRS. JOSEPH R. W.

Single tulips may now be brought into heat, but the double tulips can not be forced so readily until February.

Is it true that trees can be successfully moved in winter?

HARVEY F. L.

Yes. They may be transplanted in winter if the ground is not frozen too hard; large ones should be moved by digging around them gradually and allowing the root balls to freeze hard.

I have five gloxinias left over from last year. When should these be potted? DOROTHY C. D.

This is a good time to pot up gloxinias, which like a light, rich soil into which some sand has been incorporated.

I have an asparagus plumosus, a calla lily and some cacti. They are all in one room. Can you tell me the temperatures that will suit these varieties, or is it impossible to provide temperatures that will suit all three kinds in one place?

MRS. JOHN S. C.

The varieties mentioned will do well if given a temperature of 68 to 75 degrees in the daytime and 64 to 68 degrees at night.

Do calla lilies require feeding if they are planted in rich soil? My plants are over two years old and should begin to bloom this year. I have them in the sun and water them regularly. They seem like healthy plants. ALICE W. L.

Calla lilies should be given a top dressing of bonemeal once in ten days, as they are heavy feeders. If you fail to provide them with this food, at least give each plant a half cupful of weak liquid manure when the buds appear.

I have started some scyllas in a window box. They have sprouted and are seemingly doing well. These bulbs were not placed in the dark to make roots. Will this prevent them from setting buds?

MRS. HERMAN F.

They should have been kept in the dark for a few weeks, but occasionally they do very well without this.

Should my newly planted evergreen be protected this winter? If so, how?

THOMAS C. F.

Newly planted evergreens should have the protection of a windbreak. Burlap stretched over stakes driven into the ground will serve the purpose, though some growers advocate the use of an A-shaped barricade made of wide boards.

Please tell me how to care for a tubbed bay tree in winter.

POLLY R. W.

A tubbed bay tree is best stored in a dark, cool, well-ventilated cellar, provided it is frostproof. Water it only occasionally while in storage.

* * * *

Mamselle writes from Paris that the suppressed excitement in the air over the impending couture openings is terrific. A couple of our very dear and quite personal friends who are the Haute Couture have allowed her a peep behind the walls, as it were, and, though she is honor bound not to breathe a word of what she has seen, she can breathe, a coup-lah hints. But first let me tell you a bit about these collections.

January and February showings of the Paris couturieres are of summer styles more than spring, about a third of spring models and two-thirds of midsummer models, as you may or may not know. Paris has to design quite far ahead, you see, and, contrary to the popular belief, the collections that are shown in November, called "midseason" collections, are of spring styles, while the January collections show spring and mainly summer styles.

This is easy to understand when you realize all that a frock has to go through before Miladi Chic strolls in it adown Fifth avenue or the Champs Elysees! Picture it being worn amid a hushed approval (occasionally indifference, even disapproval) by an aloof and glace manniquin in the opening collection of a famous Parisian couturier. Picture it then selected by the buyer; allow at least two, and sometimes three or four weeks to elapse before it is put on the boat for America, another week en route, another two weeks for arranging it to be displayed in the American store and properly brought to the attention of the public, and there you have an idea of the lapse of time that must of necessity intervene between collections and actual wearing. No wonder that an awed gathering of buyers and newspaper and magazine artists and writers, called "journalists" in French, sit at collections, between January 20 or so and February 7 or so, of the Haute Couture showing spring and summer models!

I just thought you would like this little bit of "inside" on the Paris-American-Elegante situation today.

'Nif one of our famous French friends ever gets ahold of this collom and sees me gaily offering to tell you how to make yourself an adequately large enough chemise and pantie-shorts out of a yard and a quarter of material, my name will be "boue" wit dem! Now look that word up in your French dictionary, and while doing it address a letter to the Dare Department of The Washington Post and send in this letter a stamped envelope addressed to yourself, so that I can send you back the illustrated leaflet telling you how to go about cutting this yard and a quarter—no more—to make a complete lingerie set out of it. Yes, you can make this from my leaflet, whether you have ever sewn a stitch in your life or not!

* * * *

I simply love Patou's ideas for what a truly elegant and lovely lady would like to wear in the evening! Just look at his model "Mannon" that he has allowed me to sketch for you today. What can a mere "journaliste" say about it, except that it is of rose-gray satin, and a Patou?

Au Revoir.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"CAPRICORN."

IF January 14 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:40 a. m. to 9 a. m., from 1:30 p. m. to 3 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 10:15 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7:40 p. m.

Astrological influences for January 14: Among the business fraternity the luckiest will be thos whose interests lie on the land. Those recently launched on some new enterprise will have to battle with adverse currents. Lovers will find Cupid in a bad mood.

The child born on this January 14 will be given energy, positiveness, enterprise, self-assurance and combativeness. The most important events of its life will be due to its own act. It will be a doer, and will not merely drift through life, or require to be pushed on by others.

A commanding personality was given you, if born January 14. Personality has been said to be the outward expression of an inward force, and from yours can be gleaned the following points in your make-up: Kindliness, courage, truthfulness, sincerity and earnestness. You have the art of handling people with sympathetic understanding, and an appreciation of their rights and susceptibilities. Striving never to hurt or embarrass, you strike a harmonious note wherever you go, and at once surround yourself with friends. It would be a pity for you to devote your life to any field of endeavor wherein you did not come into intimate contact with people.

You suffer from nerves as well as other people, but you are always able to sink your nervousness in the thought of determination to get what you are going after. You may collapse after a fright or mental blow, but never at the time of a crisis. You do not have a suspicious nature, and are always ready to give every one the benefit of the doubt. You are not anxious to listen to gossip, and are very careful about what you say to other people. You will always create a fund of good will and respect, no matter what your material successes in life may be. The horoscopical picture of your home is good.

Successful people born January 14: Robert W Steele, opened the first silver mine in Colorado.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

DISEASES OF A CENTURY AGO.

IN the year 1830 there was a garrison located in a fort on the south bank of the Chicago River, a few hundred feet from where it emptied into Lake Michigan. The State canal commissioners, after surveying the region, had pronounced the immediate vicinity of this fort as an exceptionally healthy spot, and so well adapted to the requirements of a townsite that they had had it surveyed and were planning to lay out town lots. The nearby lake offered an ample supply of pure water and the landward breezes purified the air.

In that year the garrison consisted of 90 soldiers and, in spite of the supposed healthiness of the location, 15 of the number, or one-sixth, died of malaria.

In 1831 the health record was about on a par with that of the previous year but the outstanding entry related to another subject. The region was organized into the present county. The new town around the garrison had no governmental organization but there was a population of 100. In September about 4,000 Indians camped near by and came to the garrison to be paid for their lands. The outstanding record referred to related to the debauchery and violence which ensued.

In 1832 the settlement was without a legal government except that of the county, the State and the Federal military control. There were 700 people in the settlement. Troops headed for the Black Hawk war were infected with cholera when they left their Eastern stations, and became helpless because of it soon after reaching the mouth of the Chicago.

They got no nearer the war. They spread the disease among the local population, one-fifth of which had to be treated for cholera in the hospital of the post, and 45 died of the disease. One-third of the troops had it. In this epidemic cholera laid low 20 per cent of the entire population and caused the deaths of nearly 7 per cent. If the same cholera death rate were to prevail in present day Chicago, it would mean the anuffing out of over 210,000 in say 60 days.

This was the baptism of a new town by a major epidemic. Cholera continued to visit the growing town at intervals of a few years for a little more than 30 years. There were times when it seemed that that disease would be too much for the struggling town. For nearly 70 years there has been no cholera.

Other major epidemic diseases which were almost on a par with cholera in that dangerous day have become of small importance, even if they have not been wiped out. At times people are liable to feel that violence may be about as bad as it was when the Indians were paid off in 1830. They may feel that somehow we do not seem to be able to make good. Let them consider the health improvement and, in doing so, renew their faith.

SUMMER COLDS.

M. J. writes: I caught a summer cold some time ago, and when I cough I am hoarse for two or three minutes, and it is hard to talk. I seem to strain my throat. I am very healthy, but my colds have always broken up with a cough. They soon disappear. I have never seemed to choke up before as I do now. Do you think it is bronchitis? Some one told me they thought it was, but I do not think so. I am terribly lazy, I feel well, but am cross most of the time. What would you say to that?

REPLY.

It seems that your colds start in your nasal passages and extend to your bronchi. Your colds end in acute bronchitis. This is generally a self-limited disease, as you have found it. Just now you have a tracheitis. It is somewhere near your vocal cords. The hoarseness and inability to talk is due to a little phlegm getting between your vocal cords. Relaxation is the best remedy. Don't try so hard. This cold should clear up as the others have done. The laziness and irritability may not be good signs. If your cough hangs on and you continue to be hard to live with, have your chest examined.

A NEW EXPERIENCE.

L. M. N. writes:

1. My 8-week-old infant has severe twitching of the toes, most noticeable when she is taking her bottle. Also, when she cries, her arms and legs thrash around almost as if she had no control of them. What is the cause of this, and the cure? She is in excellent health, has gained 3 pounds and 4 ounces since birth, and her formula agrees with her, as she does not regurgitate.

2. You mentioned tetany in a recent article. Could this be it?

REPLY.

1. My guess is that this is your first experience.

2. I don't think so, but if you suspect it, have your physician decide.

Miss M. C. writes: I have been suffering with hiccoughs for the past four weeks. I have tried all kinds of medicines, but they did not help. Please let me know what causes them.

REPLY.

Hiccoughing is a spasmodic contraction of the diaphragm, and is generally caused by some irritation of the stomach, or the lower end of the tube that leads into the stomach—the esophagus. Simple home procedures cure nearly all cases. If the symptom keeps up for four weeks, have a physician see what is wrong with the stomach, the esophagus or the nerve which serves these organs.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

HE HAD A MOTHER!

DEAR Frances McDonald: Won't you please help me and others by publishing this letter?

I am 21 and have been married four months. Oh, Mrs. McDonald, I thought that I would be the happiest person in the world, but I'm not. I am married to a mamma's boy. Oh, yes, I knew when I married him that in the 25 years of his life he was tied to his mother's apron strings. He doesn't look the type—6 feet 2, tall, broad and, I thought, wonderful. He never took girls out and I knew him for two years before he noticed me. I guess his unconcerned ways attracted me to him mostly. I was a little afraid of his homey ways, but every one told me a "good son makes a good husband." Well, he is a good husband, but if he tells me once more his mother did things this way and not mine, I shall go wild—he can't make me like his mother. I won't let him. I believe everything that goes on in our household is known by his mother. When we visit his folks she makes me feel like an outsider, while she smothers him with affection.

I guess you think I'm jealous, but I'm not. I would just love to do something right just once and not the way "mother" does.

Oh, Mrs. McDonald, won't you please help me. I feel that I should like to die. I am so miserable.

"BEWILDERED."

Well, it probably will not help much to tell you that if you could read my morning mail any day in the week you would wonder how you ever thought you had anything to write to the newspaper wise owl about. My child, Eve was the only woman on earth who was not being constantly compared with the woman who preceded her in the role of handmaiden to spoiled man. The cave-man, without doubt, pointed out ways in which his mother could make a cave look like a cave instead of a hole in a cliff. And his mate, no doubt, cried out from the depths of her soul for a good-advice column to write to for comfort, and wished she had taken that cross-eyed fellow with the long ears who gave her that dear little mastodon pup.

This whole miserable marriage business has been a joke on woman since time began. Moonlight. Music. Candy. Flowers. And then what? Bath brushes, shaving brushes, tooth brushes, hat brushes. And mothers-in-law. My child, laugh it off. Laugh yourself sick over it, for I can assure you there is nothing personal in it all. It is just what every woman finds out after all the soft music has died away. And one woman weeps and grinds her teeth and spoils her make-up, while another laughs and laughs and laughs. Don't spoil your make-up. And just for fun, start talking about your mother every time he starts talking about his. You know—just fun! Grr-rrrr-rrrr!

JANUARY 14, 1907.

The President again entered the debate on the Brownsville affair in the Senate by sending a special message to Congress. The President favors rescinding that portion of the order that debars the soldiers from receiving civil employment.

President J. J. Hill has issued a statement on the railroad situation in which he says that $5,000,000,000 must be immediately spent in order to avert a terrible crisis.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE war to make the world safe for card-table bad manners is ended. Ely Culbertson won the contract bridge battle of the century on points, but both boys wound up even in the matter of acrimonious remarks.

• • • •

IT WAS THE ONLY FIGHT OF THE PAST YEAR BROUGHT TO A CONCLUSION WITHOUT A NOTE FROM SECRETARY STIMSON.

• • • •

The match was a complete triumph for the newsreel-over-rotogravure system of bridge playing and proved conclusively that a player should have a national hookup or better to bid five no trump.

• • • •

The war took about five weeks and proved that it is possible to get a billion dollars worth of newspaper advertising free, using either the Culbertson or Lenz system.

• • • •

WHEN the battle began, the contenders were fairly well known by name, and by the end of the tenth rubber Sidney Lenz's face was familiar in homes where Hoover would have passed unrecognized and Culbertson's profile had become old stuff around firesides where the folks might have confused pictures of Bernard Shaw and Mahatma Gandhi.

• • • •

It was supposed to be a test of the one-two-three system of bidding over the approach-forcing system, but before the match was one week old the principals were playing kitchen-sink bridge and using all known systems, including the Rockne shift and Meehan spinner.

• • • •

All in all, it was a wonderful thing for the neighborhood bridge clubs, as it demonstrated beyond doubt that bad bridge is a natural instinct and not an acquired habit.

• • • •

When the epic tilt began, the world of Class B to Z players sat back with that guilty feeling, prepared to feel the depths of humiliation and shame. At the end of the third rubber, the folks had concluded the contestants were just a couple of terrible bridge players who had made good in the city.

• • • •

The match showed that one touch of contract makes the whole world vulnerable. Both sides forgot what suit had been bid, failed to draw out trumps, failed to count the cards and committed all the simple errors so dear to the hearts of the Tuesday Ladies Bridge Club.

• • • •

It proved, too, to the relief of the average man and woman, that contract bridge and an evening of mutual good feelings are quite impossible, and that the rays from a bridge lamp kill good manners in all spheres of society.

• • • •

Once you sit down for an evening of contract it becomes a matter of brother against brother and sister against sister, with no holds barred and any insult permissible unless insufficiently brutal.

• • • •

All things considered, the match was a success. The only sufferers were the bridge addicts who had read the experts' books and made the harrowing effort to reconcile their teachings with their playing.

• • • •

There will be no return bout. Not until the picture producers see how the screen test turned out.

PROJECTS STOPPED IN CAPITOL HEIGHTS

Mayor and Council Head Give Conflicting Reasons for Action.

Except for emergency work which may be ordered by a special meeting of the town council, the municipal construction and road improvement of Capitol Heights, Md., has been ordered stopped. The mayor and the president of the council gave different reasons for the action.

George Finger, head of the council, said that the town is faced with a deficiency, due to delinquent taxes and overexpenditure for roads. Mayor Joseph Lare said the cessation of work is a regular occurrence, and is made necessary by bad weather. He denied that the town's finances are in an unsatisfactory condition, while Finger said.

"The town is in a hole—people are not paying their taxes."

Loss in Bank Cited.

Stopping the work was ordered at a regular meeting of the council, when Treasurer Clinton G. Light reported a balance of $340, and bills of $2,100 to be met before May. These are for electric lights, salaries of officials, and interest and principal on the town bonds. Mr. Finger revealed last night that the town had $2,800 in a Baltimore banking concern, which recently went into the hands of receivers. This was a part of the sinking fund for these bonds.

Money due the town from the county for upkeep of roads was another matter on which the two officials disagreed. Mr. Finger said that the entire sum of $1,400 had been paid to the town, while Mayor Lare counted this among the receipts which Capitol Heights may expect in the next five months.

At the meeting of the council three persons appeared to complain about drainage arrangements near their homes. In one case, the petitioner said that he had so much water in his cellar that it had put out the fire in his furnace.

Tax Sales to be Early.

An appropriation to drain the property with town funds was suggested, bringing forth the statement from Councilman Frank Lawrence that the town could not pay its current bills unless back taxes were paid up. The order to suspend work was then passed.

A large list of delinquent taxpayers is expected this year, and the annual tax sales will be held earlier than usual, Mr. Finger said.

Town elections will be held in May, and the town's charter provides that no debts may be carried over from one administration to the next, except as bonds. Early sales for unpaid taxes must be held so that the town finances may be straightened out before the elections.

INCREASE IN TAXES VITAL, MELLON HOLDS

cal years, due to veterans' activities emergency construction, and the postal deficit, and the decline in revenue from taxation, Mr. Mellon said:

"The truth of the matteris that our revenue system rests on a comparatively narrow base and that our tax receipts are susceptible to the widest variations in accordance with variations in business conditions. This is particularly true of current individual income tax collections, the instability of which is further accentuated by the wide variations in gains and losses derived from the sale of so-called capital assets."

Secretary Mellon reviewed the decline in big incomes during the last two years and turned to a defense of his plan to bring in 1,700,000 additional tax payers by lowering the income tax exemptions.

"It is sometimes suggested that our additional revenue requirements can be covered for the most part by increasing the income tax rates applicable to the larger incomes," the Secretary continued. "The justification for such a proposal is that in periods of emergency the doctrine of ability to pay should be pushed to the limit.

"Leaving aside the economic question involved in drying up, even temporarily, those liquid resources which should be available for restoring the working capital of industry and commerce and reinforcing our credit machinery, a study of the figures leads to the conclusions that the necessary revenue can not be derived from this source."

An increase by 100 per cent in surtaxes on the big incomes would net only $200,000,000, Mr. Mellon said, although he recommended a 40 per cent surtax on incomes in excess of $500,000, and 37 per cent between $100,000 and $200,000, as compared with the present maximum of 20 per cent on incomes in excess of $100,000.

"Many not now taxed are very definitely in a position to make some contribution to the support of government," Secretary Mellon continued. "They should be asked to do so, taking into consideration ability to pay. This basic concept underlies the entire program which the Treasury Department is submitting for your consideration. It must form a part of any program, for without it a solution is impossible, and it is justified not only by necessity, but by equity and sound public policy. * * *

"I realize, of course, that arguments can be advanced against every increase in rate or additional tax proposed. This is true of all measures looking to an increase in the public revenue. But I trust that on this occasion the attitude of taxpayers will be different from that which, knowing human nature, we would expect under normal circumstances."

Balancing Budget First Great Task, Says Garner

(Associated Press.)

Speaker Garner said yesterday the Democrats hope to be in charge of Congress and the executive branch after the next national elections and that they will concern themselves first in balancing the budget.

"If a Republican Senate and a Republican President are willing to cooperate with us, that much time will be saved," the Texan said in a statement through the Democratic national committee.

Garner said it was of "primary importance in the present industrial and financial situation in balancing of the national budget and that the solvency of the Government is the basis of prosperity."

He expects the Government will borrow large sums during the winter for relief purposes.

Administration's Tax Plan Bared to House Committee

Mellon Suggests 1,700,000 Additional Individual Payers, Beginning With Single Persons Earning $1,000; Other Levies Recommended.

(Associated Press.)

An outline of the administration's tax increase plan to provide $390,000,000 this year and $920,000,000 next fiscal year as presented yesterday to the House ways and means committee by Secretary Mellon follows:

Corporation income taxes to be increased from 12 to 12½ per cent, to net $27,000,000 in current fiscal year and $60,000,000 in 1933.

A superestate tax to be graduated from 1 per cent on estates of $50,000 to 25 per cent on those in excess of $10,000,000, from which $33,000,000 is expected within the coming eighteen months.

Individual income taxes to have normal rates at 2, 4 and 6 per cent, with surtaxes beginning with 1 per cent on incomes over $10,000, graduated up to 37 per cent on those between $100,000 and $200,000 and 40 per cent on those above $500,000, as compared with the present maximum of 20 per cent on incomes in excess of $100,000.

Personal exemptions to be lowered to $1,000 for a single person, and to $2,500 with one having dependents, with a credit of $400 for each dependent. This is expected to bring in 1,700,000 additional individuals, making a total of Federal taxpayers of 3,600,000, who are expected to pay an additional $83,000,000 for the last half of the current fiscal year and $185,000,000 in 1933. Three-fifths of the revenue is estimated to come from incomes in excess of $100,000.

Revival of many of the miscellaneous taxes of 1924, including increase of one-sixth of present rates on tobacco manufactures and products except cigars; an increase of 1 cent on stock sales; extension of tax on admissions of 10 cents and above; a tax on manufacturers' sales of automobiles, trucks and accessories at 5, 3 and 2½ per cent, respectively; a stamp tax on conveyance of realty of 50 cents for each $500 value in excess of $100; a tax of 5 per cent on manufacturers' sales of radio and phonograph equipment; a stamp tax of 2 cents on each check and draft; tax on telephone, telegraph, radio and cable messages of 5 cents on charges between 14 and 50 cents, and 10 cents on those above.

In the first six months in 1932, about $205,000,000 is expected to be netted from these miscellaneous taxes, while revenue amounting to $514,000,000 is expected for the fiscal year 1933.

Postal rates be increased to cover a deficit in revenues of about $150,000,000, although no specific rate was suggested.

FEDERAL WAGE CUT DUE, M'GUGIN SAYS

Holds Reported Rail Slash Presages Reduction of U. S. Pay Rolls.

Reported agreement of railroad labor on a 10 per cent salary cut presages similar reduction in salaries of Federal workers, here and elsewhere, Representative Harold McGugin (Republican), Kansas, said in a statement here last night.

"All lines of private industry are taking the cut," he said. "The railroad workers are one of the last large groups to do so. It remains now to bring the salaries of Federal workers in line with these."

Later, the reported railway agreement was held up to Federal workers as reason they should not be overconfident in their pay-cut fight, at a meeting last night of Agriculture branch, Federal Employes Union, No. 2. Earl Hoage, national organizer, said he feared the agreement would accelerate the wage cut trend.

Miss Gertrude McNally, secretary-treasurer of the National Federation of Federal Employes, reassured employers on their legislative outlook, but warned that the fight is not over. She outlined provisions of several bills for optional retirement of workers after 30 years, now before Congress.

Green Reiterates Stand.

Representative McGugin said in an interview that he was out of sympathy with statements that no salary cut legislation can be put through the present Congress.

"When the leaders in both Houses find they have to cut every expense item, Federal pay reductions will come," he said.

"And that will be during the present Congress, as an amendment to one of the appropriation bills. I am not the only member in favor of it by any means. I would not hesitate to offer the proposal on the floor. But as I am a new member, I predict that some one with greater seniority than myself will take the initiative."

President William Green, American Federation of Labor, reiterated his stand against cutting Government pay rolls at a hearing yesterday before the House labor committee on bills to broaden provisions of the prevailing wage act.

Shorter Postal Week Urged.

He charged irregularities in the administration of the act by Government contractors, who, he declared, enforce "near-slavery" conditions among those engaged in Mississippi flood-control work.

A shorter work week for postal employes was proposed yesterday by Representative James M. Mead (Democrat), New York. Postal workers would either be given Saturdays off or compensatory time the following week under provisions of the bill.

Salary reduction proposals formed the chief topic of speakers who addressed last night's meeting of Federal Employes Union, No. 2. Speakers included Dr. Walter P. Taylor, fifth vice president of the National Federation; Dr. A. F. Woods, director of scientific work in the Agriculture Department; Joseph Stansfield, president of the local; Henry G. Nolda, secretary-treasurer of the local; Miss L. L. Anderson, president of the branch, and Mrs. Viola Snyder, secretary of the branch.

State Will Probe Fatal Span Crash

Maryland Roads Body to Investigate Death of 3 at Sligo Bridge.

Although Montgomery County, Md., officials have announced their belief that the three men killed when the bridge over Sligo Creek on Carroll avenue, Takoma Park, Md., Tuesday, came to their death through accidental means, the Maryland State Roads Commission intends to conduct an engineering investigation into the accident in an effort to prevent repetition of such accidents, Maj. E. Brooke Lee announced yesterday.

An investigating committee composed of States Attorney Stedman Prescott, Chief of Police Alvie A. Moxley, Detective Theodore Vollten, of the Identification Bureau, and Policeman Charles Barnes, of the Silver Spring substation, made an inquiry into the accident and decided that it was accidental, according to a statement by State's Attorney Prescott, closing the case as far as the county is concerned.

The dead men are Guy L. Cowperthwaite, of Elkton, who leaves a widow and two children; Edgar T. Tracey, of Takoma Park, Md., who leaves a widow and one child, and Harold Davis, colored, of Media, Pa. The bodies were removed to undertaking establishments in Rockville, Md.

WAR OF NAVY BILLS SPLITS HOUSE GROUP

Proponents of One-Year and Ten-Year Building Programs Collide.

(Associated Press.)

Members of Congress who want the Navy built to treaty limits yesterday found themselves in a no compromise war of their own making.

It arose in the announcement of an attempt to substitute a one-year construction program for the ten-year bill pending before the House naval committee.

But Chairman Vinson, author of the ten-year $616,250,000 authorization measure, met this threat with an appeal to the committee to do its "duty" and the statement that there will be "no compromise as far as I am concerned."

The ranking Republican on the committee—Representative Britten, Illinois—announced introduction of his one-year substitute and said: "I intend to stick by my guns, too."

Indorsed by Secretary Adams.

Vinson's bill, which has the indorsement of Secretary Adams and highest ranking naval officers, would authorize 120 new ships; Britten's, which was approved by the committee in the last Congress, calls for one aircraft carrier, one flying deck cruiser and four submarines at a total cost of $66,030,000.

Britten said the one-year program would have been brought to a vote in the House last session if there had seemed to be any liklihood of Senate approval.

"Also, it had the approval of the President, since it was not contrary to his financial policy," Britten said. He insisted there was little liklihood that either Mr. Hoover or leaders of the House would accept the Vinson bill.

Opposes Waiting for Crisis.

But Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol, chairman of the Navy general board, testified before the committee that the ten-year plan should be accepted. He held the tonnage necessary to bring the fleet up to treaty limits should be acquired before there is an emergency.

"Building in peace time excites no one, especially when treaty agreements have eliminated competition in building," he testified.

The fleet at present, he added, is "unbalanced," and in no condition to meet emergencies.

Britten said that if he failed to get approval of a substitute for the Vinson bill in committee he would carry his fight to the floor.

Dr. Morgan Urges Direct Tax System

Georgetown Dean Holds It Would Give People Needed Teaching.

(Associated Press.)

A decrease in tax burdens was held last night by Dean William Gerry Morgan, of the Georgetown University Medical School, to be possible only through greater understanding of taxation by the electorate to permit intelligent direction of those elected.

The former president of the American Medical Association suggested in a radio address sponsored by the American Taxpayers League that if a system of direct taxes could be applied all along the line the individual "would most certainly become speedily tax-conscious." He criticized particularly the system of a "multitude of invisible and indirect levies" which he said "never appear in the individual's budget and which eat away his income without his knowledge."

Contending perhaps in no one detail were elected representatives of the people instructed less as to what is expected of them than in taxing matters, Dr. Morgan proposed popular taxing education as "a more substantial contribution toward the increased happiness and success of our people than a policy of steadily increasing governmental expenditures and taxation."

Tippett School Leads In Student Attendance

The Tippett School, a one-teacher institution, led all the Prince Georges County Schools in attendance last month, according to the December report released by Miss Katherine Shears, attendance officer. Tippett had an average of 96.9, while Fort Washington, a two-teacher school, was second with 96.

The Marlboro School was third and led the grade schools with 95.8, while Mount Rainier High School led its class with 94.5. Maryland Park was high among the junior high schools, setting an average of 94.4. Glenn Dale again headed the colored schools, with an average of 99.2.

Income Tax Boost Backed by Strawn

Other Methods Also Held Necessary to Balance U. S. Budget.

Baltimore, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Silas H. Strawn, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, declared today that an increase in both upper and lower brackets of the income tax is necessary to aid in balancing the national budget.

Every man in the United States who earns an income, large or small, must aid in the governmental money crisis, he said in an address before the Baltimore Bond Club, and declared that "the most disquieting aspect of the present times is the disposition of people to avoid payment of taxes and shift the burden on some one else."

Balancing of the national budget is absolutely necessary to maintenance of the governmetnal credit, Mr Strawn said, and even an upward revision of the income tax will not accomplish it. New and other methods of balancing must be devised, he declared.

CHAMBER APPROVES ECONOMY IN COUNTY

Consolidation of Offices in Fairfax Is Indorsed at Herndon Session.

The general recommendations of the Virginia Committee on Reform of County Governments, which are now before the State Legislature, were indorsed in a resolution adopted by the Chamber of Commerce of Fairfax County, Va., at its monthly meeting at the high school at Herndon. The trade body approved the plan of consolidation of offices and general reorganization of county offices.

State Senator John W. Rust and Delegate Edmund H. Allen were requested to sponsor legislation which would have the bond issue roads in Fairfax County incorporated in the State highway system, which would relieve the county of annual maintenance. They were also requested to obtain legislation which would allow the Town of Herndon to borrow $7,000 from the State literary fund to complete the addition to the Herndon School.

The chamber will endeavor to obtain an amendment to the Ball act passed at the last session of the Legislature which will allow closer cooperation with other jurisdictions in northern Virginia and the National Park and Planning Commission in the development of the George Washington Memorial Parkway along the Potomac River. President John W Brookfield appointed Robert R. Buckley, of Fairfax, and Wells A. Sherman, of McLean, as a committee to represent the chamber and cooperate with the committee from the board of supervisors in working out changes in the Ball act. The next meeting of the chamber will be held at Baileys Crossroads on February 9.

The program of entertainment included fancy dances by Miss Louise Carl, Miss Jane Carl and Miss Susan Hall, and a vocal solo by Walter Granger accompanied by Mrs. Guy N. Church.

Beginning tomorrow the Arlington Welfare Board will launch a county-wide drive for funds to be added to the funds coming to the county from the Federal employes as a result of the drive in Washington. The funds will be used to aid the unemployed.

The board has submitted the name of the Rev. Walter F. Latch, of Arlington, to Frank Bain, of Richmond, State commissioner of public welfare, to fill a vacancy now existing on the board.

The prison camp which opened in Arlington County several months ago to house more than 100 prisoners who have worked on the grading of the Lee boulevard from Station 107, near the military reservation, and extending to Falls Church is now preparing to move. Work of tearing down the buildings to be taken to King George County was started yesterday.

Efficiency of Hyattsville Firemen Cuts Risk Rate

Although fires in Hyattsville, Md., menaced property valued at $73,210 during 1931, through efforts of the local volunteer fire department, the loss was held to $6,630, according to a report made at the meeting of the department.

Fire underwriters have given the department the rating of "excellent" for the first time, and property owners have saved $20,000 in insurance premiums through lower rates given the town, the report states. Chief Noble F. Rushe also reported on the cooperation of the Hyattsville unit with the Washington Fire Department, both in use of the fire school and in arrangements for coordinated work.

The expenses of the department were $923, while receipts were $1,162, leaving a balance of $229. The present indebtedness was reported to be $700. Expenditures in the present year will include two salvage covers of canvas, to protect furniture from water while fighting fires, and to be used in covering holes burned in roofs.

The following committees were appointed by Chief Rushe: Auditing, Wayne Read, Laurence Watson, Charles O. Johnson; finance, Charles E. Trott, Clifford Proctor, Ernest Davis, Harry Degges; investigation, Wayne Proctor, Ernest Davis, Earle Dorelle; entertainment, Ernest Davis, Charles O. CONCERT HONORS GO TO SENORA SUPERVIA

European Prima Donna Wins Plaudits in Program of Mrs. Townsend.

A prima donna from over the seas, Senora Conchita Supervia, contralto-coloratura, who has sung in opera in Madrid, Paris and London, captured Mrs. Townsend's fifty-seventh musical morning at the Mayflower yesterday, and claimed it as her own. True, she had to share her plaudits with Alberto Salvi, harpist, whose work is acclaimed far and near, but the dainty senora was the big hit of the program and was accorded round after round of applause.

Senora Supervia, who was heard in Washington for the first time, has a voice of equisite timber well trained and a method of production that makes dazzling scales ripple forth with the ease of singing of a simple ballad.

This vocal ability was established in her first singing of "The Balatta," from the opera "I Nozze di Figaro," by Mozart, followed by an excellent rendition of Rossini's grand rondo, "Cenerentola." Additional laurels were won in her singing of the aria "Una voce poco fa," from the opera "Barbiere di Sevilla," by Rossini.

In her final group Senora Supervia sang "Farruca," by Turina, which had been dedicated to her by the composer.

Senora Supervia was formerly in an opera conducted by Toscannini.

Mr. Salvi lived up to his high reputation as a harpist, especially in "The Swan," by Saint-Saens, and "layera," by Granados. A double encore followed the playing of the last named composition.

The artists a the fifty-eighth musical morning next Wednesday will be Maria Muller, soprano, of the Metropolitan Opera, and Walter Gieseking, pianist.

PRESS 'INSULT' STIRS FLIGHT FROM TOWN

Attempts were made to burn the place, but they were unsuccessful.

Later several thousand Japanese paraded behind their nation's flag, demanding further action against the newspaper. After the parade the demonstrators made another attack, this time burning the newspaper building and the headquarters of the Kuomintang (Chinese Nationalist party) as well.

The Japanese consul announced he was unable to control his nationals and with the permission of the Chinese mayor he had asked for the marines. They turned the Japanese consulate into a fortress, bristling with machine guns mounted on its flat roof.

Tientsin, China, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Chinese volunteer militia bands all over Manchuria are renewing warfare against the Japanese, and the situation around the Japanese-occupied City of Chinchow is growing acute, Chinese newspapers said today.

Several small Japanese garrisons virtually have been wiped out recently by the militiamen, the papers stated.

Warning Is Issued.

The Japanese consul general issued a warning to Gen. Wang Shuchang, chief of the Hopei provisional government against continuing the anti-Japanese boycott. According to the Japanese military information bureau, Chinese boycott groups in the Yangtze Valley are holding up Japanese goods worth at least $35,000,000 in gold.

Tokyo, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—"Serious overtures" to Japan by the Chinese government were upset by Secretary Stimson's recent note invoking the nine-power treaty in the Manchurian conflict, it was said today in authoritative quarters.

Eugene Chen, foreign minister of the Nanking government, had approached the Japanese with fundamental proposals as a preliminary step to direct negotiations, these sources declared, and he dropped the plan as soon as the Stimson note was received.

Peiping, China, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Shanhaikwan dispatches from Chinese sources said today that Japanese troops were advancing from three directions on the Province of Sehol. They have engaged Chinese forces at several points, the dispatches said.

Hope of United States Help.

Nanking, China, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—The hope that the United States will take further steps to uphold the nine-power pact was expressed in the Chinese reply to the American note invoking that treaty, it was learned today.

China declared her willingness to cooperate with the American Government in upholding the treaty.

Shanghai, China, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—The bond exchange was closed today because of great declines in domestic issues.

Meanwhile it was reported the government had taken strong measures to obtain financial help from bankers. Advances of additional millions for government use have been demanded, it was said, under threat of stopping interest payments on domestic bonds issued during the Chiang Kai-Shek regime, in which bankers are heavily involved.

Wrested From Germany.

New York, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Tsingtao, the port in Shantung Province which Japan has wrested from the Germans in 1914 and restored to China eight years later because of the world protest against its retention by Japan, is again the scene of hostilities.

Tsingtao was taken by Germany in 1898 following the murder of two German missionaries in Shantung Province. In addition to the city, with its wonderful harbor, Germany acquired a lease of 117 square miles of territory, including mountains overlooking the bay, upon which the Germans erected extensive fortifications.

This base of operations, which was Germany's challenge to the British stronghold further north on the Shantung coast at Wei Hai-Wei, was Germany's only base of operations in the Orient. Japan's reduction of this fortress was the first Japanese activity in the great war. Tsingtao is the most beautiful summer resort in China.

(Associated Press.)

China's reply to Secretary Stimson's note to the Nanking and Tokyo governments warning them on American rights in the Manchurian dispute was received late yesterday by the State Department. It came through the American consulate general at Nanking and will be made public today.

MARRIED

ELSIE JANIS.

FIRST LADY RECEIVES FEDERATION WOMEN

Clubs' Directors Will Study Home Ownership Problems Today.

Mrs. Hoover late yesterday afternoon received more than 100 members of the board of directors of the General Federation of Women's Clubs at the White House. The reception was held at 5:15 o'clock and followed an afternoon meeting in which a report was made on the organization's petition for world disarmament.

Routine reports occupied the session last night, and during the evening it was announced that Hot Springs, Ark., had joined Chicago, Omaha and Richmond in seeking the 1933 convention of the general federation. No decision will be made on the convention city until the 1932 convention in Seattle in June.

Today the directors will give their attention to the President's Conference on Home Building and Home Ownership. Speakers will include Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, and Miss Harlean Jeans. Tonight the board members will be guests of honor at a dinner to be given by the Cameron Club in Alexandria.

Mrs. Ben Hooper, of Oshkosh, Wis., made the reports on the "petitions campaign" which secured 150,000 signatures of clubwomen to the petition for disarmament to be presented at the disarmament conference in Geneva next month.

ELSIE JANIS BRIDE OF CALIFORNIAN, 26

Famous Actress Married to Young Business Man on New Year's Eve.

Tarrytown, N. Y., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Elsie Janis, brightener of the rainy days of '18 in France, who mimicked her way to fame as a child and remained single for 42 years, is married. She was married on New Year's Eve to Gilbert Wilson, 26, Los Angeles business man.

The ceremony was performed by Police Judge Daniel Dwyer in the office of Mayor Eugene H. Lehman, of Tarrytown. It was Lehman who revealed it today.

"I've never had a husband and he has never had a wife, so we both can start from scratch," the dancer-singer said at her home.

Her "Debut in Matrimony."

"This being my debut on the stage of matrimony, some may wonder why I took a husband 16 years younger than myself. Well, I've never had a child. Now I have a husband and now I can hope to have a child. And don't forget, I was married before leap year."

Throughout her long musical comedy and vaudeville career here and abroad, Miss Janis always was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Josephine E. Bierbower, who died in July, 1930. They were never separated one day in their lives, Miss Janis once said. She nodded once toward her mother and said to a backstage visitor:

"There's the reason why I've never been married. My mother has always meant so much to me and has taken such good care of me and babied me, that I could not bear to leave her—to take care of some—sap. I like to be the cuddled darling myself."

Family Friends of McKinley.

For several years Miss Janis has lived at Philipse Manor, which dates back to 1699. She was born in Delaware, Ohio. At 3 she began imitating the noises made by everything from trains to birds and beetles.

Her parents were friends of President McKinley. With her they visited the White House on Christmas, 1899, and there she entertained the President, his family, members of his Cabinet and her own great-uncle, Senator Cockrell, of Missouri. The President suggested she would do well in vaudeville. She soon became a vaudeville headliner and at the age of 14 was a Broadway star.

Her name and her face, her cheery comedy and her voice were known to every soldier in the American Expeditionary Forces in France.

PADEREWSKI TO AID IDLE WITH CONCERT

Will Appear Here on Jan. 25 Under Patronage of Mrs. Hoover.

Paderewski, the world-famous Polish pianist and statesman, will be presented in concert at Constitution Hall on Monday evening, January 25, at 8:30 o'clock under the patronage of Mrs. Herbert Hoover for the benefit of the unemployment fund of the American Red Cross, according to an announcement just issued by Mrs. Wilson-Greene, prominent Washington concert impresario, who will manage the concert locally on behalf of Mrs. Hoover.

The Washington concert by Paderewski is the first of a series of five concerts he will give throughout the United States in recognition of the generous response of the American people in war time to the needs of the Polish population, a relief work largely administered by the American Red Cross.

Funds thus obtained, it was stated yesterday by James K. McClintock vice chairman in charge of finance for the Red Cross, will be placed in a special fund and administered at the discretion of the Red Cross to relieve distress growing out of unemployment in various American cities. Such conditions will be met from the fund, insofar as the money permits, wherever conditions require it, Mr. McClintock stated.

Mr. Paderewski reached New York several days ago to begin his eighteenth tour of the United States. He will remain in the United States only three months this season, during which time he will give 40 concerts. By a curious coincidence it is exactly 40 years since the great pianist made his first tour of this country.

NorthDakotaHeads Backing Roosevelt

Indorsement of Democratic Leaders Today Is Held Assured.

Valley City, N. Dak., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—North Dakota Democrats came here today for a convention with leaders asserting Gov. F. D. Roosevelt of New York, would receive their presidential indorsement with little, if any, opposition.

The party's State central committee, which met prior to the convention tomorrow, was told by H. H. Perry, of Ellendale, chairman, that delegations from 27 reporting counties were for Mr. Roosevelt. The State has 53 counties.

The convention will indorse a candidate for the Presidency, name national convention delegates, and elect national committee representatives. Selection of a State ticket has been deferred until a later meeting, so national affairs may have a clear track.

Capital to Be Host To Bar Association

Executive Group Frowns on Broadcasting of Criminal Cases.

Charleston, S. C., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—The executive committee of the American Bar Association officially frowned today on radio broadcasting of criminal trials. Meeting here, it directed its committee on professional ethics to discipline any judge who is a member of the association and permits broadcasting of a trial.

The subcommittee on professional ethics also was directed to study and recommend means of stopping the practice by news photographers of taking pictures of the principals in trials while the trials are in progress.

A committee headed by Edgar B. Tolman, of Chicago, was appointed to seek a national charter for the association. Washington was selected for the spring meeting, to be held May 2-4.

The affirmative was argued by Miss Ruth King Molyneaux and Phillip Herrick, and the negative side was taken by Miss Louise Falligant and George Harvey.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

SINCE the success of his only excursion into the intricacies of the Hollywood studios, which took tangible form in the release of "Way Back Home," a talking picture that enjoyed prosperous runs throughout the country, it should be of added interest to Washingtonians that Seth Parker, in the person of Phillips Lord, is to return with his company in the flesh for a single performance in Constitution Hall on Friday night, January 29.

As on the previous occasions of Mr. Lord's record-breaking appearances in the Capital, this prospective visit will be at the behest, and for the benefit, of the Central Union Mission.

Speaking of the Central Union Mission, it is not often that stage acts take the trouble to visit this helpful institution for the sole purpose of bringing a little cheer into the lives of those who have come upon hard times and find little enough in life to rejoice over. While it is a noble thing to bring joyous amusement to those who have become casualties of the battlefield, it is no less commendabe to give similar thought occasionally to the casualties of peace.

It would be just the sort of kindly act that you would expect of as friendly and inspiriting a comedian as Johnny Perkins, whose engagement at RKO-Keith's ends tonight, to do something like this. And he did.

On Tuesday morning, Johnny Perkins, under the guidance of Manager Francis Hardie Meakin, and with Lucille Neal, of the Three Neal Sisters, on the same bill, as accompanist, hied him to the mission and there put on a show for the down-and-outers, seeking succor from the ravages of the depression, that they will remember as long as they live. Songs, stories, wisecracks, bits of dancing, optimism and a world of encouragement for those to whom things just now look black, at welled up from the ebullient Perkins personality with a gayety, a spontaneity and a heartening effect that the eagerness of his audience probably heightened to a considerably higher degree than any theater audience of cash customers ever possibly could do.

This thoughtful gesture on Johnny Perkins' part only serves as corroboration of the impression he creates across the footlights. There is an honest, enlivening good humor about everything that Johnny says and does that is as wholesome as it is contagious.

He strikes me as being the sort of chap who would get as big a kick out of an adventure in kindliness of this kind as the poor unfortunates who, for the moment, at least, reveled in his fun.

Of course it would happen that within 24 hours of our having gone to some length to explain that the new musicalized version of Jane Cowl's former stage success, "Smilin' Through," would be spelled "Smiling," with the "g," Vincent Youmans, the composer and producer of the piece in the form of an operetta, would go and change its name completely!

"Smiling Through" was baptized anew in Pittsburgh last night and now, henceforth and forever—or until Mr. Youmans changes his mind again—will be known by the title of "Love Is All."

"Love Is All."—but a bachelor wouldn't know about that—then, will open at the National Theater next Monday night, with Norma Terris the stellar member of a cast that also includes Ada-May and numerous others of note. So pretentious is the musical treatment of the Jane Cowl-Jane Murfin opus that an orchestra of some 35 or 40 will be required to do justice to Mr. Youmans' richly orchestrated score.

David Wallace and Al Butler, two scrivening gentlemen, who devote their literary talents to the furtherance of the theater, are transient visitors in the Capital as drum-beaters, respectively, for "The House of Connelly," to be presented by the Group Theater at the National week after next, and "The Student Prince," to be presented at the Belasco by the Shuberts, ditto. Genial lads both.

The National Symphony Orchestra of Washington, D. C., Hans Kindler, conductor, will give its fourth concert for children and young people in Central High School Auditorium, Thirteenth and Clifton streets, this afternoon at 4 o'clock, with Mr. Kindler conducting.

There will be a surprise element offered in the form of a bagpipe number by James Garrlock, a North of Scotland piper, but the number itself and its relation to the program will not be made known until the concert is given.

La Argentina, Spain's primera ballerina, who has just launched her fourth transcontinental tour of the United States with a brilliant recital series in New York, will be seen for the first and only time in Washington this season at the National Theater tomorrow afternoon at 3 in a program of dances of the type that has made her famous.

Owing to the abnormal running time required by "Mourning Becomes Electra" and its advanced opening at 5:30, La Argentina's recital will begin at 3 o'clock, instead of the usual 4:30 hour previously announced.

Reverting to the National Symphony, that a dmirable organization will be heard Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Constitution Hall in its fifth Sunday concert, when, for the first time, it will play under the batons of two guest conductors—Gustav Strube, former conductor of the Baltimore Symphony, and Kurt Hetzel, well known in Washington as conductor and concert pianist.

Mr. Strube will conduct only a suite of his own composition never before played in public. The balance of the program will be under the direction of Mr. Hertzel. Elizabeth Winston, Washington pianist, will be the soloist.

And Beniamino Gigli, first tenor of the Metropolitan Opera, will be heard in his only local concert of the season in Constitution Hall next Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. The assisting artiste will be Jacqueline Salomons, violinist.

Ruth Bradley, Chic ingenue-prima donna, and Nanette Dailey, one of the Columbia Burlesque Circuit's prize beauties, open a week's engagement at the Gayety Theater with the usual Sunday matinee performance, in "Flapper Follies." These featured femininees are supported by an able band of comedians and a fast-stepping chorus that is said to be the pride of the "wheel."

Another attraction listed for Tuesday evening of next week will be the Community Institute's presentation of Stoddard King, humorist and columnist, in a talk gayly entitled "Listen to the Mocking Bird," at Central High School Auditorium. Mr. King will offer readings of his own works.

Since you are so impatient, the batting order in the temples of the titillating tintypes, with sounds and voices, next week will be, as far as at present can be determined, as follows: Palace, Gloria Swanson in "Tonight or Never," and Loew's "Lights and Shadows" stage revue; Rialto, Una Merkel and William Collier, jr., in "The Secret Witness;" Fox, Sally Eilers and James Dunn in "Dance Team," and Fanchon & Marco's "On Parade" Idea; Earle, Marian Marsh in "Under Eighteen," and Duke Ellington and his band headlining the vaudeville; RKO-Keith's, Edna May Oliver in "Ladies of the Jury" and Koran, Charles King and the Diamonds Company headlining the vaudeville; Metropolitan, Lilyan Tashman, Louise Fazenda, Evelyn Brent and Irene Rich in "The Mad Parade;" Columbia, Norma Shearer and Robert Montgomery in "Private Lives," second week.

So I dragged the porch furniture out of the storeroom, oiled the lawn mower and got out my white pants. Now if the thermometer wants to go on up, let 'er go!

An Open Letter to Washingtonians

A similarity of names has led some of my guests to believe that I am also operating an Inn in Washington. To correct this misunderstanding, I wish to inform the public that:

I have no interest in or connection with any establishment other than Olney Inn (twelve miles out Georgia Avenue extended), Olney, Maryland.

Please do not confuse Olney Inn at Olney Farm, Olney, Maryland, with any other Inn of a similar name located elsewhere. You will always find the highest and best standards of food, service and home atmosphere and a hearty welcome at Olney Inn (twelve miles out Georgia Avenue extended), Olney, Maryland.

12 KILLED, 150 HURT IN DIXIE TORNADOES

Hundreds Made Homeless by Winds and Cloudburst in Wide Area.

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Twelve deaths and injuries to more than 150 persons resulted from tornadoes and heavy rainfall that swept the central Southern States last night. Hundreds were made homeless.

A tornatdo that dipped into Alabama and Mississippi brought death to eleven persons, ten of them Negroes, and a girl drowned in west Tennessee after her father's automobile overturned on a submerged road.

Nine Negroes were killed by a 70-mile wind that struck Moundville, Ala., leveling buildings and injuring a score of other people.

Woman Dies as Home Falls.

Mrs. Frank Simmons, a white woman, lost her life as her home collapsed at New Hamilton, Miss. Her 12-year-old daughter, Helen, was taken to an Aberdeen (Miss.) hospital with serious injuries. More than 125 persons at New Hamilton were hurt, 45 of them receiving hospital attention at Aberdeen. Doctors and nurses from Aberdeen cared for others.

At Faunsdale, Ala., a Negro was killed and twelve were hurt in another tornado. Much live stock was lost and many houses were destroyed.

Mary Lou Haggard was the girl who drowned on the flooded road near Jackson, Tenn.

500 Made Homeless.

Five hundred persons were made homeless by a tornado in the Millbrook and Robinson Springs communities in Alabama. Three Negroes were hurt seriously by the wind that leveled scores of tenant houses and cut a swath 200 yards wide for a 5-mile path.

Forest and Magee, Miss, reported property damage running into thousands of dollars, and at Jasper, Ala., the Walker County Courthouse burned during the storm, with a loss of $200,000. Eight inches of rain fell at Pensacola, Fla., the heaviest precipitation there since the 1926 hurricane. Most of it fell in half an hour and flooded sewers and streets.

Heavy Casualty Toll.

Columbus, Miss., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Twisted strands of barbed wire and homes reduced to kindling wood mark the patch of a tornado that destroyed fourteen houses of old Hamilton community, fifteen miles north of Columbus, late yesterday.

The debris was scattered along a path 200 yards wide for more than a mile.

The death list there contained only one name, that of Mrs. Frank Simmons, 48, but a half-dozen persons, mostly children, are in critical conditions at an Aberdeen hospital and scores more are under treatment. Ten of the fourteen residences were razed and the other four were twisted and torn.

The first indications of the storm was a heavy rain with wind of gale force. When the rain stopped, the tornado suddenly swooped down.

Barns, containing the greatest feed crop in the history of Hamilton, were scattered to the four winds.

Babies Blown 500 Yards.

Two babies in the family of Ed Hutchinson, a negro farmer, were blown 500 yards but were not seriously injured.

The tornado followed a road and as most of the houses were on the road, destruction was nearly complete.

Trees were scattered helter skelter over the community.

Shortly after news of the disaster reached Aberdeen, twelve nurses, five ambulances, six doctors and about 200 automobiles were sent to the stricken community.

All available space in the Aberdeen Hospital was lined with cots.

Leaving Hamilton, the wind destroyed several houses between Tupelo and Nettleton, and killed much live stock.

Cloudburst Floods Pensacola.

Pensacola, Fla., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—The business section here became a lake, at some places 4 feet deep, early today after a cloudburst turned 8 inches of water loose.

Most of the rain fell in half an hour. Storm sewers were flooded and many streets were submerged.

Heaviest damage resulted to streets paved with old wooden blocks. Scores of automobiles were stalled and some were submerged. Electric power was uninterrupted, but some telephone lines were put out of commission.

The Coast Guard was notified the American steamer Knowis went aground off Panama City, Fla., last night during the storm.

The Weather Bureau issued flood warnings for the Pea and the Choctaw-Hatchee Rivers. Flood stage at Samson and Geneva, Ala., is expected tomorrow and at Caryville, Fla., tomorrow night.

Directors Approve Giant Oil Merger

Sinclair Is Involved in Consolidation of Three Large Companies.

New York, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Directors of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation, Prairie Oil & Gas Co., and Prairie Pipe Line Co. today announced that they had approved a plan for merging the properties.

The new company is to be called Consolidated Oil Corporation. Holders of the Sinclair and Prairie Oil stocks will receive new stock on a share for share basis. Fourteen shares of the corporation's issue will be given for ten of Prairie Pipe.

Negotiations for the merger have been in progress for more than a year. It was indicated recently that an agreement was near. Balance sheet announced by the officials placed the total assets of the three companies at $532,516,622 as of May 31, 1931. Sinclair's total was $306,725,765, Prairie Oil & Gas approximately $90,000,000 and Prairie Pipe $135,000,000.

Peru's Women Get Municipal Vote.

Lima, Peru, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Universal woman suffrage, provided in a proposed article of the new constitution, was rejected by the assembly today on a vote of 71 to 46. The assembly also declined to grant the vote to women workers and students. It did vote unrestricted enfranchisement of women in municipal elections.

SCHMELING'S MANAGER CANCELS WALKER MATCH

Jacobs Sees Miami Bout As Failure

No Money to Be Made in Florida, Says German's Pilot.

Accuses Johnston of Discouraging Bout From Start.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (U.P.).—The proposed heavyweight title bout between Max Schmeling and Mickey Walker, planned for Miami on January 25, was ordered canceled today by Joe Jacobs, manager of Champion Schmeling.

Joe Jacobs announced tonight that he had notified William F. Carey, president of Madison Square Garden, that "the fight is off."

Jacobs' main reason for calling off the bout, he explained, was that apparently it would not draw more than $100,000 at Miami, whereas any title bout in which Schmeling participated should draw at least $500,000.

Jacobs Refused to Sign.

Contracts for the fifteen-round Miami bout were to have been signed this afternoon, but Jacobs refused to affix his signature to the documents.

Schmeling's manager accused Jimmy Johnston, manager of boxing at the Garden, of "throwing cold water" on the proposed bout from the beginning. "And," he added, "I'm sick and tired of trying to make a fight of it all by myself."

Jacobs explained that Johnston, instead of trying to develop interest in the fight at Miami, had "apparently a motive in hoping that he could force the same match here. I advised the Garden that I would not be a party to that.

Bad News From Miami.

"In the first place Johnston could not get the sanction of the boxing commission to hold the Walker match in the Garden. When I tentatively agreed on the match for Miami, Billy McCarey phoned me from Miami that not only was there no money to be made with the bout in Florida, but that the touch had been put on him so much there that he finally had to board a train for home, to make sure he had carfare left."

Jacobs said Schmeling still would fight Walker if he could get a respectable guarantee from Chicago, Los Angeles, St. Louis or Atlantic City.

Perkins Is Too Late For Miami Golf Play

Coral Gables, Fla., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—T. Philip Perkins, British amateur golfing ace, lost his chance to play in the Miami-Biltmore invitation amateur tournament yesterday, but he didn't know about it until today.

Perkins had been billed as an extra attraction as a field of Simon-pures qualified early in the week for tomorrow's inauguration of match play in the tournament. On his arrival this morning from Palm Beach, he opened up his golf bag, only to be informed that qualifying ended yesterday.

Tubby Price, Miami, and Arnold Minkley, Detroit, coholders of medal honors, will lead the first flight of play. Other top-fighters are Ray Kilthau, Great Neck, Long Island; Jack Vilas, Chicago; X. M. Hohlfelder, Cleveland; Tommy Goodwin, Palm Beach; H. B. Money, Wilmington, Del.; Win Day, Chicago; A. P. Lawton, Providence, R. I.; Gus Novotny, Lagrange, Ill.; Clarence Fisher, Wildwood, N. J.; Samuel R. Freeth, Hempstead, L. I.; Howard Tryon, Elmira, N. Y., and J. B. Ryerson, Cooperstown, N. Y.

British 11-Year-Old Skate Champion Here

New York, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—The foreign contingent of athletes, here to compete in the winter olympic games at Lake Placid in February, was increased today with the arrival of Megan Taylor, 11-year-old figure-skating champion of Great Britain, and six skiers from Finland.

Miss Taylor, accompanied by her father, will work out at the Ice Club before going to Lake Placid.

Bobby Jones Makes Ace, Second of His Career

Augusta, Ga., Jan. 13 (U.P.).—Bobby Jones made a hole in one today. On the 136-yard 14th hole of the Augusta County Club Hill Course Bobby drove with his No. 4 iron straight up the fairway, the ball landed 2 feet from the pin and rolled on into the cup.

It was the second hole in one for the Bobby Jones, who retired from amateur competition after winning all five major golf titles in a single year. His first one was made on the eleventh hole of his home East Lake Course in Atlanta in 1923. He is the only person ever to have accomplished the feat on the local course.

PENN BEATS NAVY FIVE, 27 TO 25

Mazor's Shot Decides as Middies' Streak Ends in Thriller.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 13.—Outplayed in the first half at the close of which the score stood, 17 to 10, against them, the University of Pennsylvania fought back strong in the second half to defeat the Annapolis Midshipmen in a bitterly contested basket ball game here today. The final score was: Penn, 27; Navy, 25. It was the first defeat in five starts for the Middies.

The game was replete with fast and furious work on the part of both teams. This was particularly true in the second half, and if any attempt had been made by either to stall or idle, it would have been frustrated. Though devoid of unnecessary roughness, fouls were frequently called by the officials. The Quakers were the chief offenders by reason of charging and pushing, and two of their players, Walters and Klempner, were banished for receiving the number of calls.

Mazor shot the winning goal in the last minute of play.

Accused Gridman To Sue University

Southern California Center Will Carry Treason Charge Into Court.

Los Angeles, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Declaring he was unable to obtain an apology from officials of the University of Southern California for accusing him of disloyalty, William Hawkins, substitute center of the Trojan football squad, has quit the university to carry to court his demand for vindication.

Richard H. Cantillon, an attorney, said he would file suit against the university charging either false imprisonment or slander. The smallest possible damages will be sought, Cantillon said, vindication alone being the purpose of the suit.

Hawkins submitted to confinement in a mountain cabin for three days prior to the U. S. C.-Notre Dame game, guarded by detectives, when it was believed by coaches of the football team he might be giving Trojan plays to the Notre Dame team.

John Vergez One Giant Satisfied With Salary

Alameda, Calif., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Baseball's tide of player salary slashes has left Johnny Vergez, New York Giants third baseman, high and dry—and satisfied.

The rookie, who went up from the Oakland Club of the Coast League last year to become a star in one season, will receive a substantial raise in pay for the 1932 season.

Vergez received his contract. He wasn't quite satisfied and sent it back. Charles Stoneham, president of the Giants, telephoned him from New York. Johnny accepted the terms and will sign the new contract when it arrives.

"I told Mr. Stoneham I thought I'd need a little more money this year because I was expecting an addition to the family. When he told me what the raise would be I could hardly keep from whooping. Mr. Stoneham said if it was a boy, the Giants would expect first call on his contract when I was ready to retire. I was so excited I forgot myself and said 'O. K., Charley.'"

5 Break Par In $15,000 Tourney

Morrison's 69 Leads Diegel and Sarazen by One Stroke.

Sommers and Guest, Young Pros, Close to Leaders.

By WILLIAM WARNE.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Old man par, even with the aid of his best defenders, rain and wind, was bested by three strokes over the long Agua Caliente course today in the first round of the $15,000 open tournament here by Fred Morrison, Culver City, Calif., professional.

But Morrison, with a par 36 going out and a 33 coming in, for a 69, was not the only one of the 89 professionals and 27 amateurs in the field to overpower the old man.

Leo Diegel, home pro and former P. G. A. champion, and Gene Sarazen, New York, who won the first Agua Caliente open championship in 1930, lopped two strokes off the perfect figures for 70s. Charles Sommers, youthful professional from Los Angeles, and present holder of the Southern California caddy championship, and Charley Guest, of Deal, N. J., clipped off one stroke for 71s.

Tournament Delayed By Storm.

The opening of the tournament was delayed an hour and a half when a squall swept up Tia Juana Valley early this morning to soak the course. While a visitor would be told here, just as he would in southern California, that such weather was "unusual," the fact remains that similar storms affected the play on the opening days of the two previous tournaments here.

After play had been started, another gusty shower descended on the luckless contestants, but it departed in 30 minutes. Thereafter only an occasional sprinkling, insufficient to drive the gallery to the clubhouse, bothered the iron and wood men.

Despite the soggy condition of the fairways, the greens were unusually fast, and the scoring much better than that of the two previous tournaments.

Well up in the list appeared two of the 27 amateurs, Johnny Dawson, of Chicago, and Joe Hunter, of Pasadena, Calif., who finished the 6,838 yards played today with 73's. Dawson went out in 39, but clipped two off par coming in, while Hunter had a 37 on the out 9, and a 36 incoming.

While some of the old timers, youths and amateurs were turning in hot cards, many of the top performers were doing not so well.

Mac Smith Has His Troubles.

Macdonald Smith, New York pro, who won the $7,500 Los Angeles open this week, found the muddy course much to his distaste. He could not do better than 40 going out and 38 coming in for a 78.

Others in the same class who did even worse were Craig Wood, of Hollywood, N. J., and Tony Manero, New York, who garnered 42s out and 40s in for 82s. Tom Creavy, P. G. A., champion of Albany, N. Y., took a 40 and 37 for 77, while Wiffy Cox, of Brooklyn, had a 40 and a 36 for a 76.

Johnny Farrell, of New York, one time open champion, made a sparkling 34 going out in the dampish morning, but blew up madly coming in through the sunlight to miss par by six strokes and take a 76.

Walter Hagen had 39 going out and 35 coming in, placing him in the 74 bracket. The Haig's putter was working, and he may be up among them by tomorrow night or soon thereafter.

Among the youngsters who acquitted themselves gloriously was a trio of youngsters from Texas. Ben Hogan, 19-year-old Fort Worth professional, Tony Butler of Corpus Christi and Dick Metz, from San Angelo, served notice that they might be in the money.

The coterie of foreign players, who enlisted in the golfing army in the hope of getting a piece of the largest golfing stake, did not do so well.

The field will be cut after tomorrow's play to 80 professionals and on Saturday morning only 60 profes-

AL CROWDER SIGNS 1932 CONTRACT

Takes Small Wage Cut But Promises Better Work at Start.

"GENERAL" ALVIN CROWDER, who, with Fred Marberry, is being counted upon to carry the bulk of the Nationals' pitching burden during the coming season, yesterday returned his signed contract to President Clark Griffith. Crowder won more games than did any other Washington pitcher last season, but he lost a great many early in the season and practically was useless until the schedule was two months old.

While taking a small salary cut, Crowder admitted that his work last spring was quite disappointing, but guaranteed that he will start off at top speed during the coming campaign. According to the General, he has been working out several times a week at his Greensboro home, has worked out a slight shoulder kink which bothered him last season, and is in fine physical condition.

"If I don't start right off winning you need not pay me at all," Crowder wrote the Nationals' president when returning his signed contract, but he did not include this statement in the contract proper. The fact that he realizes how his late start has handicapped the team and is taking steps to help remedy the situation is looked upon as cheering news to Griffith, however.

The acquisition of one player and the sale of two others also were announced by the Nat owner. The one acquired is John Boyle, a right-handed pitcher who starred with the Villanova University team last year. Two young outfielders, Tom Clark and Dave Banks, were those cut loose, this pair being returned to the Youngstown Club.

Eddie Casey Is Named State Boxing Chief

Boston, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Gov. Ely today appointed Eddie Casey, Harvard football coach, as State boxing commissioner. The term is three years and the salary $3,000 annually.

16 Davis Cup Teams In 1932 Net Classic

Paris, Jan. 13 (U.P.).—Officials of the French Lawn Tennis Federation today announced sixteen entries have been received for competition in the Davis Cup matches, major event of the 1932 tennis season.

Entries from the European zone to date included Great Britain, Italy, Hungary, Greece, Switzerland, Poland, Monaco, Belgium, Ireland, Holland and Czechoslovakia.

In the American zone, entries were received from the United States, Chile, Brazil, Paraguay and Japan. The last entry day is January 31.

COACHES' WAGES CUT.

Seattle, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Jimmy Phelan, football coach of the University of Washington, his assistants and all other employes of the Associated Students of the University of Washington, have taken 20 per cent salary cuts. The slash reduces Phelan's salary from $15,000 to $12,000.

STEELE AND FREEMAN CLASH

Mat Program Tonight Includes 3 Other Star Matches.

JOE TURNER, the old maestro of the rassle regions, has tapped the mat marts for three features tonight to be presented at the Washington Auditorium beginning at 8:30 o'clock. An advance sale of 2,000 seats augurs well the fact that the glower boys continue to hald a headlock on popularity here.

Ray Steele, one of the authentic crown princes of the guild, rates the final spot. He has been pitted against Herbie Freeman, and he has been given two hours to down the burly Jewish grappler. Steele was upset by Jim McMillen recently, but is justly held at the most likely to succeed Londos when and if the Greek is ever beaten.

Sandor Szabo and Jim Corrigan are second in the rankings tonight. It would not be regarded as much of an upset if Corrigan came through, so highly touted is he in these parts.

Towering Pole on Card.

The biggest man in sports, Leon Pinecki, 6-foot-8 Pole, who looks like Primo Carnera's big brother, is on the bill. He meets Don DeLaun, whose 230 pounds is just 56 under that of the Pole. It is one of Pinecki's first appearances outside of the New York district, where he has won every bout in which he has appeared. He is headed for a tangle with Londos in several months.

Pinecki has a reach of exactly eight feet. He has a 40 waist and a 52 chest, biceps 18¼ inches around, wrists nine inches in circumference and thighs 25½. The calf of his legs is 19 inches around, and his ankles 13¼. He wears size 15 shoes.

He is said to have difficulty in wrestling a small man, and the promoters have tossed him in with the biggest boys they could find since he was imported. He is about 35 years old, and last year was hailed as the best matman in Europe.

Ruth Contract Involved in Mystery

Babe Anxiously Awaiting Paper "Mailed" Yesterday.

Rumor Says Club Will Meet With Slugger Tomorrow.

By GAYLE TALBOT.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—The consuming business of Babe Ruth and his 1932 contract—and whether it will call for another $80,000—took on a mysterious flavor late today.

The Yankees said they had sent the Bambino his "bad news" along with other members of the club. If so, it should have been delivered some time today. But there was no sign of the vital document, and the Babe, when last seen, gradually was working himself into a fine lather.

"What are they trying to do," the big fellow demanded, "make me look silly? If they sent me a contract I would have gotten it by this time."

There was another and fresher rumor that the Yankees had decided not to mail the Babe a contract, but would discuss things with him personally tomorrow. They've been doing that in recent years.

"I don't know anything about such a meeting," Ruth declared. "All I know is they told everybody they were mailing me a contract. I'd like to see it just as much as you fellows."

Ruth Wants Another $80,000.

It wasn't necessary for the mighty man of swat to say what he hoped would be in the wayward document. He already has expressed himself on the subject. He wants another one calling for $80,000. At least, he sees no reason why he should accept a cut after the great season he enjoyed in 1931.

The way salaries are being whittled, however, there is a growing feeling the Yanks will make a brave attempt to sign their big drawing card at a reduced figure. Col. Jacob Ruppert recently asserted that no player ever again would be paid $80,000 a year, and so far as any one knows the Yankee owner still feels that way about it.

Two of Ruth's teammates, Lou Gehrig and Vernon Lefty Gomez, were reported already to have reached an agreement on their 1932 salaries.

Fitzsimmons, of Giants, Joins Star Holdout Group

New York, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Another Giant star, Fred Fitzsimmons, burly right-handed pitcher, today wired the New York Sun from Arcadia, Calif., he was not satisfied with the contract offered him for 1932.

Fitzsimmons did not indicate in the telegram whether his salary was slashed.

He is the third Giant first-string player to reject the terms offered him this year. Bill Terry, first baseman, said he would not accept the 40 per cent cut in wages in the contract offered him by the club, and Mel Ott, center fielder, also said he had returned his 1932 contract unsigned.

Dempsey's Return Positive, Says Sacks

St. Louis, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey positively will fight a major battle this year with either Primo Carnera or Max Schmeling, world heavyweight champion, and if he fights one and is victorious he most likely will take on the other, Leonard Sacks, Dempsey's manager, announced here today.

Sacks, here to make arrangements for a Dempsey exhibition bout, declared the former heavyweight champion, now in Reno, was "never in better condition," wanted it announced he is ready to fight again "without any reservations and would return to the ring in a major fight early this summer.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE holdout brigade among the big leaguers is adding recruits every day as the magnates put into motion their plan for a general reduction of salaries. At present an even half dozen in the National League are on record as declining with thanks contracts carrying lower stipends than were paid last season.

The list comprises:

First Baseman Bill Terry, Giants.
Outfielder Melvin Ott, Giants.
Pitcher Fred Fitzsimmons, Giants.
Outfielder Babe Herman, Brooklyn.
Pitcher Red Lucas, Cincinnati.
Outfielder Hack Wilson, Cardinals.

Of the lot, it appears that the three recalcitrant members of the Giants have the best chance to force the owners to raise the ante. All are integral parts of McGraw's machine. There are no substitutes for either Terry, Ott or Fitzsimmons, and New York demands a winner.

◆

The competition is so keen between the Yankees and the Giants for Gotham fans' patronage that neither of the two clubs can afford to allow their stars to slip from the roster as a result of a few thousand dollars in salary differences.

Another factor augurs well for holdout tactics among the New York players. The investment of the Giants is so great, with the overhead including taxes and ground rental of the huge stadium so costly that it is virtually impossible for a second-division club to show a profit, while conversely a New York team that is in a contending position for most of the pennant race stands to show a tidy sum net.

Hack Wilson appears up against it in his salary demands on the St. Louis Cardinals. The world champions are in a position to treat Wilson with great indifference in view of their well-fortified outfield, which comprises Pepper Martin, Chick Hafey and George Watkins.

To Bucky Harris goes the prize as the greatest of baseball philosophers. The Nats had lost 12 straight games on a Western trip in 1928, Harris' last season as manager of the team.

An inquiring reporter asked Harris what he thought about the situation. "Well, we can't win 'em all," said Bucky.

◆

Midget Wolgast, who showed fight fans at Alexandria the other night the several reasons why he is recognized as flyweight champion of the world is every inch a champion in the estimation of this department. Wolgast has everything, speed, punch, cleverness and stamina, although Billy Landers was unable to sound out the Midget's ability to "take it."

The Midget combines his skill with showmanship to please the crowd. At the end of each round he straightens up to his full 5 feet 2 inches and strides majestically to his corner as if he were middle-aisling it. Had he chosen to make it a fight instead of an exhibition, the fans would have seen a slaughter, but he gave them eight full rounds of show and bewildered Landers with a dazzling, albeit genteel, show of speed and defensive work.

◆

Landers' inability to land with the right hand that has wreaked so much havoc against his local opposition evoked a notation to that effect from one of the ringsiders. "Maybe he's left handed," replied his fair companion. And nothing can be done about it, as Webster would say.

◆

The Wolgast-Landers exhibition was the saving grace of the show at Alexandria. Promoter Frankie Mann has rarely dished up such a card of mismatched performers.

Young Billy Eschinger was the victim of a tough break in his knockout by Patsy Lewis. Eschinger was hit cleanly enough, but the blow became conclusive when he toppled backward and bounced his head on the unpadded floor of the ring outside the ropes rendering him hors de combat for several minutes.

Pegler Wonders If Miami Plant Is a Race Track or Just Another Garden Club

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.
Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—The descriptions of the new Hialeah race track at Miami have so much to say about the flora and so little about the fauna, that I can not quite make out whether Mr. Joe Widener, the proprietor, is running a jockey club or a garden club.

There are rapturous references to the warm, red bougainvilleas, the hibiscus and the poinsettias. I read of tropic isles in the infield lagoons, covered with jungle creepers and moonflowers, of 230 giant royal palms, which cost $10 a foot, of trellis work and arbors, festooned with exotic blooms, and of 260,000 square feet of sod, which cost 10 cents a foot. There are also petunias and zinnias and ageratum—or agerata, to use the plural—and I think if I were an editor fixing to send a man to Miami to cover Mr. Widener's horse-meet, I would meet the situation by sending down my garden editor.

This may be a good thing that Mr. Widener has started. The horse-racing business, especially on the winter tracks, is a racketeers' business, anyway, and infested by many persons whom a person of Mr. Widener's position and tastes does not wish to have any truck with.

One of the big winter tracks is owned and conducted by one of the great American bootlegging syndicates, and the instincts of the boys are such that they have been unable to resist the temptation to run four or five stables of their own horses in their own meet, a system whose advantages to themselves need not be enlarged upon. But the bootleggers' horse track has only the most perfunctory gardens, a sprig of daisies here and there and a few little messes of nasturtiums wilting in window boxes around the place. In any major league garden competition this horse track would not even qualify.

Mr. Widener, on the other hand, is in a position to minimize the horse-running at Hialeah and convert his horse-meet into a flower meeting, with attractive stakes for both professional and gentlemen gardeners. He could popularize this meet by organizing a window-box and rubber plant division, thus opening the competition to thousands of persons of modest means who live in kitchenette apartments, and there is no telling what improvement might eventually be wrought in the breed of posies.

Mr. Widener might as well quit trying to be foolish for me to continue with your club."

The answer was immediate and startling.

"Your letter received," Ebbets wired. "Am on my way to see you and talk this matter over. Expect me Thursday."

Benny was up a tree. His stock farm consisted of a tumbledown house, a couple of razorback pigs, a hound dog and little else. He scurried around among several friends explaining the situation and requesting loans of horses, cows, plows and other implements of an up-to-date establishment. One friend settled the matter by offering to loan Meyer his farm for the day Ebbets was expected.

Ebbets came to town and was directed by one of Benny's scouts to the "Meyer's Stock Farm." There he

Robins' Outfielder Tricked Magnate Into Salary Raise

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—The salary differences between Bill Terry and the New York Giants today recalled to the Sun the case of Benny Meyer and the Brooklyn Baseball Club.

Benny, a fairish outfielder, received a contract from the late Charles Ebbets in 1913, which he considered too low. Benny lifted in a small town near St. Louis. He conceived the brilliant scheme of making Ebbets think he was a landed gent of some means and had the village printer strike off some letterheads, "Meyer's Stock Farm," on which he wrote to Ebbets as follows:

"Dear Mr. Ebbets: I am returning my contract. It is all right and I have no fault to find with it, but I do not wish to play ball any more. As you can see from my letterheads I have gone into business for myself and as I can make much more money here than I can playing ball it would

Battalino Would Bet $10,000 He Can Make Feather Limit

CHICAGO, Jan. 13 (U.P.).—Christopher ("Bat") Battalino, the boy no longer recognized as featherweight champion by the New York State Athletic Commission because he failed to make the divisional weight limit in New York last Friday, is willing to wager $10,000 he can make 126 pounds, 9½ less than he weighed five days ago.

Pete Reilly, comanager of the Hartford, Conn., boy, today said that Battalino was willing to post $10,000 of his own money that he will make the featherweight limit for his title bout with Freddie Miller, Cincinnati southpaw, at Cincinnati, January 25.

Reilly came to Chicago to sign for Battalino to meet Earl Mastro in a return title bout, but the Chicago challenger, who failed in an effort to lift Battalino's crown in the Chicago Stadium, November 4, turned down the offer. Reilly then left for Cincinnati to sign for a return bout with Miller, defeated by Battalino in a title match July 23.

HIALEAH PARK RACE MEET OPENS TODAY WITH FINE CARD

Classy Field In Inaugural Handicap

Vanderpool Picked Over Flying Heels in Feature.

Million Dollar Totalizator Installed With Mutuels.

Special to The Washington Post.

HIALEAH PARK, Miami, Fla., Jan. 13.—In a colorful opening, tomorrow will offer at Hialeah the best program of seven races seen in years at an inner course, the occasion being enhanced by the setting in which the first meeting will begin under State law with pari-mutuels and the $1,000,000 Australian totalizer. This keeps tab on the betting, flashes the amount on the board in front as the machine gives a ticket it prints at the time of purchase, and when a steward in his pagoda on the lawn presses a button as the horses are sent away, this robot calculator will be locked and the totals will stand on the board for all to see.

Beauty of landscape and luxury of paddock, lawn and clubhouse will attract many who have only a secondary interest in racing, and the officials, from Joseph E. Widener, the head man, down to Mickey Brooks, the press-box manager, predict a new vogue for winter racing.

The fields are large and have class. The Inaugural Handicap, featuring the opening-day program, is worthy of Belmont Park or any big Eastern or Western track. With thirteen horses listed for this 6-furlong route, the Inaugural should be a hummer. VANDER POOL—beaten for the first time in sixteen starts by MABLA—FLYING HEELS, MABLA herself, JUDGE SHILLING, and others meet in this number, $1,500 added.

VANDER POOL is selected to win. FLYING HEELS may be the favorite, and there is a difference of only one pound in their weights. Both horses were beaten in 1:11 in their last races. VANDER POOL'S race was at Bowie, and FLYING HEELS' was at a much faster track, Belmont Park. VANDER POOL began his racing career at Miami as a juvenile. He is always benefited by that climate. He is not a sound horse but his last race, in which MABLA, with 104 pounds up, defeated him, carrying 126, his weight today, he undertook to set the pace, and the 22 pounds extra was his undoing.

FLYING HEELS could not have beaten MABLA on that day. It is believed both these horses will beat her in this race. She has only 100 pounds today. It may depend on conditions. The others have been working well at Hileah in preparation for the race. While MABLA is rated third, DON LEON is a fast horse, as is JUDGE SHILLING, both capable of making the others look to their laurels.

FIRST RACE—SONG HIT, which set a track record the other day at Tropical Park, stands out in the first race. He ran 5½ furlongs on a fast track in 1:05. DISCOBOLUS is rated next, with JILLION, winner last fall in the East, third.

SECOND RACE—Only a few of these have started under colors. Admitting more or less guess work, the Greentree entry of VELVET STEP and UNSWEPT is picked to win on workouts and breeding. MIKE REYNOLDS started two or three times at Tropical and is rated the contender. HILDUR ROCK also has run one or two races that would justify selection for third.

THIRD RACE—J. E. Widener's DR. SYNTAX was a purse winner in the East last year and he seems to have been well placed here. PLAY FOLE looks like the contender. UNENCUMBERED should show on Western form.

FOURTH RACE—BREEZING THRU appears the class and is selected to win, but PRINCE TOKALON is known to be in good form, having won a few days ago. The latter should be dangerous. MERIDIAN was third to PRINCE TOKALON and should show in this race.

SIXTH RACE—NIGHT EDITION will have DON PABLO to trim. NIGHT EDITION won two races at Tropical Park. PREPARE should get in the money.

SEVENTH RACE—BATTLIN ON, record holder at the other Miami track, should repeat his last race when he ran a mile and a sixteenth in 1:45 4-5. FAIR BILL, better now than in his entire career, should furnish the contention. SOUR MASH and TUSCAN KNIGHT will fight it out for the show end.

Skinners Seek Court For Tilt With Swedes

Originally scheduled to meet Olson's "Terrible Swedes" at Boys' Club Sunday, Skinker Eagle basketers, due to last-minute complications, have been forced to seek a new floor. After having apparently closed for the C street gymnasium, the District professional champions yesterday were informed that it would not be available.

Having met Frederick, Md., professionals at Frederick last night, the Midwesterners today were pointing for their Sabbath revenge game with Skinker's. Despite the heroic work of colorful "Ole" Olson last winter, the Swedes were upset in a spectacular performance.

Balko, Sprinter, To Go Into Stud

Great 7-Year-Old Colt of Mrs. Amory to Close Brilliant Career.

Baltimore, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Balko, Mrs. Charles Minot Amory's great 7-year-old son of Omar Khayyam and Zaru, has closed his turf career and been retired to the stud at the Sagamore Stables, owned by Mrs. Amory.

Balko, renowned as a sprinter of courage under weight, will begin his stud career on February 1, and will not be raced again, according to Bud Stotler, trainer of the Amory string of thoroughbreds.

In five years of racing Balko won $71,580 in purses. His start in 1927 as a 2-year-old was inauspicious, with but one victory and four seconds. In 1928 he won seven, placed in two and showed in one race of his 13 starts.

Balko had his best year in 1930 as a 3-year-old, winning six times, placing three times and showed once to win $30,700.

UNDERDUN, suddenly improved and benefiting through tactics of her rider, missed the early crowding, made the early pace under slight restraint, was headed when bearing out slightly at the stretch turn and, impeding RAVE in the final eighth, outfinished her. The latter, in close quarters early, bore in sharply entering the back stretch, came through on inside to reach lead at the stretch turn and held on well despite interference in the final drive. BUNYORA, impeded shortly after start, moved up boldly at the stretch, turn and went resolutely thereafter. COLONEL CAMPUS had a rough trip and little chance. MATTHEW had speed, was going well when forced back as BLIGHTER stopped at the far turn and never recovered. BLIGHTER stopped badly after reaching the final half mile.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BAG O' GOLD, $16.60, $7.20, $4.00; BEAUTY BRIDE, $3.00, $2.80; MARCELET, $4.00.

BAG O' GOLD, lucky at the start, but unable to keep up, gave improved speed after straightening out in the stretch and, closing with a rush, quickly disposed of BEAUTY BRIDE for an easy win. The latter had a slight advantage at the start, was much used racing NEWBURGER into submission and weakened badly after drawing in to clear command in the stretch. MARCELET saved ground after a quarter, held on with determination. NEWBURGER had speed under energetic riding, but tired badly in the last three sixteenths. MUST HURRY had no mishap. FORTUNA MIA and VAIN GLORY broke in a tangle.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $600; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start bad. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:05. Off at 3:06. Winner, Mrs. D. Levy's ch. f. (3), by Boniface—Patchwork. Trained by G. R. Yeargin. Value to winner, $425; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:25 2-5, 0:51 2-5, 1:18 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PIECEMEAL, $4.20, $3.00, $2.60; MOTIVE, $4.00, $2.80; MAYETTA, $5.40.

PIECEMEAL cantered off three-sixteenths before reaching the post, where he was very fractious, obtained an advantage in the start, was headed briefly at the far turn and, after easily regaining command at the turn, won thereafter. MOTIVE, under a hustling ride, worked her way to the lead, suffered slightly when the winner came over at the turn and, while no match for the winner, held on well. MAYETTA, a prominent factor from the start, weakened near end and, swerving badly, impeded BEGGAR LADY. SUN BONNY raced well. BEGGAR LADY began in a tangle, saved ground and was going well when blocked near the end. FRED AUERBACH quit.

FOURTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $600; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 3:36½. Off at 3:38. Winner, Mrs. L. M. Two-dollar mutuels paid—OLD BILL, $5.40, $3.60, $2.40; SPANFLOW, $5.60, $3.00; SETH'S BALLOT, $2.60.

OLD BILL broke well, top from the rail position, drew away to formidable lead in racing THOMAS SETH into submission, but had to be ridden out to hold SPANFLOW safe in the stretch. The latter, away last and a trailer for six furlongs, moved up fast on the far turn to reach a contending position and held on well in drive. SETH'S BALLOT came with a rush from far back entering the stretch and was going fastest at the end. STUPENDOUS tired after being a keen factor at the six furlong pole. SWEEP PAST slowed in the stretch.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $700; claiming. Paul Hirtenstein Purse. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:04½. Off at 4:07½. Winner, W. T. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ESTIN, $12.20, $5.40, $4.00; OVERBOARD, $4.40, $3.20; MY HOBBY, $2.80.

ESTIN, going in his best form, began slowly and was widely outrun the first three-eighths, but moved up rapidly thereafter and, disposing of OVERBOARD after a mild exchange, came away for an easy winner. OVERBOARD raced extremely wide from the start, had good speed in the going, swerved badly when tiring, but was much the best of others. MY HOBBY, lacking usual early speed, closed going resolutely and wore down BILL ORANGE in the final strides. The latter began fast, moved to OVERBOARD weakly entering the stretch and tired, but the latter may benefit him. MISS ONINE raced wide. DOROTHY HICKS weakened. KULAMAN sulked.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $600; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:36½. Off at 4:38. Winner, J. C. Haggerty's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SURPASS, $8.80, $4.20, $3.60; BERNICE VAN, $7.00, $4.60; BOBBY POWERS, $5.00.

SURPASS, never far back and under steadying restraint until reaching the final half mile, slowly wore down BERNICE VAN and came away fast in the final fifty yards. The latter, leading on the rail, made the early pace under good collaring, came wide into stretch, and faltered badly after being headed. BOBBY POWERS, a strong factor throughout, raced wide final five-sixteenths and held on fairly well. ELEANORA M. met slight interference shortly after the start and showed an even effort. M'CULLOCH weakened. AUSTERLITZ was always far back. HAL RILEY dropped out of it, raced wide, and was never formidable.

SEVENTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $600; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:06. Off at 5:06½. Winner C. A. Bidencope's b g. JEFF O'NEILL, well ridden, and under mild reserve until reaching final three-eighths, came through on inside when heading PUNKIE and, disposing of the latter after a brisk duel, came away in the final stages. PUNKIE began fast, raced into command under restraint and held on stubbornly for a quarter when challenged by the winner, but faltered in the last eighth. EVELYN L. had no mishap. JAMES M. closed boldly.

ESTIN LANDS JEFFERSON FEATURE

9-Year-Old Gelding Beats Overboard by 2 Lengths.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—The Paul Hirtenstein Purse, fifth race and feature event of the Jefferson Park card today, went to Estin, W. T. Perry's 9-year-old black gelding. Estin came fast in the stretch to win by two lengths from Overboard, E. D. Slavin's 5-year-old gelding, with the Southland Stable's 6-year-old Mi Hobby third.

The race was at 6 furlongs for 3-year-olds and upward, $700 claiming.

The daily double paid off $43.80 for $2 to the holders of tickets on Bag O'Gold and Piece Meal, winners of the second and third events.

Tropical Park Closing Feature to Felaxe.

Tropical Park, Fla., Jan. 13 (A.P.). A large crowd visited the local course today to bid adios to the Gables Racing Association plant until the ponies return to this point next spring. The Coconut Grove Claiming Purse, 7-furlong affair for 3-year-olds, featured the closing program and Hank Mills, apprentice jockey sensation, was largely instrumental in the victory of J. H. Johnson's Felaxe, which beat Captain Ed by a length and a half. Third money went to Ever Faithful, which lost the place by a head. Lady Blue, favorite, was fourth.

The winner paid $9.80 for two and covered the distance in 1:26 4-5. The victory was No. 27 for Master Mills at the meeting.

Port O' Play is Winner at Havana.

Havana, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Port O'Play, the Emerson Brothers' 6-year-old brown gelding by The Porter—By Play, won the fifth race, feature of an ordinary card, at Oriental Park today in a driving finish from Athol.

Less than three lengths separated the first three horses, with Athol a half-length back of Port O'Play and Kadiak in third place.

The contention was close all the way of the 1 mile and a sixteenth journey, with Honey Grove a factor in the early running. Athol led to the stretch, where Port O'Play came on to take the lead and hold it.

Maryland State 28-25 Victim of G. U. Preps

Leading from the start, Georgetown Prep defeated the Maryland State College for the Deaf in a swift-moving game at Frederick by the score of 28-25 yesterday. The Prep team had matters pretty much its own way in the first half and was leading 18-12 at the half.

The Marylanders staged a spirited rally in the second half and on several occasions came within an ace of trying the score, but the sharp-shooting of Allan, Stewart and Nee kept the eventual winners out in front. Lou Anberg, State forward, was the big threat for the home team. He came through with five baskets and a pair of fouls to lead both teams in scoring.

BATTALINO INSISTS HE CAN MAKE WEIGHT

Battalino is still recognized as featherweight champion by the National Boxing Association, and by boxing fans everywhere Battalino's willingness to fight and his five successful defenses of his title in a year and a half against Ignacio Fernandez, Kid Chocolate, Fidel La Barba, Freddie Miller and Earl Mastro can't be wiped out by an edict by one member of the New York commission.

Battalino's failure to make the weight limit for his proposed bout with Lew Feldman in New York was caused by a knee injury which prevented the champion from training, according to Reilly.

Made Weight Two Months Ago.

"Battalino weighed 125½ for his bout with Mastro two months ago and he has made the weight limit three times within a year and five times in a year and half," said Reilly. "He can make it again. He would have made it for Feldman if the New York commission had allowed him a postponement to recover from his knee injury."

RECORD SCORE FOR CAMPBELL SWEEPSTAKES IS EXPECTED

Pantos Ahead Of Top Mark For Event

Averages Better Than 133; Race Remains Wide Open Battle.

Scene Shifts Saturday to Rendezvous for Second Block.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

WITH a pair of dark horses heading the procession, speculation is rife among the duckpin fans as to just who will be on top when the curtain drops on the current edition of the Howard Campbell Sweepstakes two weeks hence. The unexpected rise of Louis Pantos and Paul Brill, the present leaders, to prominence in the bowling world leads many followers of the game to believe that even more surprises will pop out of the grab-bag. It is impossible to predict the winner. Many factors, not the least important of which is luck, enter into the proceedings. Raised gutters are expected to bring about the establishment of a new record for the tournament, and will also enhance the chances of the less favored contestants.

Consistency is the keynote of Pantos' game. He bears the reputation of being a tough nut to crack once he gets going. In the 1930 Campbell Stakes, he averaged 108.4 for the 18 games, spilling a total of 1,626 pins. Last year he improved on this to the extent of 98 pins, averaging 114.14 for the grind, totaling 1,724 pins. His average pinfall for the first five games of the 1932 event was 133.1, a terrific pace, which is 11 pins above the average winning score since the stakes were inaugurated.

Wolstenholme Won in 1927.

Glenn Wolstenholme won the sweepstakes inaugural in 1927 with a grand total of 1,844, or an average of 122.14. In 1928 Walter Megaw triumphed with a score of 1,828, an average of 121.13, and 1929 was Brad Mandley's year of triumph. He toppled 1,805 pins for an average of 120.5. Maxie Rosenberg won in 1930 with a score of 1,834, or 122.4 pins per game. Last year Astor Clarke established a new record for the grind with a total of 1,878, an average of 125.3. The average score of each winner since the inception of the tournament tallies up to 122.08.

It is not too farfetched to assume that Pantos will maintain a pace throughout the remainder of the stakes warm enough to equal the average compiled by the past winners. His biggest task lies directly ahead of him in the second block. If Pantos can keep his head above water in this second test, he stands better than an even chance of winning.

Paul Brill, occupant of the runner-up position at present, will pull one of the biggest upsets in recent bowling history if he hangs on in the second reund. A good duckpin roller, he is not blessed with a consistent eye for the wood, and in this tournament a man has to keep moving or be lost in the rush.

Pacini Remains a Favorite.

Ollie Pacini, who remains the fans' choice to win, is riding in sixth position, too close for the comfort of those just above him. Pacini's supporters contend that he has been hitting the headpin too consistently this year to be denied the victory in this affair. But Pacini will have to keep his foot glued to the gas pedal if he is to come out on top, for Hokie Smith, Bradley Mandley and Eddie Espey, all of whom are bad company for any one with championship aspirations, also are ahead of him and have signified their intention of remaining there. Mandley is shooting for his second Campbell purse.

Espey, the hard-luck champ of the District of Columbia, managed to place fifth despite a 99 in his fourth game. This lad seems to be jinxed in this respect. In the Dixie Sweepstakes he rolled a 98 game in the first block and a 99 in the final, losing a position among the first five. In the United States Sweepstakes he fared much better, but the jinx manifested itself in the second game of the first block when he rolled a miserable 101. If Eddie can shake himself free from the scrawny talons of this misfortune, he may cop the boon.

Competition will be resumed Saturday night at the Rendezvous alleys. The final block of five games will be rolled at Convention Hall.

GALLAGHER TO TAKE ON WEINER

Heavies Matched for 10-Round Feature on Tuesday.

MARTY GALLAGHER, the only heavyweight boxer produced in Washington who ever earned a national reputation, returns to the adjacent ring world next Tuesday night at Portner's Arena, Alexandria, where he will trade Everlasts with Herman Weiner, Baltimore slugger, in the feature bout on the Alexandria Day Nursery card.

Gallagher, sturdy as the Rock of Gibraltar, and about as fast, has been matched against a boy whose left is held in high respect in these parts. Weiner, in his last bit of knuckle swinging here, floored Reds Barry for a count of 9—the first time the Mohawk kid had ever been on the floor—only to have Barry stage a sensational comeback to earn a draw. They are carded for 10 rounds.

Schwartz to Take on Eric Lawson.

Billy Schwartz, Alexandria's pride and joy, will make his first appearance on a home-town card since the city went fight-minded, and has drawn stern competition. Schwartz is lined up against Eric Lawson, Norfolk heavy, who numbers the scalps of Joe Knight, Reds Barry and Billy Strickler on his belt. This is down for 8 rounds.

In the other bout arranged at this date, Young Firpo, Norfolk lightweight, will battle Patsy Lewis, Baltimore, in a 6-rounder. Two more 4-rounders are in the process of formulation.

NOEL HOUSE FIVE WINS.

The Noel House 130-pound court team downed the Athlisio five, 50-36, in a free-scoring game at the Noel House last night. Basson and Stasulli shone for the winners. The Noel House will play in the Boys' Club 145-pound league because there will be no 130-pound loop this season.

Hitting the Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

WITH a view to disposing of petty disputes that ever so often crop up, and of obtaining more cooperation from one another, the bowling alley proprietors gathered at Lucky Strike and formed an organization to be known as the Metropolitan Washington Duckpin Operators Association. J. William Wood, of Lucky Strike, was named president; Frank Proctor, of Silver Spring, vice president, and Hugh Crawley, of Mount Rainier, secretary-treasurer.

The most important problem worrying the gentlemen at present seems to be the raised gutters which have found great favor with the bowlers. The association will attempt to have all gutters standardized instead of varying as they now do. It will also act as a distributing point for bowling merchandise, which it will be able to buy in large quantities, which will mean a saving for the alley operators. Among other things planned is a luncheon, to be held the first Thursday of each month at which ideas for the betterment of the game will be exchanged.

The 1932 Star tournament was also discussed during the meeting and two important changes decided on in the manner in which it will be conducted. A handicap system will be employed, and the affair will be staged in sections, each alley conducting an elimination contest of its own, sending the winners into a grand finale. This will help circulate the money more freely and will do away with any confusion in the schedule making. Each alley will also offer a prize to the bowlers winning the right to compete in the finals. The little tournament within the big is expected to find warm welcome with the duckpinners.

Convention Hall sprang a surprise on the leading Hecht team in the Business Men's League when it took a 2-1 decision at the hall last night. C. & P. rang the bell with a game of 594 and set of 1,735 to trim Kanns in the odd game. Colonial Ice Cream tripped Briggs Meat for a 2-1 win, and Brodts received a forfeit from Fitzpatrick's Service Station. McReady's 140 game and Brad Mandley's 382 set topped the individual lists.

Results in section 2 of the North of Washington League last night, at the Silver Spring Alleys, follow: Silver Spring Firemen, 3, Southern Railroad, 0; Forsythe's, 2, Vivtor Flowers, 1; Swann's, 2, Bergman's, 1; Independent Oil, 2, Anderson, 1; Perry Johnson, 2, Langdon Mills, 1.

Forsythe's 1,718 set and 588 game was high. Almony, of Forsythe, had a 364 set and Fones, of Langdon Mills, a 144 game.

With an ease that bespoke of boredom, Marquette climbed up into second place in the K. of C. League by taking the leading Genoa team for the odd game at Convention Hall. The winners are now only a game out of the leadership. In the other matches rolled Champlain lost a trio to Nina and De Soto took all the marbles from Palos. Marquettes' 1,671 set and 567 game led the team scoring. Fitgerald, of Genoa, split wood for a 382 set, and McKeon, of Palos, marked up a game of 146 to cop the individual prizes.

Curtis and the Peck No. 2 team carried off the major portion of the laurels in the Georgetown Church loop at Arcadia. The former rolled a game of 130 and set of 358, while the team had a game of 543 and set of 1,585 to its credit. Calvary dropped the deciding game to Grace No. 2, Peck No. 2 whitewashed West Washington and Mount Vernon turned in a 2-1 win over Peck No. 3. The final match resulted in an odd-game victory for Covenant First over Peck No. 1.

The Five Greeks waylaid Lansburgh No. 2 in the King Pin Business Men's League and carried off a 2-1 victory last night. Chipouras shone with a game of 149 and set of 366.

Pan-American and Edgewood scored 2-1 victories over Rock Creek and Claremont in the Lawn Tennis Loop at King Pin. No startling scores were recorded.

King Pin dropped a heart-breaker to Recreation in a Ladies District League match rolled at Lucky Strike. The losers dropped the first game by a single pin, 511 to 512. The other scores were, King Pin, 498, 469; Recreation, 535, 457. Miss Isemann's game of 132 and set of 335 led both teams in scoring.

In another Ladies' District League set-to, Convention Hall rallied to win the last two games from a weak but willing Bill Wood team. The Hall girls' scores were, 494, 497 and 527. Mr. Wood's representatives knocked them down for games of 487, 522 and 510. Miss Minson's 334 set, and Elizabeth Yarnell's 136 game garnered the individual prizes.

All of the matches in the Amos 'n' Andy League were decided by the third game at Lucky Strike. Wildcat Wilson showed Van Porter a thing or two, King Fish finally defeated the Battle Axe, Brother Crawford out-argued Mme Queen, and Lightnin' speeded up enough to win the final game from Ruby Taylor. Hayes, one of Wilcat Wilson's boys, gets a free ride in the Fresh Air taxi for his game of 133 and set of 330, the highest scores of the evening.

Bonzai led the scoring in the Nautical loop at Columbia, as it gained a two-game victory over Potomac. The winner registered a set of 1,620 and game of 579. Purdy's game of 132, the highest in the league, helped no little. Thrall's 370 set availed Potomac little good. Washington, No. 1, and Drifters, No. 1, scored clean sweeps over Anchor and Drifters, No. 2. Washington, No. 2, was one game better than Team No. 1 from the same anchorage, and El Dorado put the skids under Colonial for the telling tilt.

15th VICTORY IN ROW FOR EASTERN

Emerson Institute Courtmen Beaten by 36-21 Count.

EMERSON INSTITUTE'S basket ball team played the not very desirable part of the fifteenth consecutive victim of Eastern High yesterday afternoon, going down before the leaders of the high school series race by the score of 36-21, after throwing a scare into the top-heavy favorites.

Following his customary tactics, Coach Guyon of Eastern started his band of smooth reserves, Hayes, Essex, Davis, Hale and Phillips, which combination established a lead of 10-8 at the half.

Eastern Regulars Rush to Rescue.

Led by Alton Rabbit, the only veteran on the club, Emerson took a 14-13 lead midway in the third period, at which point the entire Eastern team was removed from the floor in favor of the first-water squad of Waters, Courteney, Lieb, Kane and Zola.

There was little to it. By the end of the quarter, Eastern had righted the score, changed it to 22-16, and staged a shooting spree in the final heat.

TECH'S FIVE NOSES OUT GONZAGA

Russell and Thomas Star in 20 to 19 Thriller.

IN a closely contested game, not decided until the final minute of play, Tech High School's Basket Ball Team scored a 20-19 victory over a fighting Gonzaga Team in the Manual Trainers' Gym yesterday. Tech's second team started the fray but they could not check the smooth working Purple Team which was on the long end of a 7-4 count at the intermission.

Tech's regulars entered the game in the second half and promptly proceeded to put the home team out in front. Waverly Wheeler assumed the lead in the scoring with a trio of field goals.

Gonzaga Fights Until the End.

Gonzaga, with Tommy Nolan, Dicky Fitzgerald and Dick Hall carrying the brunt of the burden, dogged its opponents' heels up until the last second. Ev Russell and Knocky Thomas, however, prevented the I-streeters from carrying off the decision with their clever guarding.

Hyattsville High Wins From Alexandria Five

Holding Alexandria High's basket ball team to 9 points, Hyattsville High got back in the winning column yesterday with a 22-9 victory over the Virginians, in a game played at Hyattsville.

It was a highly competitive fray only in the first half, at the conclusion of which Hyattsville held a 5-3 edge. More daring shooting, on the part of Hyattsville, brought quick results once the second half was under way.

In a preliminary game the Alexandria High sextet avenged their masculine colleagues by downing the Hyattsville Girls, 30-24. Miss Bell scored 26 of her team's points.

Buster Sheary Named 1932 C. U. Grid Captain

Lester "Buster" Sheary, 21-year-old regular full back on the successful 1931 Catholic University Football Team, was elected captain of the 1932 Cardinal grid forces at a meeting of the lettermen of the school yesterday.

Sheary comes from Worcester, Mass., and is noted for his line-smashing propensities. He is a regular guard on the basket ball team.

St. John's Frosh Defeat Business

Stenogs Trail From the Start in Absorbing 36-19 Licking.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 13. — The Freshman Basket Ball Team of St. John's extended its unbroken string of victories today by handily taking the measure of Business High School, of Washington. The score was 36 to 19.

The young Johnnies, who were entirely too clever for the Washingtonians, early took command of the scoring and remained in front all the way. The Washingtonians made frequent line-up changes in a vain effort to check the locals. Butterworth, center, and Rose, guard, grabbed scoring honors for the Johnnies. Between them they accounted for two-thirds of the team's points. The Washington lads were limited to six field goals, so strong was the St. John's defense.

Friends Tossers Win From Woodward, 16-13

In a game featured by the close guarding of both teams, Friends School took the measure of the Woodward quintet by the score of 16-13 at Friends yesterday. Neither team displayed a willingness to try for points in the first half, preferring to hold its opponents' score down.

C. U. Frosh Defeat Central Five, 32-21

For the second time in as many days Central High School's basket ball team suffered defeat, bowing to the Catholic University Frosh by the score of 32-21 in a loosely played game at Brookland yesterday. Roxy Rosenfield, Freshman guard, topped both teams in scoring 10 points. He was crowded for the honors by Montague, forward, and Burke and Keyser, of Central. Keyser's work at center was outstanding for the Blue and White.

Patent Ties Census For Govt. Loop Lead

Patent Office's favored cagers tied Census for the leadership of the Original Government League, sponsored by the National Federation of Federal Employes, by defeating the Union Printers rather easily last night at Eastern High, 38 to 18. Each team now has taken three games, without a loss.

In another clash, staged on the Central High floor, Naval Hospital narrowly outscored Government Printing Office in a hotly contested clash, 35 to 31. The Investigation-Boiling Field go was postponed until later in the month.

STOCK PRICES JUMP TO NEW HIGH LEVELS

Better Market Feeling Aids Recovery in 2,064,840 Share Turnover.

New York, Jan. 13. (A.P.).—Securities markets steamed steadily upward today, getting their energy from the distinctly better feeling which has been creeping into speculative and investment channels during the past week.

Stocks made new highs for the young year. The improvement progressed healthily from the opening. Many leaders were up 2 to nearly 6 points net, and the turnover increased to 2,064,840 shares.

Industrial issues attracted the buying which had been absent yesterday. Led by U. S. Steel's 3-point advance, they advanced from a major fraction to 3, with strength particularly noticeable in the tobaccos which were inspired by the Reynolds report.

Oil Stocks Jump.

The chief repercussion from the Sinclair-Prairie merger, which had been hanging fire for so long that it was hardly news when it finally came, was a 19 point jump in Sinclair preferred; otherwise the petroleums were quiet. Coppers looked a little better as a result of somewhat firmer prices for the metal. Rails improved liberally, while utilities tagged after American Telephone's rise of about 6 points.

Wall street was interested in Secretary Mellon's statement to the House ways and means committee; banking authorities have long been stressing the importance of attaining a balanced budget with the aid of general retrenchments.

The Secretary believed it fundamental "that current receipts and expenditures of the Government should be brought into balance for the next fiscal year * * * so as to put an end at that time to any further increases in the public debt."

News Failed to Aid.

Once more security markets advanced without support from business news. Industrial activity is droning along with almost no pick-up so far evident, and steel makers are disappointed at the slow recovery in their line.

Iron Age reported current operations at 25 per cent capacity, against 24 per cent a week ago, but still held out the hope that late January or February would bring "a measure of seasonal recovery."

Wheat and corn gained small fractions, largely on weather news. Cotton turned strong, rising 65 to 80 cents net. Foreign exchanges were firm. The Canadian dollar and Japanese yen advanced.

OIL QUOTATIONS.

Oil City, Pa., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Credit balance, 11.80. Runs, 24,201; average runs, 32,909. Shipments, 72,380; average shipments, 46,902.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Cheered by buoyancy of the stock market, grains showed a late upward trend today.

One of the features which stood out was that wheat price advances took place in the teeth of European reports that Argentine wheat was urgently offered in efforts to dispose of as much as possible before British Empire quota plans curtailed shipments from nonempire sources. Also, nonchalantic advices to railroad officials indicated that drought in domestic spring wheat territory had been broken, and that subsoil moisture was now excellent.

Wheat closed firm, ¾ to ⅞ above yesterday's finish, corn unchanged a ¼ higher, oats ⅛ decline to a shade advance, and provisions showing a rise of 12 to 17 cents.

Handicapping the late advance of wheat values was the fact that export business in North American wheat today amounted to only about 300,000 bushels most if not all of it Canadian. On the other hand, an extensive cold wave was on route from the Northwest and West, with temperatures in some cases showing a fall of 55 degrees. Crop experts said that unless preceded by snow, the severity of the change would be likely to prove disastrous to the growing winter wheat of the Ohio Valley in particular.

Late Kansas reports telling of snowfalls had a restraining influence on wheat buyers. Another bearish development was a denial from Canadian officials that France had agreed to purchase 30,000,000 bushels of wheat from Canada. It was also asserted that big orders from France for wheat imports were unlikely before spring. While the New York stock market, however, showing greater strength than has been the case in a long while, wheat and other cereals braced up with a will, and more than wiped out declines which earlier had riled the pits.

Corn and oats were swayed chiefly by the action of wheat. Temporarily, corn stronged to the highest point of December 30. Rallies were promoted, however, by likelihood that colder weather would increase demand for feed.

Provisions were helped upward by grains, notwithstanding late downturns in hog values.

BOND PRICES CLIMB TO RECORD HEIGHTS

Advance Attributed to Plan of Reserve Bank for Easy Money Aid.

New York, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Bond prices climbed to new high levels for 1932 today, in a buoyant movement which brought an exceptional recovery to United States Government issues and added numerous and substantial gains to the vigorous railway list.

Strength in Federal loans as well as in virtually all other classes of securities, was attributed to reports that the Federal reserve system has decided to inaugurate a new easy money policy in order to stimulate business and aid the huge Treasury borrowing campaign which must be instituted in the near future.

The rail securities, at the same time, were said to have been benefited by reports that tomorrow's meeting of executives and union leaders in Chicago will arrive at a peaceful settlement of the wage reduction controversy.

While all Government bonds were up from fractions to 3 points at one time during today's session, there was an increase in offerings near the close and prices reacted somewhat from the highs. The entire Treasury list however, ended the day from 1-12 to 2-1 points higher and the Liberties were not far behind.

Most of the rails added from fractions to 9 points to their gains of the past week, and any number were from 4 to 5 points higher. Chicago & Northwestern registered debenture 5s took on the 9-point advance. The low-priced convertibles were among the favorites.

Some bonds of Baltimore & Ohio, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Denver & Rio Grande, Erie, Great Northern, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, New Haven, Northern Pacific, Nickel Plate, St. Louis & San Francisco, Southern Railway and Southern Pacific made spectacular advances.

German obligations of various descriptions were the center of interest in the foreign list. German government 5½s gained 2⅜, and the 7s 3 points. South Americans were strong. Japanese 6½s sagged, but the 5½s were up slightly. Oriental development bonds were up from 1 to 1¼ points. British 5½s were steady. Canadian bonds advanced moderately.

Today's sales were the largest since December 30, totaling $17,401,000. The advance for 60 corporate issues recorded a gain of 1 1-10 points.

Foreign Film Stars Attacked at Capitol

Dickstein Would Bar Their Admission to the United States.

(Associated Press.)

Foreign movie actresses and the people who import them got a dressing-down yesterday from Chairman Dickstein, of the House immigration committee.

"There are 1,000 movie actors and actresses in Hollywood who don't belong there," the New York Democrat said. "There is discrimination against American beauty and talent which doesn't seem to get the same break given to imported stars.

"Thousands have gone to the West Coast in the hope of getting employment, but they have been frozen out by a group of syndicates who make a habit of importing talent because of commissions they can collect that Americans would not stand for."

The committee is considering a bill to bar foreign musical artists. Dickstein yesterday introduced a measure which would extend that ban to motion picture and stage stars.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 163

Harris & Ewing.

BACK in the days when Theodore Roosevelt was President, athletics stood high in favor at the White House, with the President himself one of the most ardent advocates of all sports.

The leaning toward athletics extended into the members of the Roosevelt family and Archibald B. Roosevelt is pictured in this group, known as the Roosevelt team which played on the White House ground in 1907.

Back row, Alexander S. Witherspoon, now a commander in the Navy stationed in Washington; Scott McCormick, who lost his life while serving as an aviator in the World War; Marshall Low, Dean Castleman Paul, of the Dean family which owned the Temple Heights property on Connecticut avenue; Charles Edwin Lyman, Harry Morse, Theodore J. Moore and John Wells Bulkley.

Because his son attended Sidwell's Friends School, President Roosevelt consented to deliver a graduation address there and Mr. Sidwell in introducing the President said:

"One would scarcely look to the President, occupied as he is with the great cares and responsibilities of state, to find time to help the school attended by his son, but he has kept in touch with the work of the school, he has walked with our boys, invited them to the White House, and all through the fall had 30 or 40 of them playing football in the White House grounds."

BOWMAN ACCUSES BOARD OF WELFARE IN FRESH CHARGES

West Virginian Asks Wide Inquiry, Starting With Edith Riley Case.

REFUSES TO QUESTION WILSON NEXT TUESDAY

Three Cases of Alleged High-Handed Methods Are Detailed.

"High-handed" methods were laid yesterday to the Public Welfare Board, in fresh charges preferred by Representative Frank L. Bowman (Republican), West Virginia, whose resolution asking investigation of local welfare activities is now before a House District subcommittee.

Withholding names, Representative Bowman told newspapermen of three specific cases of alleged malfeasance of local welfare authorities, and said he knew of "more than a hundred more."

"I will not be a party to any casual investigation of these cases, that might lead to whitewashing of the officials charged," said the West Virginia representative.

He said he does not intend to question George S. Wilson, director of the Board of Public Welfare, when he appears before Representative Vincent Palmisano's subcommittee next Tuesday, but will enter "wholeheartedly" into any sweeping investigation undertaken by the full District committee.

Sees Conflict to Blame.

"We should begin with the Edith Riley case, and take up each of the many cases of neglect, most of which have resulted from conflict between the Juvenile Court, the Women's Bureau and the Public Welfare Board," he said.

Mr. Bowman said he had received information of a woman afflicted with a nervous ailment, but otherwise an efficient stenographer, who had been prevented from getting a job by welfare officials who interposed with her employer. They were said to have insisted the woman "should be in Gallinger Hospital." The welfare board did this after it learned the woman had been in conference with Mr. Bowman, he charged. He said the woman previously had received some aid from the welfare board.

Another case on which Mr. Bowman said he had received a report was that of a high school boy, who, he said, was placed in a house of correction by the Women's Bureau, without commitment by the Juvenile Court. He said this was done because the boy had "chummed" with another high school boy, who had stolen some money.

Girl Sent to Gallinger.

The third case involved a 15-year-old girl, arrested and charged with being destitute, who, with no other charge against her, was placed in Gallinger Hospital. This step was taken although the girl was living with parents and a large family, of whose "destitution" the Welfare Board took no notice, according to information Mr. Bowman said was given to him.

Chairman Palmisano of the special House District subcommittee started sending out notices yesterday to District officials, who will be questioned in the "preliminary" inquiry into the Riley case, beginning Tuesday. Besides Mr. Wilson, Mina Van Winkle, head of the Women's Bureau, and Juvenile Court officials will be called, Mr. Palmisano said.

TAXI ROW SENT BACK TO UTILITIES BOARD

Justice Adkins Remands Suit Because of New Testimony Introduced.

The taxicab situation in Washington became somewhat more muddled yesterday when Justice Jesse C. Adkins remanded the case to the Public Utilities Commission because of the introduction of additional evidence in connection with the appeals of the City and Bell Cab companies.

This action was taken in accordance with the plea of People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech after extended arguments by William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, in support of the commission order and by counsel for the appellants. Justice Adkins overruled pleas for a rehearing by the utilities body, however, and indicated that it is his opinion that the commission has authority to issue such an order.

The immediate result of the court's action is to delay its ruling for at least another fifteen days, as such a stay is provided in paragraph 67 of the public utility act, under which the case was remanded. The commission has ten days in which to consider the additional evidence and report back to the court.

While three courses are open to the commission, indications are that it will make no modification of its order requiring all cabs to be equipped with meters and will return the order unchanged to the court.

The possible alternative course the commission may take is to rescind its order, as the House of Representatives asked in a unanimous resolution, and permit the taxicab companies to resume their rate war until most of them are driven out of the field.

Should the commission rescind the latest order, it would withdraw jurisdiction of taxicabs, and the same condition would prevail as existed before the taxicab companies were prohibited from further reducing their rates except with the approval of the utilities body.

The effective date of the order has already been postponed for 60 days after the court rules on the appeals, so there will be no meter requirement until about April 1 in any event.

Beating of Child, 5, Charged to Mother

Policewoman Says Girl Locked in Home Had Bruises on Body.

Mary Williams, colored, was arrested on a warrant charging her with cruelly treating her 5-year-old daughter, Dorothy May Williams, yesterday when Assistant United States Attorney Michael F. Keogh heard witnesses in the case and decided that the matter should be aired in court.

Policewoman Ruby Brandt said that after neighbors had complained to her that the child seemed to be suffering, she went to the house and found the child locked in. After gaining an entrance she discovered that there were bruises and marks on the child. It appeared, she said, as though she had been beaten with a belt strap.

The case against Mrs. Williams will be heard in Police Court today.

4 NEW ASSOCIATIONS JOIN MAPES ATTACK

Total of Citizens' Societies Protesting Taxation Plan Mounts.

Four more citizens associations joined in the general civic protest against the Mapes bill last night. The organizations adding their voices to the chorus were the Parkview, Foxhall Village, Michigan Park and American University Park Citizens Associations.

The Foxhall Village citizens vigorously opposed any increase in taxes and reduction in the lump sum appropriation for the District. The resolution directed the president to name a committee to appear before the Senate committee dealing with the Mapes legislation.

The Michigan Park citizens "disapproved in principal the Mapes bill as an illogical and unjust tax procedure." The association urged that no action be taken until all information can be presented to the Senate.

The American University Park Citizens Association requested an opportunity to send a representative before the committee on the Mapes bill and of having representation there as a body.

Residents of Parkview also protested passage of such tax legislation without giving citizens a hearing or representation.

Former Ring Champion Held on Liquor Charge

A former lightweight boxing champion of France was arraigned in Police Court yesterday on a liquor charge.

The man, Arthur DeBeve, pleaded not guilty to charges of sale and possession of liquor. He was arrested Tuesday night, along with Alfred Holdes, in a raid at 1324 Nineteenth street northwest. Police said they found nineteen pints of liquor in the place. Both men were released in a $500 bond for a jury trial.

Woman Hit by Taxicab Is Taken to Hospital

A taxicab, backing from a curb on Seventeenth street northwest, near H street, yesterday knocked down and injured a woman pedestrian. She was removed to Emergency Hospital.

Mrs. Leona Sanders, 46 years old, of 728 Eleventh street northwest, stepped behind the cab, operated by James L. Desmond, 28 years old, of 1135 Tenth street northwest, according to police. She suffered contusions of her left hip and shoulder and a possible fracture of the collar bone.

A fractured skull and a severe scalp laceration were suffered yesterday by Franklin Bean, 50 years old, of 1109 Four-and-a-half street southwest when he slipped and fell at Four-and-a-half street and Virginia avenue. The man was taken to Gallinger Hospital. His condition is serious.

Drug Charge Holds Man in $6,000 Bail

Hand Accused of Facilitating Transportation of Narcotics.

John J. Hand, arrested early yesterday on two charges of violating the Harrison narcotic law, was released from custody on bonds aggregating $6,000 yesterday when he was arraigned before United States Commissioner N. C. Turnage. His hearing was continued until January 27.

A charge of facilitating the transportation of narcotics in New York is the charge on which Hand was arrested on a United States Commissioner's warrant. When he was searched, he was said to have had in his possession five grains of a narcotic, and a second charge, that of possession of narcotics, was placed against him.

Hand was arrested, according to the records of the commissioner, at 723 North Capitol street.

Machine Has Won, Admits Sherwood Anderson in Talk

Only Hope for Control Lies With Future Generations, Writer Says at Community Center; Discussion Follows Lectures.

Sherwood Anderson's fight against the machine age is ended, and the machine has won. The well known portrayer of American rural and factory life confessed his defeat in a lecture last night at the Jewish Community Center.

Once a bitter enemy of the machine, Mr. Anderson now sees it as "a glorified tool" that must be accepted; its challenge must be controlled or it will destroy the men who have created it, he said.

The only hope for control of the machine lies with future generations, the writer told his audience. Ideas that have never occurred to men must be developed by the young men, boldness is needed and a new kind of leadership, the machine must be made our servant, he added.

The present generation, Mr. Anderson explained, has stood still while the new world has been in the making. "We have been living in a machine age and thinking in a primitive one," he said. "The real test of American civilization is in the future."

Mr. Anderson read one of his new poems, in which he pictures an automobile traveling from Chicago to Florida, a machine now beautiful and swift that will eventually end in the junk heap.

He was introduced as "one of the most sensitive artists" America has produced by Prof. N. Brillyon Fagan, of Johns Hopkins University, author of a recently published biography of the author. Dr. Lewis L. Lorwin, of the Brookings Institute, talked on the machine age from a scientist's viewpoint. Discussion by members of the audience followed.

WEATHER RESEARCH DESCRIBED TO CLUBS

Smithsonian Secretary Tells Guests of Rotary About Prediction Extension.

Experiments which have contributed greatly toward the possibility of predicting weather conditions months and perhaps years in advance were explained by Dr. Charles B. Abbot, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, before 500 members of Washington service clubs, who were guests of the Rotary Club at luncheon yesterday at the Willard Hotel.

The temperature of the earth, Dr. Abbot explained, is controlled by heat radiation from the sun, the variations of which are being studied by the Federal Government in such widely separated points as Chile, South America, southern California and Southwest Africa.

Recent researches dealing with the annual growth of rings in tree trunks have shown that these tree rings are related to weather cycles, Dr. Abbot revealed. Comparison of these rings in woods of different ages has made possible the building up of a chronology of early Indian culture in the United States, dating back to the year 700, he said.

Dr. Abbot was introduced by Col. William O. Tufts.

Clara D. Noyes, director of the nursing service of the Red Cross, and Mrs. Pearl Oldfield, United States representative from Arkansas, are also expected to attend the dinner, which will be given at the Dodge Hotel.

Holland, of the Washington State College, is president of the Land Grant College Association and Thomas P. Cooper, of the University of Kentuck, is secretary-treasurer. J. H. Upham, president of Miami University, Ohio, is head of the Association of Universities.

SENATE PASSES ACT TO PROTECT UNIONS' LABELS IN DISTRICT

Bill to Admit Pay Patients to Gallinger Hospital Also Approved.

PORTRAIT OF COOLIDGE IN WHITE HOUSE ASKED

Another Measure Qualifies Assessor as Expert in Condemnations.

The Senate moved yesterday to protect products of union labor in the District in one of five local bills passed by the body before it adjourned sessions over Thursday.

In the same bloc of legislation were measures authorizing admission of pay patients to Gallinger Hospital, and qualifying the District tax assessor to testify as an expert in condemnation proceedings.

The union label bill, which now goes with the other measures to the House for action, would authorize associations of employes in the District to adopt a device to designate their products, and penalize all imitations of the device.

Labels Used in Open Shops.

Federation of Labor officials told the Senate District committee use of union labels in nonunion products is a common practice in Washington. The bill passed yesterday provides penalties ranging from $100 to $500, or imprisonment from three months to one year.

The Commissioners asked admission of pay patients to the Gallinger Hospital contagious ward, after they enlarged facilities of the institution to accommodate contagious disease patients formerly quartered at Providence Hospital. The latter institution declined to enter contract with the District this year.

The District tax assessor was disqualified by the local courts from testifying in condemnation proceedings, after valuations he placed on property were adjudged low by the courts. He appeared before the Senate District committee last week asking restoration of this authority.

Coolidge Portrait Authorized.

A fourth bill passed yesterday would authorize the joint committee on the library to purchase an oil portrait of former President Coolidge, to be hung in the White House. The bill would appropriate $2,500 for the purchase.

Another measure would authorize the Comptroller General to settle for $2,157.25 with the Potomac Electric Power Co. for making electrical service connections to the control room in the east bascule draw span of the Arlington Memorial Bridge. The company performed the work without profit at a cost of $4,092.10, and has received only $1,934.85 on account.

Test Cases Put Off In Periodical Drive

Six Dealers Allowed Until Saturday to Face Arraignment.

A test of the effectiveness of the campaign begun ten days ago by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover to withhold from sale here copies of alleged indecent magazines was postponed in Police Court yesterday when six dealers whose cases have been chosen for the test were given until Saturday to face rearraignment on new information papers.

Assistant United States Attorney Michael F. Keogh, in charge of prosecuting the dealers, consented to the postponement. Attorneys representing the six dealers said that they wished additional time in which to prepare motions for attacking the information papers.

The fate of 127 other dealers who were arrested at the same time awaits the outcome of the six cases. If the Government is unable to convince juries in the first cases that convictions should be found, the others will be dropped. It was said that the entire structure of the cases was dependent upon the results of the first group of trials.

Man Clinging to Piling In Potomac Is Rescued

After clinging for more than half an hour to slippery piling in the Potomac River near the Arlington Memorial Bridge, when he fell into the water from a barge yesterday morning, Julian Cunningham, 58, watchman for the United States Engineer Office, was finally pulled out of his precarious position by the rescue squad and removed to Emergency Hospital for treatment.

Park police in the vicinity said that a workman at the bridge saw the man hanging to the piling and immediately called the rescue squad. The workman's name could not be obtained.

Child Tricyclist Hurt by Auto.

Raymond Gasch, 3-year-old son of Constable Andrew Gasch, of Bladensburg, was slightly injured yesterday in a collision between his tricycle and an automobile driven by Herbert Wright, of Washington. The child was playing near his home at the time of the accident. He was treated by Dr. H. T. Willis for a bump on the head. Wright was not held.

'Bomb' Just True to Type; Woman Breathes Easier

A post office error in delivering a bulky package gave police some extra work and Miss E. Clawans, stopping at the Capitol Park Hotel, some anxious moments, it was revealed last night.

The heavy, mysterious-looking bundle was delivered to Miss Clawans and she immediately had visions of a sinister bomb plot. She went directly to the highest police authority and wasted no time in getting Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby on the telephone.

In short order a crew of policemen were on the scene. They gingerly took the bundle away and cautiously pried into its contents. Instead of a dread infernal machine they found only some rows of movable type.

The package originally had been consigned to Benjamin Bialek, proprietor of the Petworth Pharmacy, 4201 Georgia avenue northwest, who had ordered the type for use in printing display cards.

Miss Elizabeth R. Hume Is Wed to Frederick Hitz

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hitz, whose marriage yesterday came as a surprise. They were married at the courthouse by Justice Peyton Gordon. Before her marriage Mrs. Hitz was Miss Elizabeth R. Hume.

Marriage Comes as Surprise to Many Friends of Couple.

Miss Elizabeth R. Hume, a member of the staff of The Washington Post, was married yesterday to Frederick Hitz, recently appointed assistant United States attorney. The ceremony was performed at the courthouse by Associate Justice Peyton Gordon of the District Supreme Court and came as a surprise to the many friends of the couple in Washington.

They had kept their wedding plans a deep secret from their friends, and the couple encountered a little difficulty before the marriage was performed. They appeared at the chambers of Associate Justice F. Dickinson Letts shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and asked him to officiate.

Justice Letts declined, so the couple prevailed on Justice Gordon to perform the ceremony. They left immediately on a short wedding trip.

Mrs. Hitz made her debut in Washington several years ago and is a member of the Junior League. She is the daughter of Mrs. Rawlins Hume and the late Mr. Hume. Mr. Hitz is the son of Associate Justice William Hitz of the District Court of Appeals and Mrs. Hitz.

MORE CHEST DONORS INCREASE 1932 GIFTS

Workers Soliciting Special Pledges Report Total of $284,250.

Marked increases in individual gifts again featured the report meeting of the special gifts unit of the Community Chest campaign committee, held yesterday at the Willard Hotel. Among the featured gifts were those of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., which gave $25,000, as compared with $12,500 last year; the American Ice Co., which increased its gift from $250 last year to $1,500 this year; Mrs. William Corcoran Eustis, whose gift of $6,000 was $1,000 above her gift last year, and Mrs. Frederic A. Keep, who gave $6,000 this year, as compared to a $5,000 gift last year.

Newbold Noyes, captain of one of the special gift unit teams, elicted a storm of applause when he announced that one contributor who desired to remain anonymous and who had already given $7,500, an increase of $5,000 over last year's gift, had expessed a desire to give to the District of Columbia committee on employment, and when informed that the committee was already a part of the Chest, had promptly increased her gift another $5,000. Oscar Leonard, executive secretary of the Jewish Welfare Federation, recited a typical case.

Totals reported yesterday were 95 gifts, amounting to $129,625, which, added to the 94 gifts, totaling $154,625 reported Monday, brings the total to date to 189 gifts, amounting to $284,250.

Truck and 72 Quarts Captured After Crash

A light truck which yesterday speeded through a red traffic signal at Rhode Island avenue and Seventh street and crashed into an automobile was confiscated with its load of 72 quarts of whisky, police said. A colored man driving the truck leaped from the seat and ran, according to police.

The truck struck and badly damaged the automobile of Karl F. Rhine, 34 years old, of 811 Allison street northwest. Mr. Rhine, who escaped injury, was driving north on Seventh street at the time.

Suspect Taken in Chase After Window Smashing

Using well-known football tactics, Policeman J. E. Jones tackled a young colored man early yesterday morning, bringing a two-block chase to an abrupt halt. The man is alleged to have smashed a plate glass window of the Franc jewelry store at Seventh and G streets northwest.

The reported window smasher, James R. Anderson, 23, of 1837 T street northwest, was taken to the First Precinct Station, where two watches were found on his person. He is being held for investigation.

TRIAL OF 2 POLICE FOR BEATING LAGS

Alleged Victim's Companion Is on Stand All Day; Attorneys Clash.

Little progress was made yesterday in presentation of evidence in the case against Policemen Charles R. Bremerman and Hollis L. Clark, suspended members of the Second Precinct, who are appearing before Justice F. Dickinson Letts in answer to an indictment charging them with assaulting Thomas M. Williams, 17-year-old colored boy.

Rudolph Truxton, colored companion of Williams, occupied the stand all day. Truxton corroborated the stories previously told by others, including Williams, of the manner in which he and several other colored boys were pounded with clubs, black jacks and fists in a locker room at the Second Precinct Station last June.

Defense Attorneys James A O'Shea and John H. Burnett fenced with the prosecutors, William A. Gallagher and John R. Fitzpatrick, throughout the day, each side fighting for every advantage.

The two policemen were included in the list of nineteen indicted for alleged brutality after an investigation of third degree methods in the department by agents of the Department of Justice. Thus far four cases have been tried, and four men have been found guilty. They are James Mostyn, William R. Laflin, Vivian H. Landrum and Robert J. Barrett.

Four others, John Sirola, George Sauber, William C. Grooms and William T. Burroughs, have been acquitted. Nine more policemen are awaiting trial.

Brown and Capper Study Mapes Bill

Procedure for Bureau of Efficiency's Analysis of Act Discussed.

Herbert D. Brown, chief of the Bureau of Efficiency, which recently undertook a study of the Mapes District taxation measures at the request of the Senate District committee, yesterday called at the Capitol to confer with Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, chairman of the committee.

With Mr. Brown was Thomas F. Murphy, assistant chief of the bureau, who will aid in the analysis of the bills to add $2,000,000 to the District tax burden, by inheritance, income, gasoline, and automobile-weight taxes.

Procedure to be followed in the bureau's analysis of the bills was discussed in a general way with Senator Capper. The House Mapes committee, which sponsored the bills and pushed them through the House, rejected the bureau's report on Federal-District fiscal relations.

HOUSE COMMITTEE MAY FACE BATTLE ON TRACK REMOVAL

Public Utilities Subcommittee Favorably Reports Bill to Revoke Charter.

MT. VERNON-ALEXANDRIA LINE TO SEEK DAMAGES

Gasque to Fight Company's Action to Collect When Issue Is Voted On.

A fight is impending in the House District committee on the bill to revoke the charter of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway and reimburse it for tracks now blocking completion of the Government's triangle building program.

The public utilities subcommittee favorably reported the bill yesterday, after amending it so as to relieve the District of responsibility for damages, throwing thus burden on the Federal Government.

Representative Allard H. Gasque (Democrat), South Carolina, served notice that he would oppose any award of damages to the company, now forced to abandon its electric line into the District, when the matter comes to a vote in the full House District committee next week.

Company Threatens Suit.

Meanwhile Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, prepared to consider the question at a meeting of his Senate District committee tomorrow afternoon. The Treasury Department advised him it will not oppose the amendment offered yesterday by the House subcommittee.

Gasque said he will oppose favorable action by the full House District committee because the company's franchise "cost it nothing," its tracks are old, and it has been operating at a profit for 30 years.

Gardner L. Boothe counsel for the company, said it will sue for $200,000 damages. Although it received its charter free, it spent $1,000,000 in laying its tracks, and paid one-half cent for every passenger carried over Highway Bridge, he said.

He told the committee the company will discontinue electric line operation into the District Sunday night, and beginning Monday will operate fifteen buses from Arlington Junction into Washington.

Appeal Pending in Court.

Unless the Commissioners permit them to operate buses up Fourteenth street to New York avenue, it will be forced for lack of revenue to abandon this service in 90 days, he told the committee.

He said traffic from nearby Virginia will so increase in the next 25 or 30 years, that members of the Park and Planning Commission have told him a subway may be necessary.

An appeal of the company for a stay preventing the Treasury from removing its tracks is now pending before the Court of Appeals. Mr. Boothe indicated $200,000 damages will satisfy the company, however.

The original bill, introduced by Representative Howard W. Smith (Democrat), Virginia left up to the Supreme Court the proportionate damages contributed by Federal and District governments.

District Opposes Payment.

The District Commissioners yesterday informed Congress they opposed any proposal which would make the District pay any damages for the removal or abandonment of the tracks of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway in Washington.

Reporting on the bill introduced by Representative Smith, the commissioners recommended deletion of the provision that the District Supreme Court shall determine what portion of the damages shall be payable "by the District of Columbia from funds on deposit in the Treasury to the credit of the District of Columbia."

The Commissioners further recommended that "specific provision be made to require the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway Co., in the event of abandonment, to remove its tracks and structures and to restore the highways and bridges heretofore occupied by it."

The Public Utilities Commission also has before it an application of the railway company to operate buses over the same route that its local buses now follow. The commission, however, is expected to make them follow the route of the express buses instead, that is, over Pennsylvania avenue instead of E street.

Children Flee Fire By One-Story Leap

Girl Tosses Sister Out of Window, Plunging After Her; Both Hurt.

Two children were badly injured yesterday when they were trapped in a blazing room at their home, 32 Myrtle street northeast. The eldest of the children, Annie Mary Walker, colored, 14 years old, tossed her 6-year-old sister, May Belle Walker, from a window on the second story, and then leaped after her.

Both were taken to Sibley Hospital. The older girl suffered a sprained back and internal injuries, while the smaller girl was hurt about the neck.

The fire started when the children attempted to move a lighted oil stove. Police said they believed the children could have escaped by a stairway, but that Annie Mary apparently lost her head in the excitement and tossed her sister from the window.
